JUDGE SENDS THAW BACK TO MATTEAWAN

Holds That He Is Still Insane and a Paranoiac—Recommends More Privileges.

THAW TO CONTINUE FIGHT

He Will Appeal Next from Original Commitment Order—His Mother Bitterly Assails Jerome.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, Aug. 12.—Harry K. Thaw must go back to Matteawan. Supreme Court Justice Mills, in a long decision handed down here to-day, holds that the slayer of Stanford White is still insane.

Justice Mills decides that Thaw is suffering from chronic, delusive insanity, or paranoia, and that to give him his liberty at this time would be dangerous.

Thaw's counsel, Charles Morschauser, will go to-morrow before Justice Mills in his private chambers at Mount Vernon when the formal order will be signed recommitting Thaw to the asylum, and, it is expected, will file an appeal from the decision. Mr. Morchauser says Thaw has one more chance open to him at this time, an appeal to the Court of Appeals from the original commitment made by Justice Dowling. That commitment, Mr. Morchauser maintains, was illegal, as Thaw, he says, was consigned to Matteawan without a hearing as to his sanity before a jury.

Statement by Thaw's Mother.

The decision of Justice Mills fell heavily upon Thaw's mother. She was informed of the unfavorable termination of her son's fight shortly after 10 o'clock, and was so overcome that she was unable to leave her suite in the Carlyton Arms. But at 5 o'clock this afternoon, after a conference with Mr. Morchauser, Mrs. Thaw issued this statement over her signature:

> Let no one imagine for a moment, on reading this opinion of Judge Mills that it means victory for the District Attorney of the County of New York.
>
> One by one the delusions with which he and his alienists started out were proved, each by the mouths of several witnesses, to be stubborn facts that would not down at his bidding.
>
> Every prop was taken from under that arrogant, vindictive persecutor of a sane, acquitted man.
>
> So baffled was he that when he rose to make his closing speech, (for argument it was not,) he had more the appearance of a schoolboy compelled to say a piece than the sometime courageous nature-sophist who dominates the courts of his own judicial district, except when wealthy malefactors are under trial.
>
> The license allowed him during the entire hearing to torture and insult in every possible way the man who at every turn showed himself reasonable, courteous always, even to his tormentor, appeared to all unprejudiced minds to indicate but one thing—to all it looked like the Judge in allowing such unparalleled opportunity for every form of brutality was actuated by a desire to prevent his charging, at the end, that he had not had every opportunity to strain to the utmost the powers of endurance of the man who was for the time in his power.
>
> It is impossible to fathom the workings of the human mind, and so the reason for this totally unexpected and cruel decision of the trial Judge must remain a mystery.
>
> Meanwhile my son, my daughter, and I have no alternative but to again take up the burden I had every reason to believe was behind us forever. We have exiled ourselves from two homes, and all the regular flow of life will remain close to the gate, and so help the son and brother to endure an existence which, if perpetual, would be far worse than death itself. Trusting in God's overruling Providence to in His own good time vindicate the right.
>
> MARY COPLEY THAW.

Mrs. Thaw still has a lease on the cottage near Matteawan, where she has spent much of her time since her son has been incarcerated in the asylum, and she will return there with her daughter, the former Countess of Yarmouth, when Thaw is taken back.

Thaw Had Expected Release.

Harry Thaw seemed to be entirely unprepared for the adverse decision. He told the keepers at the White Plains jail when he retired on Wednesday night that he fully expected to be freed to-day. He said he thought he had made a favorable impression on Justice Mills. When Thaw awoke he appeared to be hopeful, though restless.

Thaw was smoking a pipe when a reporter, immediately after the decision was handed down, went to his cell. When informed that the verdict was against him, Thaw's face blanched and his lips twitched.

"Is that so?" he remarked, as though in a half dream. A copy of the decision was handed to him, and Thaw read it as fast as his eyes could travel over it. When he came upon a comment by Justice Mills in which he said, "If those beliefs [as to Stanford White] constituted delusions of his mind when he committed the homicide they are the same now," a frown came over his face.

"That is not so," he exclaimed, and marked the lines with a pencil.

After he had read the decision Thaw declared that he must see Mr. Morschauser at once.

"Send for him," he said, addressing one of his keepers. He was told that Mr. Morschauser would call at the jail after dinner. Thaw gave an impatient gesture and went into his cell, telling the reporter that he would not talk until he had seen Mr. Morschauser.

At 11 o'clock, while Thaw was waiting for his lawyer, his sister, Alice, arrived at the jail. Her eyes were red, as though from weeping, and she seemed bitterly cast down. Thaw embraced her, and they spoke in low tones. She remained with Thaw until late in the day.

Mr. Morschauser reached the jail at 2 o'clock, and to the newspaper men he remarked:

"I am stunned over this unexpected turn. I thought Thaw would be released. I don't know just yet what to say about it. I want to read the decision first. One thing is certain—we shall not give up the fight."

"Will you remain as counsel to Thaw?" was asked.

"I haven't been dismissed as yet," was the reply.

Says He Will Fight On.

Mr. Morschauser remained with Thaw for two hours, and then called upon Mrs. Thaw. After the lawyer had gone Thaw said:

"I am disappointed, but I am going to stick to the fight. There is no doubt about that. I am sure the time will come when I can convince everybody that I am sane. I am going to take it easy and de-

HUGHES CLIMBS MOUNTAIN.

Makes Record in Time in Going to Top of Mount Sulphur.

Special to The New York Times.

BANFF, Alberta, Aug. 12.—A feat in mountain climbing that has never been equaled in this vicinity was performed by Gov. Hughes of New York to-day. He ascended to the top of Sulphur Mountain in less than two hours. He was accompanied by a guide and the two made no stops for rest on the ascent.

Mount Sulphur stands about half a mile from the Banff Hotel, and its summit is 7,455 feet above sealevel. The ascent is made by an excellent path cut through the forest, along which two can ride abreast. It zigzags up the steep side of the mountain with a fairl yeasy slope, and for the greater part of the way the tourist is shut in by trees. Every now and then, however, he comes to a point at which a sheer precipice falls from his feet.

At the summit of the mountain is a small meteorological observatory, which is looked after by the curator of the Canadian Government Museum on Banff. The summit is bare and the view over the wide valley of the Bow River to the Fairholme Range to the east and past Castle Mountain to Mount Stephen and Cathedral Peak to the west is exceptionally fine. The name of the mountain is taken from sulphur springs which have discovered on it, and one of its curiosities are the stunted trees which form its undergrowth. A full-grown elm tree plucked at the summit of Sulphur Mountain will not be more than an inch in height.

Gov. Hughes left to-day for the East and will pass through Winnipeg on Saturday.

POWDER TRUST GETS RIVAL.

Extensive Plants of Laflin-Rand Company Bought for $2,200,000.

Special to The New York Times.

KENOSHA, Aug. 12.—Deeds and mortgages were filed here this morning disclosing the fact that the powder mills of the Laflin-Rand Company, located in all parts of the United States, have been sold to the Powder Trust for a consideration of approximately $2,200,000.

The deed for the sale of the Pleasant Prairie plant was executed on June 10 and the mortgage, which is made to the Delaware Securities Company, was executed only a few days ago. In the mortgage it is stated that this transaction will wind up the affairs of the Laflin-Rand Powder Company and that it will go out of business.

The plants included in the sale are those at Pleasant Prairie and Platteville in Wisconsin, the Fontanet and Dorner plants in Indiana, the Columbus and Pennsylvania-Kansas mills in Kansas, the Paskel and Wayne mills in New Jersey, the Empire and Schaghticoke mills in New York, and the Nemours mills in West Virginia.

The tranfer is made to the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company of New Jersey.

$50,000 FIRE AT CLIFTON, S. I.

Chair and Upholstery Factory and Five Other Buildings Destroyed.

Fire at Clifton, S. I., in the Samuel Cooper Chair and Upholstering Company's factory, a two-story brick building, on New York Avenue, which started from the explosion of a barrel of benzine which stood near a heated vat, from which Antonio Darino of Rosebank, an employe, was drawing varnish, resulted yesterday afternoon in the destruction of six buildings, with a loss of upward of $50,000. Darino escaped with slight burns about the face.

The factory had not been in running order for about a year, but an addition was being built, and work was to be resumed shortly. It was for this addition that Darino was heating varnish when the explosion occurred. The fire spread quickly, and, although ten fire companies from Clifton, West Brighton, and South Beach, as well as the fireboats Zophar Mills and Seth Low, tried to check the advance of the flames, it was not under control until the entire V-shaped block between New York Avenue and the shore had been burned over.

Samuel Cooper, owner of the cane chair factory, carried no insurance, and his loss amounts to $37,000. Three dwelling houses at 47, 48, and 58 New York Avenue, owned by Philip Schick, a Clifton wine merchant, and two smaller shops in the rear of 51 and 58 New York Avenue, were destroyed.

SAVE SUMMER COTTAGES.

Visitors Help Residents and Militia in Fighting Maine Forest Fire.

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 12.—Scores of houses along the Pool Road, five miles from the centre of the city, were in danger to-day and to-night by a fire which swept over 500 acres of timber land, most of it covered with valuable pine growth.

Hundreds of volunteers from this city and from the Summer colonies at Biddeford Pool and Fortune Rocks assisted the Fire Department and the militiamen of Company G of the National Guard, who were brought into service by a riot call. They worked desperately to save the homes of farmers and Summer residences along the road, setting backfires and carrying their buckets of water to the roofs of the dwellings, which were threatened constantly by showers of sparks.

At 10 o'clock to-night, although the fire was still burning unchecked, all the houses in its path had been saved, and it was believed that there was help enough at hand to prevent any destruction of homes. The loss on the timber growth exceeds $50,000.

JERSEY RESORT BURNED OUT.

Fifteen Buildings Destroyed at Washington Park, N. J.

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 12.—Fifteen buildings used for various amusement purposes at Washington Park, a pleasure resort ten miles below this city, were destroyed by fire this afternoon. The fire started in the kitchen of the park restaurant and spread with great rapidity. For a time it was thought that all the buildings would be destroyed.

Fireboats from Philadelphia aided firemen from towns near Washington Park in fighting the fire, and after several hours' work the flames were under control. About 3,000 picnickers were at the park when the fire started, and a small-sized panic occurred among the visitors, but all escaped to places of safety without injury.

All the destroyed buildings were of wood, and the loss is estimated at $150,000. The park is owned by William J. Thompson of Gloucester, a well-known New Jersey politician.

HOYT, WANTED HERE, CAUGHT IN LONDON

Fugitive Real Estate Man, Under Indictment for Larceny, Forfeited $5,000 Bail.

SHOWED FIGHT AT ARREST

Drew Sword from Cane, but Was Disarmed by Lieut. Flood, Who Had Tracked Him All Over Europe.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Adelbert Eugene Hoyt, wanted in New York on an indictment for stealing, by check on the Chatham National Bank, $5,000 from Mrs. Julia W. Porges, and forging her indorsement, was cleverly arrested in London to-day.

Lieut. Bernard Flood of District Attorney Jerome's detective staff, who is here in connection with the Beattie extradition case, was recently instructed by the District Attorney's office to take up the case of Hoyt, who had forfeited his bail of $5,000 and had come to Europe. Flood was instructed to locate and apprehend the fugitive. He traced Hoyt to six different addresses in London, thence to Scotland, afterward to Amsterdam, Holland; Ostend, Belgium, and Dieppe, France, and finally caught his man to-day in the offices of the American Express Company at Haymarket, where he had gone to obtain a consignment of fancy traveling clocks sent from America.

Flood was accompanied by a Scotland Yard detective, who informed Hoyt that he held a warrant for his arrest. Hoyt had a sword cane with a heavy Toledo blade two feet long in his hand and he whipped out the steel as the English detective apprehended him. Flood wrenched the weapon out of his grasp and Hoyt was bundled into a cab kept in readiness for the contingency.

He was taken to the Bow Street Police Station, where he was held without bail pending the arrival of extradition papers from New York. Of his arrest Hoyt said:

"It is a dirty trick. I am getting an honest living here and they might have left me alone. While my case was pending I was taken ill in Europe and was unable to return to New York in time to prevent the forfeiture of my bail."

Adelbert E. Hoyt was formerly a real estate dealer in this city, with offices at 2,259 Broadway. He was indicted two years ago on a charge of having forged the name of Mrs. Julia E. Porges of 430 West 116th Street. Hoyt had acted as an agent for Mrs. Porges in her realty operations, and she charged him with forging her name to several checks and defrauding her of $11,000.

Assistant District Attorney Turnbull learned recently that Hoyt was in Europe and cabled the news to Lieut. Flood, sending him a photograph of the fugitive, by which he was presumably recognized.

HELD IN CEMETERY MURDER.

Farm Hand Suspected of Killing Miss Schumacher at Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Circumstances are somewhat against Edward Ewaldt, a farm hand of Greece, near this city, and a former employe of Holy Sepulchre Cemetery, who was arrested at his brother's home in North Rose late this afternoon and brought to the Monroe County Jail in Rochester to-night suspected of being the murderer of Anna Schumacher.

Ewaldt has scratches on his face, and it is said that he has told contradictory stories about his movements. He left his job at Barnard's, near the cemetery Saturday afternoon, and he maintains that he went at once to his brother's home. His brother corroborates this, but the police officers say they have witnesses who will testify that Ewaldt was seen later Saturday afternoon than the time he says he left Greece, and also that he was seen here Sunday and Monday.

It is also charged against Ewaldt that he was in the habit of accosting women whom he did not know, and that his reputation is not good.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The police at Ilion have a man in custody who may know something of the murder of Miss Anna Schumacher near the Holy Sepulchre Cemetery at Rochester. The Rochester authorities telephoned to be on the lookout for a man with his face scratched, and one of two men arrested at Ilion for intoxication answers the description.

The man with the scratched face said his name was Daniel Reagan, and that the marks on his face had been made by falling from a car. The buttons were pulled from his shirt at the throat, but his clothes were not torn. When Sheriff Klock questioned Reagan he declared that he had come from Troy, and had not been in Rodhester. To Chief of Police Beckwith, however, he admitted that he had been in Rochester recently.

FORTS OF TURKEY READY FOR WAR

Conflict with Greece Unavoidable and Outbreak Near at Hand, Correspondent Finds.

NOTE MAY BE AN ULTIMATUM

Chefket Pasha Cannot Calm Troops and Threatens to Resign If Present Situation Is Prolonged.

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—Telegraphing from Constantinople, the correspondent of the Tageblatt says that Turkey's answer to the Greek note will have the character of an ultimatum. He adds that the opinion now is that war between Turkey and Greece is unavoidable and that an outbreak is near at hand. The forts around Salonica, the correspondent declares, are ready for war.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Daily Telegraph's Constantinople correspondent says it is difficult to discover the influences under which the Turkish Government is acting, but that in military quarters the talk is wholly of war with Greece. It is asserted that the Ministers of War and Marine insist that war is the only possible solution of the difficulty, and that Mahmoud Chefket Pasha, the commander of the troops, has told the Grand Vizier that if the present situation is prolonged he will resign, because it will be impossible to calm the spirits of the officers and men.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Daily Telegraph's Belgrade correspondent quotes from a newspaper of Uskub, in European Turkey, an interview with Niazi Bey, the Young Turk leader, and the hero of the July revolution, who asserts that an Albanian movement is being directed toward securing the overthrow of the Turkish Ministry, which, he says, is proving greater incapacity daily, owing to Grand Vizier Hilmi Pasha's subservience to the dictatorship of Mahmoud Chefket Pasha, the commander of the troops.

According to Niazi Bey, the Albanian and Younk Turk leaders are agreed that Hilmi Pasha's Cabinet must make way for able and energetic members of the Central Committee at Salonica.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 12.—The Porte has decided to address a more energetic note to Greece, in which it will be stated that Greece's reply to the Turkish note concerning Crete is unsatisfactory.

The Greek Minister to-day called on Hilmi Pasha, the Grand Vizier, who strongly urged the Minister to advise his Government to confirm the friendly protestations contained in its note by giving assurances that Turkey's demands will be complied with.

NECESSITIES GOING HIGHER.

Bradstreet's Says the Average Is Next to the Highest on Record.

Bradstreet's index number of commodity prices as of August 1 shows that the prices of necessaries are rising steadily. The Aug. 1 number is $8.5039, the highest that has been quoted since Dec. 1, 1907, when prices were beginning to show the effect of the slump in business, and it is one-half of 1 per cent. over the figure for July 1. Taking comparison by the season of the year it is the highest figure for Aug. 1 on record with the exception of that on Aug. 1, 1907. Bradstreet's says:

"Every one knows that commodities are high, and that as a result household budgets in homes of limited incomes feel the burden of this upward tendency. In fact, in some quarters economies have to be rigidly practiced in order to make both ends meet, as it were.

"Under the circumstances there is naturally more or less discontent because of the high level of things, which feeling is hardly assuaged by the knowledge that employment is becoming more plentiful, that wages were not cut to any extent during the recent depression, that yields of farm products from the big surplus-producing regions are of bounteous proportions, and that as a result prosperity is gaining a better foothold. Indeed, these plenteous supplies of farm products portend an easier situation in the not distant future, the cereals having already felt the effects of actual or prospective new supplies."

BOY SHOT FOR BURGLAR DIES.

Neighbor Who Fired at Supposed Thief Held in $2,000 Bail.

Willard Seaman, 17 years old, of 17 Carleton Avenue, Far Rockaway, who was shot Sunday night by a young neighbor who mistook him for a burglar, died in St. Joseph's Hospital, Far Rockaway, about midnight Wednesday night.

Jesse Ulman, who is 23 years old, was sitting with his uncle on the porch of his father's house, Sheridan Boulevard and Birdsall Avenue, Sunday night, when they heard a noise back of the house. Ulman, who knew there had been a number of burglaries in nearby houses, got a revolver. He saw a figure moving across the lawn, and called upon the person to stop. But the intruder kept ahead. Ulman fired and struck the person, who was identified as Seaman.

Ulman was held in $2,000 bail yesterday for a hearing on Aug. 19.

After Mr. Seeman had been notified of his son's death he told reporters that he had engaged Lawyer John F. McIntyre to prosecute Capt. Kane and Ullman, the latter for having caused the boy's death and the former for having abused the lad when he lay wounded on the ground in the rear of the Captain's home.

BOY SOLDIER FALLS DOWN 180 FOOT CLIFF

Waite Broughton's Legs Broken and Rescuers Find Him Unconscious.

GRIP LOOSENED A ROCK

The Lad Had Sought to Show His Prowess in Climbing—Doctor Scales Cliff to Aid Him.

The rugged side of the steep cliff rising from the shore of the little lake at Newfoundland, N. J., where the United Boys' Brigade of America has its Summer camp, has proved a temptation to every youngster in the camp, and when nearly every other boy in Company C of Hackensack had climbed to the top of the cliff fourteen-year-old Waite Broughton, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Broughton of Hackensack, the youngest and smallest member of his company, would no longer be denied. Yesterday he insisted on making the effort to scale the cliff, and at last Donald Bush and Henry Kneckel agreed to accompany him.

The three young privates made their way slowly up the precipitous sides, Waite following in the path of Donald and Henry, who had been up the cliff before and who knew the trail. They were near the top when young Waite determined to prove his prowess to the other boys by taking a new path and hiding from them behind a big boulder which jutted out from the cliff some distance above him and to one side from the regular trail.

Donald and Henry did not notice that Waite had slipped away until they heard suddenly the crash of a big stone as it fell down the cliff side. They turned around in time to see Waite struggling desperately to retain a footing on the sheer sides of the cliff, still unbalanced by the fall of the rock to which he had intrusted his grip.

Even as the older boys watched, helpless to assist, Waite lost his balance, cried out loudly as he felt himself falling, and then pitched backward down the side of he cliff, his small body crashing through underbrush and shrubs and rebounding from rocks upon which the boy struck in his fall. Donald and Henry, neither but little older than Waite, were terrified by the accident, and set off for camp at the foot of the cliff as fast as they could climb down.

The entire camp was aroused, and while Dr. Drake was summoned by telephone from Newfoundland, rescue parties were organized, for it was realized that to get the boy down from the point on the cliff 180 feet above the lake shore where his body had finally lodged, was no easy task.

With the arrival of the physician, who brought a nurse with him, the parties set out under Capt. E. T. Phillips, Lieut. W. L. Campbell of the Fifth New Jersey Regiment, and the Rev. Arthur Johnson, the company Chaplain. The climb was difficult and tedious, and it was more than an hour after Donald and Henry had brought word to camp before young Waite was found, bruised, bleeding, and unconscious, with both legs broken above the knees, and one also broken at the ankle, where a bone protruded through the skin.

Though it was only with difficulty that the physician could maintain a footing on the cliff where Waite lay, he managed to dress the boy's injuries after a fashion and then the injured lad was strapped on two boards, his companions' military belts being used for the purpose, and the perilous descent down the cliff side was begun, Waite being carried by half a dozen comrades.

It was more than three hours from the time of the fall before the boy was carried into camp. There his mother was awaiting him, having just reached the camp in an automobile from her home in Hackensack. With her came Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Plymouth, the former Treasurer of the Hackensack Trust Company.

Mr. Plymouth obtained a number of pillows, and while Mrs. Plymouth and the boy's mother watched over him, Mr. Plymouth turned the tonneau of his automobile into a sort of ambulance. In this Waite was placed with his mother and Mrs. Plymouth to save him as much as possible from the motion of the machine and then Mr. Plymouth climbed into the driver's seat.

Hackensack is forty miles away from the camp, but Mr. Plymouth drove the distance in an hour and turned his small charge over to the surgeons of the Hackensack Hospital. Last night Dr. St. John and Dr. Swayze of the hospital staff said that, although badly hurt, young Waite was not mortally injured.

TRAIN KILLS PROF. BERNHARDT

Ex-Director of German in Washington High Schools Was Walking on Track.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 12.—Prof. Wilhelm Bernhardt of Washington, D. C., a well-known educator and author, was struck and killed by a train on the Rutland Railroad here to-day. Prof. Bernhardt was spending the Summer in Burlington. He was about 60 years of age, had been for many years Director of German in the Washington High Schools, and had spent his Summers near this city for the past fifteen years. He was very deaf, and it is supposed that he failed to hear the approaching train while he was walking up the railroad track to the city from his hotel at Queen City Park. It is understood that the body will be forwarded to Washington for burial.

Prof Wilhelm Bernhardt was born in Halle, Thuringia, about sixty years ago. After serving in the war between Germany and France, from 1870 to 1871, he entered the University of Leipsic, whence he was graduated in 1875, receiving the degree of Doctor of Philosophy two years later. Prof. Bernhardt came to this country in 1881, immediately securing the chair of Professor of Latin, German, and Greek and the Summer School of Languages at Burlington, Vt. He taught in the same capacity at Amherst, Mass., and Oswego, N. Y. He was not married.

Prof. Bernhardt served as a director of German in the High Schools of Washington from 1882 to 1896. Since the latter year he had devoted himself almost entirely to literary work. He was the author of a German grammar, a history of German literature, and other works, besides editing editions of many German authors.

It was announced to-day that the bank would be reopened Saturday. A shortage of about $150,000 in its funds has been covered from the private funds of the stockholders.

She crossed by the long course in 4 days 16 hours and 40 minutes. Her average speed was 25.65 knots and her daily runs beginning Sunday were 57, 655, 639, 640, 625, and 274 knots, counting from noon to noon each day.

This is the Lusitania's first real try since her two high pressure turbine shafts were fitted with solid three-bladed manganese bronze propellers. These are the same kind as her sister ship, the Mauretania, carries.

The Lusitania is now but forty-five minutes behind the best time westward, made by the Mauretania, holder of the world's speed record, and unless that vessel continues to cut down her own figure, Capt. Turner of the Lusitania will, in all probability, make good his boast to beat the Mauretania's record and win for his vessel the blue ribbon of the sea.

MYSTERIOUS WOMAN ANNOYS PRESIDENT

Veiled and Riding a Bicycle, She Follows Mr. Taft's Auto in Hope of Getting an Interview.

CABINET OFFICERS COMING

Nagel and Hitchcock to Take Up Appointment of Census Men—Hoodoo Follows President's Golf Play.

Special to The New York Times.

BEVERLY, Mass., Aug. 12.—A mysterious woman in white here insists on seeing the President. She has made two calls on Secretary Carpenter for the purpose of requesting an interview, and she has been unsuccessful in her efforts, although she has tried every way to get a word with Mr. Taft.

She refuses to give any information about herself, and at the house where she is staying here it is said that they knew very little about her, except that she goes under the name of Mrs. Smith.

Several who have been watching the mysterious woman say that she has been here for several weeks, and that she has made several ineffectual efforts to see Mrs. Taft. Before the coming of the President it is said that Mrs. Smith received several letters from Washington. They were evidently department communications, as they came in large, bulky looking envelopes.

One official connected with the Executive offices here says that the object of her coming to Beverly is to obtain a pardon for some one.

"Mrs. Smith" is heavily veiled. She has been seen riding a bicycle after the President's automobile, with the hope, evidently, of catching him on one of his trips and getting the much-sought interview.

If "Mrs. Smith" persists in her attempts to see the President and continues to bother the Taft family the Secret Service men will compel her to leave town. Those who have conversed with her say that she appears to be perfectly rational.

To Distribute Census Plums.

Two Cabinet officers are coming to Beverly to-morrow, and the old town is excited over the prospect. Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor is coming to take up with the President the matter of the appointment of more than 300 census supervisors throughout the country. Postmaster General Hitchcock, the patronage expert of the Cabinet, will happen along at the same time, and it is not too much to say that he will have an important part in the division of the census plums.

Cecil Lyon, Republican National Committeeman from Texas, also is expected in Beverly to-morrow. The President announced several days ago that in Texas, as well as in eight other States of the so-called "Solid South," he would divide the census appointments equally between the Republicans and Democrats, the leaders of the two parties to arrange the division on a satisfactory basis.

E. Dana Durand, Director of the Census, will also be at the patronage feast to-morrow afternoon at the Taft cottage, and it was said to-day that Assistant Secretary Ormsby McHarg of the Department of Commerce and Labor might also be in the party. The President has had a tentative list of Supervisors before him for several days, but most of the names were "Greek" to him, and he could make little or no headway by himself.

The President has turned over the recommendations for census places to the department heads having the matter in charge, with the general instruction that the men to be selected shall be of unquestioned ability and fitness for the important offices they are to fill.

Hoodooed in His Golf Play.

There is a large-sized hoodoo camping on the trail of President Taft every time he goes out to play a game of golf. It makes no difference how often the Chief Magistrate changes from Myopia to Essex, the hoodoo is always in the "gallery," and there is no way of evading him. President Taft hasn't won a game this week, and he is thinking seriously of sending for Walter Travis to come up and pull him out of the hole, which grows deeper and deeper every day. Mr. Taft has played twice with Travis, and is anxious to strike a winning stride again.

To-day the President had John Hays Hammond as his opponent on the Myopia links, and lost the 18-hole match by 1 up. On Tuesday Mr. Hammond defeated his distinguished playmate by 3 up. The President is persistent at golf, and is determined to beat "Jack" Hammond, as he calls the noted mining engineer, before many more days go by.

Secretary Carpenter to-day sent telegrams throughout the United States to every city where President Taft is scheduled to make a stop during his Western and Southern trip, asking the committee in charge of his entertainment to send in the programmes as arranged at once. Some of the cities have been very tardy about replying to requests sent by mail. The task of arranging the details of the President's trip is almost an endless one, and as the beginning of the journey is little more than a month away, it is necessary to get all the available information in hand at once. President Taft has the last say as to the programmes in each city, and doubtless a number of changes will have to be made.

President's Meeting with Diaz.

The arrangements for the President's meeting with President Diaz of Mexico at El Paso, Texas, Oct. 16, are still indefinite, and this is one part of the trip that he is anxious to get settled. It has been variously reported that the meeting with the Mexican Chief Magistrate would be in the centre of International Bridge, that it would take place in the city of El Paso, and that it would occur on Mexican soil. It now is reported that the bridge meeting would be too spectacular and in many ways unsuitable.

If it should become necessary for President Taft to go into Mexico he would not hesitate to do so. It is merely a custom which holds Presidents of the United States on their native soil.

Mrs. Taft came downtown again to-day. She enjoys her little shopping excursions into the city, and as few people recognize her she moves about with few curious eyes to follow her. In the midst of her shopping to-day Mrs. Taft stopped at one of the corner drug stores, and with Mrs. More, her sister, had a glass of ice cream soda. The President, Mrs. More, and Capt. Butt had late luncheon to-day with Mrs. Susan W. Longworth, mother of Representative Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, at her Summer home at Prides Crossing, on the outskirts of Beverly. Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth are expected at Prides Crossing later in the Summer.

President Taft is receiving daily invitations to visit various cities and assemblages along the North Shore. Many of the invitations come from veteran societies, but the President so far has declined all invitations on the ground that if he lets down the bars at all he will be kept busy all through the time he has set apart for vacation.

BROKER CLARK HELD IN HEINZE SWINDLE

Charged with Getting a Share of the Big Profit in the Sale of Copper Collateral.

PERSCH FREE; REARRESTED

Let Go on Habeas Corpus, But Held in $50,000 Bail on a Second Charge—McIntyre Hints at Revelations.

Walter L. Clark, the young loan broker who figures in the Heinze-Joyce loan swindle as the individual who found M. M. Joyce as a prospective borrower and took him to the Windsor Trust Company, through which the $50,000 loan was made, was arrested late yesterday afternoon in the District Attorney's office and held in $12,000 bail for examination. The specific charge against Clark is the larceny of $10,009.92, which was the amount he received from Donald Persch, the other individual now under arrest in connection with the matter. This was a part of the proceeds of the Ohio Copper and Davis-Daly stock on which the loan was made, subsequently sold on Persch's order.

Clark was unconcerned when arraigned before Magistrate Hermann in the Tombs Court. He laughed and chatted with his counsel and with Detective Fitzsimmons, who brought him down from the office of Acting District Attorney Nott above. Somebody remarked to Clark that he was taking life easily, and he rejoined:

"Oh, it might be a great deal worse."

Clark had his bondsmen all ready when the warrant was served upon him and was at once released. The completeness of these preparations and his attitude after arrest gave rise to reports that he proposed to get immunity for himself by telling the District Attorney's office about other and more important people in the loan swindle deal. An incident connected with the rearraignment of Donald Persch, after his release on habeas corpus and his rearrest on a new complaint sworn out by M. M. Joyce, served to create an impression that in the next few days some interesting confessions would be made.

Persch was represented by John F. McIntyre, who argued the habeas corpus proceedings in the first arrest before Justice Lehman on Wednesday. Before Magistrate Hermann Mr. McIntyre made a further effort yesterday to obtain a reduction of bail from the $50,000 originally asked, and when he left the court room Mr. McIntyre said:

McIntyre Hints at a Sensation.

"This is the most remarkable case I ever heard of. I intend to open up the flood gates and see that several men are swept away, if necessary, to save this boy. He has been the tool of men higher up. He knows nothing of the transaction. I've been over the case carefully with him, and it shows an extraordinary state of affairs. If Birmingham, Joyce, and Sherwood do not withdraw their affidavits, I will give the District Attorney evidence that will startle the financial world."

Later in the day Mr. McIntyre amended his statement and confined himself to these observations on the matter:

"It might be better for Birmingham if he withdrew his affidavit against Persch. The case is so involved that I am unable at this time to make any statement except that I am disposed to believe from the facts told to me that Persch did not commit the crime of grand larceny. I am not prepared to say that there are any other people involved in the matter. If the officers of the Windsor Trust Company have done anything, that is for the banking department to look out for."

This was all Mr. McIntyre would say last night. To-day he will appear before Justice Lehman in the Supreme Court on a new writ of habeas corpus which he obtained yesterday, and seek to have the $50,000 bail asked for Persch declared excessive. Mr. McIntyre said he believed that the court would reduce the bail, and that he was prepared to raise $25,000 for Persch if bail should be fixed in that sum.

Acting District Attorney Nott sent the loan swindle case to the Grand Jury yesterday. Deputy Assistant District Attorney Keogh, who is assisting Mr. Nott in the matter, examined several witnesses, among them M. M. Joyce, the broker who got hold of John S. Sherwood, who acted as a go-between as between Persch and the Windsor Trust Company; Stirling Birmingham, the Windsor Trust Company's clerk who negotiated the loan, and J. D. Blair, a friend of Joyce, who says that $50,000 more was offered to him at the Windsor Trust on the same terms that Joyce got. There were other minor witnesses from Clark's office.

In this way the case dragged on all day yesterday, Persch sitting in the room of Detective Fitzsimmons from the time of his rearrest until late in the afternoon in a vain hope that bail might be raised. During the day Alexander Michaelson, who used to be a law partner of the convicted lawyer, Carl Fischer-Hansen, hung around Persch, but did not give any account of his presence. Michaelson was indicted for subornation of perjury when Fischer-Hansen was indicted, but the indictment was dropped upon his consenting to be disbarred.

Broker Clark Refuses to Tell.

Clark was brought before Mr. Nott again in the afternoon and questioned as to how he got $10,000 of the money derived from the sale of the Joyce collateral. He refused to answer any questions, and his arrest followed. Mr. Nott also examined P. C. Mason, who used to be in Clark's office a good deal, and will look up Clark and his connections further between now and the time of his arraignment.

The affidavit against Clark was made by Joyce and runs as follows:

I am a broker with offices at 1 Nassau Street. On or about the 29th day of July, 1909, one Walter L. Clark came to me and informed me that he could procure a loan from the Windsor Trust Company of $50,000 on certain collateral to be furnished by me.

On the 2d day of August, 1909, relying upon the said representation, I went to the office of the said company, and there delivered to Stirling Birmingham, an official of said company, the following securities: Forty-six certificates of the stock of the Davis-Daly Company of 100 shares each, 156 certificates of the stock of the Ohio Copper Company of 100 shares each. The market value of the said securities was at least $100,000. The said Birmingham stated that the said Windsor Trust Company was making the loan, and thereupon deponent received from the said Birmingham $50,000, less six months' interest, and delivered to the said Birmingham the said certificates upon an agreement that they were to be held by the said company until default should be made in the payment of the loan, and that deponent should have the right to pay the loan at any time and receive back his collateral upon payment of principal and one year's interest.

Deponent is informed that the said Birmingham thereupon delivered said securities to one John Sherwood, who thereupon sold them for one Donald Persch, upon whose instructions the said Sherwood had received them and turned the proceeds over to said Persch, who deposited the said proceeds with the Carnegie Trust Company.

Deponent has seen a check of the said Persch drawn from the proceeds of the said sale to the order of the said Clark for $10,009.92. The said Clark occupied offices with said Persch at all times before mentioned, and, as I am informed by said Birmingham, knew that the said Windsor Trust Company was not making the said loan to deponent, and that the said Sherwood had obtained the said securities for the benefit of the said Persch for the purpose of selling the same and depriving deponent of his property, pledged as aforesaid.

Therefore deponent charges the said Clark with the crime of grand larceny in the first degree, a violation of Sections 1,290 and 1,294 of the penal law of New York, and prays that he be held and dealt with according to law.

Persch's Liberty Brief.

Justice Lehman, in the Supreme Court yesterday, sustained the application for a writ of habaes corpus made by John F. McIntyre, as counsel for Persch, and ordered his immediate dischargs. No sooner was this order entered than Acting District Attorney Nott took Sherwood and Joyce before Magistrate Hermann in the Tombs Court and swore out an amended complaint against Persch, so framed as to eliminate, in Mr. Nott's opinion, the questions that Mr. McIntyre urged in connection with the original complaint. That complaint was based on what is known as a short affidavit by Detective Fitzsimmons, who arrested Persch, and followed the form usually employed in such instances.

This time Joyce made an extended affidavit in which he repeated the story of the loan transactions, adding that he had been informed by Sherwood that acting under Persch's instructions he sold the stocks put up as collateral, receiving $95,000, and that over $40,000 of the proceeds was turned over to Persch. The affidavit avers that Persch when he directed Sherwood to obtain the stock that had been pledged did so well knowing that the stock belonged to Joyce, and that Persch had no right to its possession or to sell it.

Corroborative affidavits signed by Sherwood and Birmingham were submitted along with Joyce's, and Magistrate Hermann, when Persch was brought before him, held him, after a plea of not guilty, in $50,000 bail. That was the amount of the bail originally fixed by Magistrate Corrigan.

J. J. Rollins of the law firm of Rollins & Rollins, counsel for the Windsor Trust Company, said yesterday that he had no further statement to make for his client. Mr. Rollins was in the company of Birmingham when a newspaper man found him. Birmingham was told what Mr. McIntyre had said in court, and he declared: "I am sure I don't know what Mr. McIntyre is referring to."

It was learned that the State Banking Department, which has been watching the developments closely, feels that unless the solvency of an institution is threatened it has no right to take arbitrary action. Hence the department will wait until the criminal authorities have finished their investigation before determining what its eventual course will be toward the Windsor Trust Company.

STATEMENT BY A. D. F. ADAMS.

Tells of His Loans to Warfield, Heinze's Agent, on Copper Stock.

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—A. D. F. Adams, a State Street broker, in a lengthy statement, issued to-night, said that he had nothing to do with the transaction regarding Heinze stocks now being investigated in New York. It had been intimated in New York and Boston papers that Mr. Adams was wanted to explain what he knew about the case. Mr. Adams's statement in part follows:

"I do not know anything about the transactions regarding Heinze stocks which the District Attorney's office in New York is investigating other than what I have read in the newspapers. I had no connection whatever with the affair. The persons mentioned in connection with the affair are known to me. I have had some business dealings with some of them, all of which have been completed, except a contract regarding a certain small amount of stock, and said stock is held ready for delivery when the borrowers are ready to pay their debt.

"Regarding statements made in the press about loans I made to Carlos Warfield, all such statements are incorrect. The facts are that during January, February, and March I loaned money to Carlos Warfield on stock and bonds of the Ohio Copper Company. When I made the loans I understood, and have always known, that the loans were indirectly for the account of F. Augustus Heinze. * * * I have made loans direct to F. Augustus Heinze, and when the loans came due I tendered the collateral at the First National Bank in Boston, which institution was named by Mr. Heinze as the place of payment of said loans. They failed to pay on the due date. * * * In the case of Mr. Warfield on notes amounting to $75,000, I had less than $85,000 in collateral, and I requested what any banker or broker would have asked, namely, that I either have additional collateral or the notes be paid. I had the notes and collateral on which I asked for payment ready for delivery, but my demands met with no response.

"Finally, on June 25, I wired both Mr. Warfield's office and Mr. Heinze's office that unless I had more margin immediately or the notes paid on the following Monday I would sell out the collateral. This demand awoke some one in the Heinze crowd, and Mr. Heinze's factotum, a Mr. Saacke, turned up in Boston on behalf of Carlos Warfield, failed to meet Mr. Warfield's contract, and then resorted to an injunction to restrain me from selling the collateral, and thus protect myself and my clients. The statement that they tendered $150,000 in cash and demanded their collateral and notes is absolutely untrue.

"I was ready at the time I called for additional collateral or the payment of the notes to meet my contracts with Carlos Warfield the notes which I called for payment, but they were not.

"What the status will be when the present contract becomes due remains to be seen."

HE KNOWS BELA TOKAJI.

But John Hays Hammond Isn't Booming Him for Brooklyn Postmaster.

A rumor was circulating widely among Brooklyn politicians yesterday that John Hays Hammond, the mining engineer and personal friend of President Taft, was supporting for the office of Postmaster of Brooklyn Bela Tokaji of Brooklyn.

Some persons hearing about it took the report seriously, but this is what Mr. Hammond said about it last night when questioned at Gloucester, Mass.:

"I have not taken any interest in any political matter in New York or elsewhere for that matter." Asked if he knew Tokaji Mr. Hammond said that he did, but was not interesting himself in political struggles.

Funston, who has been spending two months with his family in California, has purchased a farm in that State which he intends to make his permanent home when he retires from the army. The farm is at Haywards, Alameda county, near the home of his wife's relatives. He will spend his furloughs there.

STRIKERS FIRE ON CANADIAN POLICE

Dock Laborers and Officers in Battle at Ft. William, in Which Twenty-four Are Wounded.

CHIEF IS SHOT IN STOMACH

Foreigners Drive Police Into Bunk House, Where They Are Undergoing a Siege—Militia on Way.

FORT WILLIAM, Ontario, Aug. 12.—Fort William for the first time in its history is under martial law. A thousand dock laborers, principally Greeks, Hungarians, and Italians, who have been on a strike for a week, enraged by the arrival of special Canadian Pacific police from Winnipeg, were incited to riot, and 300 of them engaged in a pitched battle with the police at noon to-day around the Canadian Pacific freight sheds on McTavish Street. Two dozen men were injured, three at least fatally, including Chief Ball of the railway company's local force, and two Greeks.

Five of the wounded are Canadian Pacific special policemen, three are Greeks, and one is a reporter, George Dickinson. Others are Sergt. Taylor of the city police force and John Lane, a butcher. Constable Carpenter of the Canadian Pacific force had a leg shattered, and Chief Ball was shot in the stomach. The Ninety-sixth Regiment of militia was called out this afternoon, after Mayor Peltier had read the Riot act.

The strikers have twenty-five railroad constables penned up in the Canadian Pacific Railroad bunkhouse, and shots were heard all afternoon. Soldiers are guarding the district under the command of Col. Steele, who was here at the time of the riot. He is head of the Canadian Government force in Western Canada, resident in Winnipeg.

The permanent force in Winnipeg will arrive by special train early to-morrow. The city Police Department is absolutely unable to cope with the situation. It was impossible to control either the imported Canadian Pacific constables or the dock strikers. The strikers are intensely aroused, and they shoot in any direction, regardless of who is in the way.

It was near noon hour when the first bullet was fired with evident intent to kill. Whether the first shot was fired by the strikers or the Canadian police constables is not positively known, but it is believed it was fired by one of the imported constables, thirty of whom arrived from Winnipeg, and were sworn in as specials. It is evident that the constables disregarded orders of their chief. After being sworn in the men were taken through the yards to the Canadian Pacific Railway boarding house. In a twinkling firearms of every description were flashed by the strikers. There were shotguns, rifles, and scores of revolvers.

At the City Hall the Mayor was doing what he could to arrange a settlement. Canadian Pacific Railway officials had agreed to grant the demands of the men and put them to work under an increased scale. Chief Andrews was telephoning to his men to stay in the boarding house and not to incite the strikers pending a confirmation of the report that the company had yielded when the first shot rang out. An agreement had just been approved at the City Hall when the report was telephoned that rioting was in progress.

The shot which terminated all efforts to effect a settlement marked the inception of a riot which has not yet been terminated. For an hour this afternoon volleys and shots followed each other in quick succession. The strikers massed and drove the police back into the bunkhouse, where they are now undergoing a siege. They fired through the windows and were preparing to storm the house when Chief Dodds, backed by Sergt. Taylor and the city police force, prevailed on them to stay away.

The police had to do this, largely because the police were backing arguments for peace with bullets fired from crevices of walls and through windows from positions which the strikers were unable to locate. All the windows in the bunkhouse and of the Canadian Pacific Railway yard buildings were smashed with bullets. The strikers, in response to the urgings of Chief Dodds, slowly retreated to McTavish Street, but further they refused to budge, and kept up an intermittent fire under the eyes of the police officials.

They loaded their weapons and fired, regardless of the fact that they were ordered repeatedly in the name of the law to disperse. The strikers threaten to burn the Canadian Pacific grain elevators.

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Aug. 12.—Regulars from Fort Osborne barracks here were ordered to Fort William, Ontario, to repel dock strikers. They left at 6 o'clock to-night, 200 strong.

TOWING IN CLYDE LINER.

The Iroquois Takes the Arapahoe in Tow for Charleston.

The Clyde Line officials in this city yesterday received word that their steamship Arapahoe, which became disabled on Wednesday off Diamond Shoal Lightship by the breaking of her tail shaft, has been taken in tow by the Iroquois of the same line, and is now being towed to Charleston.

The Iroquios left here the day after the Arapahoe, on Aug. 10. Her skipper was notified by wireless of the accident, and he fell in with the disabled Arapahoe yesterday morning. The report states that all is well on board the Arapahoe and that she should arrive at Charleston some time this morning.

The Arapahoe, whose tail shaft was broken Wednesday, was twenty miles southwest of Diamond Shoals Lightship when picked up and anchored in twenty-one fathoms of water. The steamer Rio Grande took station close by and awaited the Iroquois.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD
Bulletin.
THE COOL, CLEAN ROAD TO THE WEST.

The comfort of travel, not to say the pleasure of it, is greatly increased by the worthiness of the roadway. The Pennsylvania Railroad has four tracks from New York to Pittsburgh, and two from that city to Chicago. For several hundred miles in Pennsylvania there are also two freight tracks entirely segregated from the passenger tracks. These tracks are laid with heavy steel rails and are ballasted with stone from the ocean to the lakes. This gives a practically dustless roadway—a condition which cannot be obtained in flat, low-lying and sandy lands. The daylight, twilight, or even moonlight ride on the back platform, through the famous highland and mountain scenery of the route, add distinct and singular pleasure to the trip.

The pure air of table land and mountain not only defies fatigue, but breathes invigoration.

In the good old summertime the Pennsylvania is the cool and clean highway, for business man and tourist, to the great cities or the resorts of the West. It makes particularly good connections at Chicago for the fine transcontinental trains to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, now at its height, and Pacific Coast points.

Call Madison 1032 for information about the complete schedule of through trains, order your tickets, and have them delivered at your home or office.

REPLIES TO COURT CRITICISM.

Mr. Stern Says Mrs. Vogel Was His Fiancee When She Willed Him $50,000.

Counsel for Nathan D. Stern, who was criticised by Supreme Court Justice Brady on Wednesday while directing a bill of particulars to be filed by David R. Heine in his suit testing the validity of the will of Mrs. Minnie H. Vogel, has made a reply to the comment of the court.

Stern received a legacy of $50,000 from Mrs. Vogel, who was his client, and by codicil was made residuary legatee. Heine, who got nothing, alleged undue influence on the part of the lawyer.

Justice Brady said that the case "breathed strongly of undue influence and warranted strong suspicion of fraud." Stern says in reply that the will was prepared at Mrs. Vogel's written request while she was in full mental and physical health and that it was executed two years before her death.

"Mr. Stern and Mrs. Vogel were engaged to be married," continued the statement. "The wedding had been set for the month of November and she had ordered her wedding dress."

The answer of Mr. Stern goes on to say that the contestant's allegation of the lack of testamentary capacity is sufficiently answered by the fact that Dr. Keune, Mrs. Vogel's attending physician, was willing to be a subscribing witness, that the document was executed in the presence of the testatrix's mother, her physician, and two or three intimate friends.

Another portion of the statement reads: "Affidavits on file in the Surrogate's office show also that Mrs. Vogel, in the presence of Mr. Stern, repeatedly expressed her intention to change her will and that Mr. Stern had always replied: 'Wait until after you are married.'"

PRUDENTIAL REPLIES TO SUIT.

Defends Proposed Distribution of $20,000,000 Among Policy Holders.

The Prudential Insurance Company of New Jersey filed yesterday in the Newark courts its answer to the suit brought by Leon F. Blanchard, holder of 725 shares of Prudential stock, to restrain the proposed distribution to the company's industrial policy holders of a surplus of around $20,000,000. The petitioner had alleged that this surplus belonged to the stockholders, and should be distributed to them in the form of dividends.

The company's answer, which is signed by Richard B. Lindabury, ex-Senator John C. Spooner of Wisconsin, and Edward D. Duffield of Newark, defends the company's contention that the surplus belongs not to the stockholders, but to the policy holders, and shows that in the twenty-four years of the company's operations, the original investment of $91,000 has brought a total return to stockholders of $5,503,680. It also shows how the petitioner's holdings of 725 shares, on which he demands the pro rata distribution in dividends of the $20,000,000 surplus, have grown to their present number chiefly through stock dividends.

The defense sets up that prior to the year 1897, all the companies engaged in writing industrial insurance in the United States charged substantially the same premium rates as the Prudential for the same amount of benefits, and that all of the companies, at about that time, adopted the policy adopted by the Prudential in that year of paying back to their industrial non-participating policy holders by way of dividends and increased benefits the excess of premiums collected on their policies.

SUIT FOLLOWS AUTO ASSAULT.

W. S. Andrews Asks $5,000 Damages from C. M. Wood, Who Is Bailed.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 12.—At the police station to-day was presented a scene called "Society and the Law," in which the principals were Charles Morris Wood of Philadelphia, who is spending the Summer at Jamestown, the prisoner, and Walter S. Andrews of Newport, the complainant.

Wood was charged with assaulting Andrews without provocation on Wednesday evening in Bellevue Avenue. Mr. Andrews was present to press the charge.

Newton Adams represented Andrews and J. Stacy Brown Wood. A plea of not guilty was entered, bail in $200 was furnished by Dr. Henry Ecrold, and the case set for trial Aug. 20.

When Andrews and his lawyer had finished a consultation behind closed doors, Deputy Sheriff Frank P. King served a writ of arrest on Wood issued at the instance of Mr. Andrews in a civil action for $5,000 damages for assault and battery.

Wood accepted service and $5,000 bail was asked. This was furnished later in the day by Henry B. Tucker in Jamestown. This action will keep Wood within jurisdiction of the Newport court until the case is heard.

The police record shows Wood fined for breaking the speed limits in his automobile Monday last, and in 1907 he was fined $10 and costs for fast driving of his auto.

SON SIDES AGAINST FATHER.

When John A. Fleck and Mrs. Follert Accuse Each Other of Threats.

The tables were turned yesterday on John A. Fleck of 428 Hamburg Avenue, Brooklyn, a real estate broker in business at Rockaway Park, as he was leaving the Gates Avenue Court. He had just filed an affidavit before Magistrate Hyland, charging Mrs. George W. Fallert of 76 Grove Street, one of the heirs of the Fallert brewery estate, with sending him menacing letters and threatening to shoot him, when Deputy United States Marshal Rosenblum arrested him on a warant charging him with misusing the United States mails in sending much the same kind of letters to Mrs. Fallert and Armand J. Wolfe, who lives on Avenue J, Flatbush, a friend of Mrs. Fallert.

Mrs. Fallert was in court in answer to the summons issued on the complaint made by Fleck. As he was telling his story to the Magistrate Mrs. Fallert became hysterical. The son of the complainant, John A. Fleck, Jr., stood by her and tried to comfort her, and this seemed to enrage his father.

Mrs. Fallert then told her side of the story. She denied the allegations made by Fleck, and his son nodded assent frequently to her contentions. He was then placed on the stand, and testified that he had seen his father write some of the letters alleged to have been sent to Mrs. Fallert.

Mrs. Fallert admitted that she carried a revolver, but declared that she did so to protect herself against the person sending the threatening letters. Magistrate Hyland, however, thought that Fleck had good grounds for applying for a warrant against her on the charge of disorderly conduct. Her case was postponed until Aug. 18, and she was paroled in the custody of her counsel.

BOYS RAID A CANDY SHOP.

Five Arrested on Complaint of Woman Proprietor.

Five boys were locked up in the West Thirty-seventh Street Police Station last night and later taken to the Children's Society, charged by Mrs. Hattie Shaw, the keeper of a candy store at 378 West Thirty-fifth Street, with having broken into her store while she was in Brooklyn in the afternoon and stealing two dollars in change, as much in candy, and twenty-five packages of cigarettes.

The accused lads are Robert Carmichael, aged 8, of 343 West Thirty-fifth Street, whom his pals call "Bubsy," and recognized as their leader; Joseph Moran, aged 11, of 446 Ninth Avenue; Francis Coffey, aged 8, of 436 Ninth Avenue; Samuel Droiblatt, aged 10, of 442 Ninth Avenue, and Samuel Brown, aged 8, of 452 Ninth Avenue.

TOOK PISTOL, KILLED THREE.

Virginian Shot Down Greeks After They Had Wounded an American.

BRISTOL, Tenn., Aug. 12.—Details of a shooting reported from Dante, Va., last night reveal that three men were killed and two wounded. The dead are Greeks who were employed in getting out timbers for the mines.

Dissatisfaction among foreigners because of the alleged delay of the contractors in paying their wages led the Greeks to hide certain tools belonging to their employers. An effort to recover these led to the shooting. The Greeks shot an American, following which William Trent entered their cabin. With a gun, which one of the foreigners was intending to use on him, Trent shot and killed three. An American on the outside was struck by a stray bullet. Trent, who says he shot in self-defense, was arrested.

SHERIFF REFUSES TO EVICT STRIKERS

Denied Aid by Car Company, It Is Said, Stops Putting Men's Goods in Street.

NEGRO KILLS A STRIKER

Attacked as Strike-Breaker by Number of Them—First Fatality Growing Out of McKees Rocks Trouble.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 12.—The Sheriff of Allegheny County refused late to-day to continue the work of evicting the strikers and their families from houses owned by the Pressed Steel Car Company at McKees Rocks.

Acting under court orders, the Sheriff and his deputies early in the afternoon began the work of conveying the goods from the strikers' homes to the streets. The Sheriff asked the Pressed Steel Car Company to give him men to carry out the furniture and household effects, but the company, it is said, refused.

"Then I will not allow my deputies to carry out another piece of furniture," declared the Sheriff. He then formally and verbally turned over to the Superintendent of the car plant possession of the houses. The Pressed Steel Car Company will now be forced to carry out its own evictions.

In the Schoenville strike zone to-day, Major Smith, a negro, accused of being employed at the car plant as a strike breaker, at 5 o'clock this morning shot and killed Steven Horvat, one of the striking workmen. Smith, it is said, was attacked as a strike breaker by several foreigners, and declares to-night that he shot in self-defense. The negro is held at the county jail on a charge of murder. Witnesses to the shooting declare Smith fought at a great disadvantage, and only fired when his life was endangered and while lying on his back.

The killing of Horvat is the first fatality of the strike at McKees Rocks.

CHICAGO CAR STRIKE AVERTED.

President Roach's Offer of 30 Cents an Hour to Settle Dispute.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 12.—The crucial point in the wage dispute between the officials of the street railway lines of Chicago and their 10,000 employes was passed to-day.

By the offer of a maximum scale of 30 cents an hour to be paid within three and a half years, which was made by President John M. Roach of the North and West Side lines, and the prompt acceptance of the same by President William of the North and West Side Street Car Men's Union, all possibility of a strike appears to be over.

President T. E. Mitten of the South Side lines has allowed it to be understood that he would follow Mr. Roach in any agreement he might make with the union men.

This success crowned the efforts of the officials after several days of conferences. Walter L. Fisher, the city's mediator in the trouble, said after the conference session to-day that Mr. Roach's offer meant a practical settlement of the whole question. It remains for Mr. Mitten to fall into line and for the compromise to be accepted by the union men upon presentation of their officers.

vote my time and best efforts to attain this result."

Asked what he thought of the decision, Thaw meditated a moment, and then, carefully choosing his words, said:

"I think Justice Mills has acted conscientiously in the whole matter. He has treated me as fairly as he knew how."

After the conference with Mrs. Thaw Lawyer Morschauser returned to the jail, and Thaw embraced him, exclaiming, with a show of much feeling:

"Don't think I blame you for this. I don't want you to think I have any kick. You have done all that could be done by anybody. I want you to remain as my counsel, but you have worked very hard, and I want you to take a long rest before we start in again."

Mr. Morschauser urged Thaw not to lose heart.

"Oh, no; I won't," replied Thaw, with a faint smile. "I know that being here in White Plains has done one thing for me, anyhow. It has made a new man of me. I never felt better in my life.

"I feel very sorry for mother," he continued. "She will feel so badly over this. She has helped me so much. I don't know how I can thank her for it."

There was a report here to-night that Justice Mills might modify the order of commitment in Thaw's case so that he could be sent to a private institution. When Mr. Morschauser was asked about this he said:

"Justice Mills has the right to do that if he wishes to exercise it. But his decision is that Thaw shall go back to Matteawan. He has dismissed the habeas corpus writ by which we hoped to get Thaw out. I don't think he will change the original order."

Mr. Morschauser, in the appeal to the Court of Appeals, will argue that under the law a person acquitted on the ground of insanity can only be committed to an asylum after formal notice and a hearing.

Justice Mills decided against this contention at a former hearing, and was sustained by the Court of Appeals, but Thaw's counsel hopes he may win out by going direct to the Court of Appeals against the Dowling commitment and demand a jury trial for Thaw as a constitutional right.

Justice Mills's Decision.

In his decision Justice Mills, after expressing the opinion that the insanity which afflicted Thaw when he shot Stanford White was "of the kind known as chronic, delusive insanity, or paranoia," goes on to speak of insanity among Thaw's collateral ancestors. He dwells upon the nervous characteristics of Thaw as a boy and of his outbreaks when in Monte Carlo and London. Coming to Thaw's acquaintance with Evelyn Nesbit, the Judge says:

> Although Thaw evidently was himself far from a moral man, and was then engaged, or soon thereafter became engaged, in practices as revealed by the testimony of the Merrill woman, which, with the corroboration afforded by other evidence in the case, appears credible, he gave absolute credence to the tales told him by Miss Nesbit about White. His mind became absolutely possessed with those stories. He not only believed them in their entirety, but he deduced from them conclusions as to the practices of White far beyond what such belief in a normal mind would warrant.

Thaw's Delusion About White.

> Such belief to such extreme extent was plainly a delusion. With it there came to his mind the conviction, also delusive in character, that he had a special mission to destroy White's practices. These delusions had become established, fixed, and systematized in his mind prior to his marriage, April 4, 1905, and so continued at least until after the homicide.

The Justice bases his determination that Thaw is now insane on five grounds. As the first he states that all the experts agree that, in a case of true paranoia, recovery is very doubtful. "In view of the short time that Thaw has been at Matteawan," the court says, "there is certainly no presumption of recovery, from the lapse of time alone."

The court gives as the second ground the opinion of Dr. Baker, acting Superintendent of Matteawan, that Thaw is insane and a dangerous person to set free.

Urges Privileges for Thaw.

In this connection Justice Mills takes occasion to remark that he is "by no means satisfied with the treatment Thaw has received at Matteawan since his return there last October," and recommends that Thaw be restored to the privileges he enjoyed at Mattewan when first sent there, and that he be treated, not as a criminal prisoner but as a patient, whose mind is to be built up, if possible. He advises no discrimination one way or the other because of Thaw's wealth.

Justice Mills takes as his fourth ground for deciding Thaw insane the testimony of the State's mental experts, whose evidence, he says, was far more convincing than that of Thaw's alienists. The court says in regard to the testimony of Dr. Evans, one of Thaw's experts, that the doctor seemed to have great difficulty in reconciling his present opinion with that expressed at the trials.

Thaw's own conduct in the proceedings before Justice Mills is the basis of the fifth ground, the decision reading in part:

> From his actions and speech in the court room, both on and off the stand, I have been impressed that he is now of unsound mind. In the latter part of his examination, when he was striving mightily to defend his delusive beliefs, his facial appearance seemed to me not to be that of a sane person. For instance, when, during the last afternoon of his testimony here, he went on for twenty minutes at least in his effort to justify his extravagant belief as to White's conduct with a certain woman, there was upon his face plainly to my personal view that look, perhaps indefinable in words, which marks the impress of the "mind diseased."

Justice Mills expresses confidence in District Attorney Jerome, remarking that he considered Mr. Jerome's attitude toward Thaw to have been inspired only by a conscientious belief that Thaw is insane.

THAW'S WIFE NOT SURPRISED.

Thinks the Decision the Beginning of an Interminable Litigation.

None of those in this city concerned in any way with the case, except Lawyer Daniel O'Reilly, one of the Thaw counsel, was particularly surprised at Justice Mills's decision to send Harry K. Thaw back to Matteawan; indeed, the general feeling among lawyers, and to some extent from this view Mr. O'Reilly agreed with the others, was that the testimony of Dr. Baker of Matteawan as to Thaw's mental condition made another decision next door to impossible for the Justice.

Mrs. Evelyn Thaw refused to be seen yesterday, but talked about the case over the telephone with interviewers. She said:

"Under the circumstances there must be something radically wrong with him; that is, a man who would accept advice of counsel to neglect his wife must be radically deranged in some way. But this means simply endless litigation, years of argument in the courts, to the advantage of Mr. Morschauser. I don't know that it in any way affects my relations with the Thaw family. I leave all that to my counsel, and follow his advice as to what course to pursue toward the Thaws.

"Surprised at the decision? Not in the least. Nothing surprises me any more. Was it a shock to me? No. Nothing shocks me now, either."

One of the lawyers prominently associated with the Thaw litigation in its early days, and one of Thaw's chief counsel in the first trial for the murder of Stanford White, said of the decision:

"This outcome of the habeas corpus proceeding was not unexpected, in view of the attitude of Dr. Baker, the head of the Matteawan Asylum. As Justice Mills says, he is a public official; undoubtedly he is sincere in his belief, and unless a clear an unmistakable case were made out the other way, it was the duty of the court to respect his testimony.

"Personally, I do not regard Thaw as a paranoiac. It appears to me that the so-called delusions of Thaw were fully explained by the evidence, and to me it appears dangerous to say that Thaw's belief, grounded on known facts of the character of Stanford White, amounts to an insane delusion.

"Yet, I, myself, had I been sitting, with my own personal belief in Thaw's sanity, might have felt constrained, through Dr. Baker's stand as a public official, to decide as Justice Mills has. The Justice, in his opinion, follows the emphatic opinion of Dr. Baker. Therefore I am not surprised at his decision, though I personally believe Thaw is not a paranoiac."

Daniel O'Reilly took much the same view of the case.

"I was greatly surprised," he said, "at the outcome; still, in view of Dr. Baker's testimony, it was not unnatural. Justice Mills had to stand by that. If he had freed Thaw, disregarding Dr. Baker's belief, he would have undertaken a tremendous responsibility.

"Still, Thaw will eventually get free, all right; there is no doubt of it. The proceeding may be one of a habeas corpus writ, or a hearing before a jury. Either course is open.

"In this instance Dr. Baker's testimony, and Thaw's own testimony brought a logical enough result; next time they will have a different case, and I think Thaw will go free. Dr. Baker will have a longer period for observation before the next fight.

"I did not expect Justice Mills to free Thaw absolutely this time; I thought it more likely that he would parole him for a certain period of probation under an attendant. But Thaw will get out eventually, and pretty soon at that.

"Mrs. Thaw is acting on my advice, and we have, as yet, decided on no immediate steps."

One or two medical experts who had figured prominently in the Thaw trials said that the decision was no surprise to them.

SELLS LAND TO FIGHT FOR THAW

His Mother Disposes of Part of Lyndhurst Estate for $100,000.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., Aug. 12.—Pittsburgers express pretty general satisfaction today over the decision of Judge Mills returning Harry K. Thaw to Matteawan, but there were many expressions of regret that this additional blow should have fallen on Mrs. William Thaw, the mother, who is beloved in her home city.

Another proof that she is not yet done fighting for her son was given here late to-day, when she disposed of one of her favorite bits of property. She sold a portion of the front lawn of Lyndhurst to W. W. Willock of Pittsburg this afternoon, the consideration being in the neighborhood of $100,000 cash. The property is 250 by 600 feet, and is one of the most valuable tracts in the residence part of the city.

Some time ago Mrs. Thaw's agent was instructed to cast about for a quick purchaser for some of the Thaw property in case of sudden call. It was understood that the call would not be made if Harry K. Thaw were liberated from Matteawan. Before noon to-day there came a call to close the deal, and Mr. Willock took the property. It is his intention to build a fine home on the site, which will almost entirely hide famous Lyndhurst from public view. It was only recently that Mrs. Thaw borrowed $100,000 on the Lyndhurst property.

CHINA TELLS POWERS JAPAN IS AGGRESSIVE

Her Pretensions in Manchuria Menace Their Interests as Well as China's.

PRESENT COURSE FLAGRANT

Seeks Privileged Position Along the Antung-Mukden Railroad in Violation of Treaty Obligations.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 12.—The Chinese Board of Foreign Affairs has telegraphed to the Chinese Legation here the text of China's circular note to the powers, dated Aug. 11, in which the Government upholds its attitude in the question of the Antung-Mukden Railroad.

After tracing the history of this question and pointing out that China had made many concessions to Japan, which still tried to throw upon China's shoulders the responsibility for the delay in beginning the work, the note declares that Japan's interest in the line is entirely strategic, and in no sense economic.

"Japan has sought unjustified aggression," the note declares. "Already, in the question of South Manchuria, she has outlined on several occasions the territorial rights of China, and she is trying to secure little by little new rights not specified in existing treaties.

"In the present case the attack on China's rights is flagrant. China, like Japan, now addresses herself to the powers. She is conscious that she has defended not only her own legitimate rights, but the veritable interests of the powers against the pretensions of Japan."

Continuing, the note sets forth that Japan, in announcing that she would take up the construction of this line without further negotiations, went outside the treaty of 1905, which stipulated that China should have the right to police the railroad and survey its construction. That China was inclined to be conciliatory is shown by the fact that she accepted the proposal to widen the tracks from narrow to standard gauge, and agreed to certain changes in the permanent line. In conclusion the note says:

"The interest of the powers is that no one shall occupy a privileged position in Manchuria. China will continue as heretofore to be inspired by her conscience of right and a spirit of fidelity to existing treaties. She refuses to grant to Japan the right to place new troops in China and exercise police functions in China. But in these negotiations China will continue to show patience and magnanimity."

PEKING, Aug. 12.—China has agreed to the Japanese proposal to reopen the negotiations regarding the Antung-Mukden Railroad at Mukden at such time as Japan elects.

All the questions relating to Manchuria between Japan and China now await the initiative of Japan.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Emphatic language, with the explicit statement that China is suffering from a plain violation of treaty stipulations on the part of Japan, is made in a memorandum or statement furnished to the State Department to-day by the Chinese Legation in regard to the issues arising out of the Antung-Mukden Railway question.

"It is a matter of surprise and regret, therefore, that Japan, relying on her military and naval superiority," the memorandum says, "ventures to override reason and disregard the provisions of the Peking convention. It is manifest that the object of Japan in contending for the reconstruction of the line is not for commercial but for military and strategic reasons.

"China is already suffering much from the encroachments of the Japanese on her powers of sovereignty in South Manchuria, in plain violation of treaty stipulation. With this lesson in mind, the Imperial Government was determined that the question of railway guards and military police should be discussed as soon as the negotiations commenced.

"If Japan had adopted a reasonable attitude, the negotiations would have been long concluded. The impasse must, therefore, be due to Japan's obstructive policy. The Imperial Government, convinced of its correct attitude, will resume negotiations with Japan in the same conciliatory spirit as before."

Bearing date of Peking, Aug. 10, the memorandum reviews the recent negotiations, and the statement is made that in the present dispute, it is to be noted that the Imperial Government has shown throughout a conciliatory attitude. China had not declared the concession given to Japan for introducing improvements on the line of the Antung-Mukden Railroad forfeited, in spite of the fact that the time limit for making them had expired. In the matter of widening the gauge China had also yielded, although the widening, China declares, is uncalled for.

LITTLE SHAH TRIES TO COMMIT SUICIDE

First Attempted to Run Away Because He Is to be Separated from His Father.

WEPT AT HIS ACCESSION

Brother of Deposed Ruler Heads Revolt and New Persian Government Faces Many Difficulties.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 12.—A special dispatch from Teheran says that Mohammed Ali, the deposed Shah of Persia, will leave the country on Aug. 17 and that the young Shah, who is his favorite son, is downcast at the prospect of a separation from his parents.

According to reports current in Teheran, the youthful ruler recently made an unsuccessful attempt at flight, and when he was frustrated in this he tried to commit suicide. The Government is considering the possibility of his abdication in favor of some one else.

Many complications face the new Government of Persia. Several of the nomad tribes, as well as the cities of Shiraz and Kashgar, have refused to recognize it. A brother of the deposed Shah, Salar-ed-Dowleh, is marching on Teheran at the head of a Kurdish tribe from Luristan Province.

Zill-es-Sultan, an uncle of the deposed Shah who has been banished, has been successful in his efforts to purchase permission to visit Teheran before leaving the country.

Mohammed Ali Mirza, Shah of Persia, who succeeded to the Peacock Throne on the death of his father, in January of 1907, formally abdicated—or perhaps one should say was deposed—on July 17. He was succeeded by Sultan Ahmed Mirza, who, although not the eldest son of the ex-Shah, was the heir-apparent, the mother of his elder brother not being a Kajar Princess. The new Shah, who was proclaimed under the title of Sultan Ahmed, with Azad-ul-Mulk, head of the Kajar tribe, as Regent, is but 11 years old.

He wept bitterly when the moment came for him to leave his predecessor on the throne and his mother, and it required a stern message to the effect that crying was not allowed in the Russian Legation before he dried his eyes. Then the little man came out bravely, entered a large carriage, and drove off alone.

At Sultanatabad he was met by the Regent and the deputation, and ceremoniously notified of his high position and of the hope entertained by the nation that he would prove to be a good ruler. "Inshallah, I will," replied the lad.

Boy Shah of Persia, Who Attempted Suicide.

VENEZUELA ELECTS GOMEZ.

Choice of Acting President Generally Approved.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Aug. 12.—Following the election yesterday by Congress of Vicente Gomez, the Acting President, to be Provisional President of the Republic, it was announced that a new Cabinet and a complete reorganization of the Government could be expected.

Gomez was elected unanimously, Congress acting in accordance with the terms of the new Constitution. To-day the entire native press ratifies the election with enthusiasm as a true reflection of the public wish.

The protocol for the settling of the American claims against Venezuela was accepted by Congress yesterday. By the consent of both Governments the time for fulfilling its provisions has been extended to Sept. 11.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—A complete re-establishment of friendly relations, which were broken off between this country and Venezuela because of former President Castro's domineering policy, has been made possible through the action of the Venezuelan Congress in ratifying the Buchanan protocol, which provides for the adjudication of numerous long-standing claims against Venezuela. These claims will now be submitted to arbitration by an international board, the decision o fwhich will be binding on both Nations.

DROWNS HER TWO CHILDREN.

Wife of Argentine Consul Tries to Kill Third Child and Herself.

CIRKVENICA, Hungary, Aug. 12.—Mme. B. F. Gayan, wife of the Argentine Consul General at Budapest, in a sudden fit of madness to-day, drowned two of her young children in the sea here, and was restrained with difficulty from putting an end to her third child in a similar manner and committing suicide herself.

Mme. Gayan and her three children were walking on the beach when she suddenly seized her children in her arms and rushed into the sea. The two youngest—the eldest was only five years old—were drowned before people on the beach could reach the party to give aid.

In frantic efforts to drown the third child and herself the mother fought her rescuers until she fell exhausted.

SWEDISH STRIKERS RETURN.

Sawmill Hands Appeal for Funds, Saying They Are Starving.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 12.—The striking workmen of Sweden continue to-day to return to work. The stevedores of Gothenburg are the latest to resume, and the foreigners taken to Gothenburg to fill their places are being returned to their homes.

Out of a total of 460,000 workmen engaged in Swedish industries, exclusive of agriculture and the railroad service, 285,762 are on strike, but small groups are continually returning to work.

It is expected that the sawmill hands will be compelled shortly, through lack of funds, to return to their places. They have issued an appeal for funds headed "Starvation is at the door," and they are begging food throughout the rural districts.

LEROUX AVOIDS BARCELONA.

Republican Leader Fears Presence Might Cause Fresh Outbreaks.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Aug. 12.—Deputy Alejandro Leroux, Chief of the Barcelona Republicans, has arrived here from Buenos Ayres.

He will not go to Barcelona at present, fearing that his presence would incite the populace to new outbreaks; instead he will proceed to France and England.

BALLOON UP OVER 7 MILES.

Italians Exceed All Previous Records—Severe Cold Experienced.

TURIN, Aug. 12.—The balloon Albatross, in which Lieut. Mina of the Italian Army, and Mario Piacenzo ascended last Tuesday to a height of 11,800 meters, (seven and one-third miles,) is a spherical bag, with a capacity of 2,000 cubic meters. On this occasion, however, the bag was inflated only to the extent of 1,200 meters.

The travelers carried with them a large quantity of oxygen to permit breathing in the rarified atmosphere. At the greatest altitude they experienced a temperature of 24 degrees below zero Fahrenheidt.

The Albatross appears to have exceeded all previous height records. Eleven thousand eight hundred meters is equal to 37,714 feet, and the record for height has been 37,000 feet, made in 1862 by two Englishmen, Messrs. Coxwell and Glaisher. One of them became unconscious at an elevation of five and a half miles.

In 1875 M. Tissendier, a Frenchman, rose more than five miles into the air. He was accompanied by a friend, who died on the way.

BEUTHEN, Prussia, Aug. 12.—A German military balloon carrying three army officers drifted across the frontier near Milowice this morning and came down in Russian territory. The occupants were halted by a Russian guard, but upon proving who they were they were released.

MOORS SEEKING PEACE?

Delegates from Melilla Said to be on That Errand in Tangier.

TANGIER, Morocco, Aug. 12.—Two delegates from the Riff tribesmen, who are opposing the Spaniards in front of Melilla, have arrived here from that place, and it is understood that their mission is to consult with the Spanish Legation and the Moroccan Government in the matter of arranging conditions of peace.

PENON DE LA GOMERA, Morocco, Aug. 12.—The Moors who were firing on the Spanish garrison here yesterday were driven by artillery fire to the distant hills. Their losses were considerable.

Last night the Moors succeeded in returning to the sea front, and from their positions they sent in a heavy fire on the garrison. The gunboat General Concha replied vigorously.

Two Spaniards were wounded.

MELILLA, Morocco, Aug. 12.—A Spanish convoy that marched out of Melilla Tuesday has been attacked by the Moors. The Spanish losses in the engagement are not known, but the Moors had six men killed and many wounded.

OFFICERS AT DAVAO BLAMED.

Board That Investigated Mutiny Recommends Their Punishment.

MANILA, Aug. 12.—The high ranking constabulary board which sat at Zamboanga from July 26 to Aug. 6, investigating the Davao mutiny, which occurred on June 6, submitted a report to-day recommending severe punishment for four of the officers of the company in which the mutiny occurred.

The board examined numerous witnesses, including several of the captured mutineers, and its report is approved by Brig. Gen. Harry H. Bandholtz, Chief of the Philippine Constabulary.

The investigators demand the resignation of Capt. Platka and Lieut. Dunsworth, on the ground that they are lacking in proper qualifications for command and recommend the dismissal of Lieut. Debelaine for unjustly punishing men in his command before the mutiny and for abandoning his post.

The report also recommends the reduction of Lieut. Goicouria to the bottom of the list of Lieutenants and his suspension for a month. Special leniency was shown in the case of Goicouria on account of his youth and the bad example set for him by his superior officers.

FAILS TO SWIM CHANNEL.

DOVER, Aug. 12.—Montagu Holbein has failed in his seventh effort to swim across the English Channel.

He left Cape Gris Nez, on the French coast, at 5:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after an all-night attempt he was forced to give up a few miles out of Dover.

WAR CLOUDS FADE IN SOUTH AMERICA

Villazon Is Inaugurated as President of Bolivia Without Any Disturbance.

NEW REGIME IS FOR PEACE

Favors Acceptance of Argentine Award in Boundary Dispute with Peru—Barrett Predicts Settlement.

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Advices reaching the International Bureau of American Republics indicate that the war clouds that have hovered over Bolivia and Peru are lifting. The State Department has received no word from its diplomatic representatives in the capitals of the two countries, and this is considered a good sign. Up to the hour at which the department closed no report of disturbances over the inauguration to-day of the new Bolivian President, Eleodoro Villazon, had been received, and the event is thought to have passed with minor demonstrations, if any.

This changed situation is considered due to the sudden realization of the people of both countries that armed conflict would be disastrous. In addition, the United States, Great Britain, and Germany have heavy investments in that part of South America, and their counsels against war undoubtedly have carried weight.

"The business interests of the countries involved in the controversy," said John Barrett, Director of the Bureau of American Republics, "have awakened in the cause of peace. The popular hysteria that developed on the announcement of Argentina's decision in the boundary dispute is dying out, and the situation appears to be rapidly getting back to normal in both countries. Personally, I look forward to a peaceful settlement of the whole affair.

"At the present time it is difficult to predict just what shape the negotiations for a settlement will take. That is a subject for future consideration, but there is small doubt that arbitration will ultimately put everything right."

This Government is taking no active part in the trouble, although it stands ready to act if invited. The only participation the United States has essayed is in taking over the archives of the Bolivian Legation in Buenos Ayres, and the archives of the Argentine Legation in La Paz, the Bolivian capital. This was done at the request of both the Governments, and this Government is believed to be the first that was ever invited to act as diplomatic representative by both nations who were parties to a controversy that threatened war.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Aug. 12.—Elliodore Villazon was inaugurated President of Bolivia this afternoon, in succession to Ismail Montes.

Owing to the fact that Villazon is believed to favor Argentina's award against Bolivia in the boundary dispute between Bolivia and Peru, it was expected that disorders would ensue when Villazon assumed the Presidency. Up to the present time, however, there has been no trouble.

The lower classes are strongly opposed to Gen. Manuel José Pando, the newly appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs, because he favors accepting the Argentine award, and he has not yet assumed his duties.

As told to WILL IRWIN
$1.00 net
Illustrated by W. GLACKENS
The story is fact, not fiction. The Con Man lives. His name is familiar to railroad men of the West, and his face would be recognized by everybody who has gone to the circus in the last twenty-five years. He spent his life dabbling in every game known to the underworld, and he tells his story with the air of a connoisseur in petty crime. Whoever has played cards with a seemingly innocent countryman on a railroad train; whoever has tried to discover under which shell the pea lies; whoever has purchased diamonds at half the market value, and whoever has bought a gold brick by any other name will find a sad pleasure in reading these pages. The Con Man has really reformed, for, he says, the honest dollar is the only dollar that sticks. The book is as entertaining as it is interesting.

PINCHOT DENIES HE ATTACKED TAFT

In a Message to The Times Says President Is in Sympathy with Roosevelt Policies.

BALLINGER SAYS NO GRAB

Farson Defends Interior Department—Tangle Will Probably Require All of Taft's Skill to Straighten Out.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SPOKANE, Washington, Aug. 12, 1909.

I did not and could not attack President Taft's policies, because I know him to be in sympathy with the Roosevelt policies for which I stand. If there are influences working to secure my retirement they have to come to my knowledge.

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

SPOKANE, Washington, Aug. 12.—Richard A. Ballinger, Secretary of the Interior, before leaving for Billings, Mon., where he will meet the Congressional Committee on Irrigation, said: "I have information from Washington that the public records show that not a single power site or dam site was taken by private individuals during the time that 1,000,000 acres were thrown open to public entry last April."

This was in answer to the charge that land had been taken by "dummies" acting for the water power "trust."

John Farson, Chicago millionaire, took up the cudgels in defense of Secretary Ballinger of the Interior Department in the National Irrigation Congress to-day when he attacked the statements of ex-Gov. George A. Pardee of California concerning the Secretary's activities in public land withdrawals.

Dr. Pardee startled to-day's congress by questioning a statement by a speaker. He again accused Secretary Ballinger of permitting the opening for entry of valuable water power sites.

This brought Mr. Farson to his feet, asking Dr. Pardee if he meant to insinuate that the Secretary was dishonest. With Dr. Pardee's reply that he meant no such accusation the incident was dropped.

W. W. Ferrell of Ferrell, Idaho, attacked the Washington Power Company which supplies power to Spokane.

"I have been a settler in Idaho for twenty-five years," he shouted, "and there are many who have worked hard to make homes. And now after a quarter of a century the Washington Power Company, one of the many which threatens our very lives, has dammed up our valley, overflowed our lands, drowned out our crops, and many are about to lose their very means of livelihood. There are men in my town who will smash that dam with dynamite, and send a forty-foot wall of water down this valley, and what will happen to Spokane will make the Johnstown flood look like a common shedding of tears, if something is not done."

Ex-United States Senator Wilson replied:

"There may be those who do wrong in this land. There may be water power companies that disobey the law, but I want to say here that I stand for Richard Ballinger and I shall hear no man say he is dishonest. If it is necessary I am here to defend Ballinger's superior, President Taft. What they have done they have done under the law. It is for the people to support the Government and not the Government the people, and for this reason I say that private enterprises should reclaim these deserts."

One of the interesting addresses of the day was that by Mrs. Emmons Crocker, a delegate from the Federation of Women's Clubs. She said that women first came on a par with men when President Roosevelt invited Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker to attend the gathering of Governors to discuss National conservation.

That man owns his farm, but only is an agent under obligation to conserve his soil, was the doctrine promulgated at the National Irrigation Congress to-day by L. H. Bailey, Director of the New York College of Agriculture, who spoke on the farm community. He said it was not true that a young man must go West to take up a new farm. He declared that if he took up the old farm he was under obligation to make a new farm of it. He asserted that the West was in danger of becoming less fertile, and that the East was less able to last long, and quoted from the reports of the Country Life Commission to sustain his statement. He said that after all lands had been improved by private enterprise there still would remain many thousands of acres awaiting reclamation at the hands of the people at large.

"There should be a National irrigation movement," said he, "but it is not necessary to develop all of our resources now. It is well that we have plenty of resources to take up when in the future a press of population comes.

"New York State is 40 per cent. forests and swamps, and many Eastern States are similarly situated. I am not sorry for this. There is no hurry. When every irrigable acre in the West has been reclaimed, there will be time to reclaim the swamps and forests of the East."

Two ex-Governors attended the congress to-day. They are Alva Adams of Colorado and F. R. Gooding of Idaho. Mr. Adams spoke on apples and alfalfa and Mr. Gooding on the development of Idaho under the Carey act.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The developments of yesterday at Spokane—especially Secretary of the Interior Ballinger's defense of his course in regard to the care of public lands in the West—has made the relations of the Cabinet officer with Chief Forester Pinchot, and the relations, present and prospective, of both of them to Mr. Taft, the most talked of question in Washington. That the situation can be cleared wihout a serious departmental war is doubted on all sides, but predictions of the ultimate outcome are too evidently colored by each official's personal bias to be relied on seriously.

The truth of the matter seems to be that each of the two officers has acted so far within the law, and there is not the faintest whisper here that either one of them is actuated by ulterior motives. Mr. Ballinger has simply intrenched himself within a strict interpretation of the law opening up certain lands for private acquirement. Mr. Pinchot, acting apparently with the same scrupulous regard for the public good, took the position that such opening, though strictly within the law technically construed, would put certain invaluable dam and power sites along the river within the reach of the power trust.

Inferentially Attacked Ballinger.

The severest criticism made against Pinchot in Washington is that in a public address he inferentially attacked his superior in the service, even though the forestry service is not technically connected with the department headed by Ballinger.

Friends of Mr. Pinchot in Washington have allowed the impression to circulate that during June, when Mr. Ballinger had released from the reserve into which Mr. Roosevelt had segregated about 1,000,000 acres of land containing water sites, most of that land, the so-called power trust secured in Montana 15,868 acres, which are said to perfect certain other holdings already secured by the trust. It is pointed out in this connection that Mr. Taft had directed Mr. Ballinger on April 30 to put the land back in the Roosevelt reserve, and that this was done on June 26, but that in the interval, on June 11, the trust had done its work.

The method the trust is alleged to have followed in the matter is the same followed heretofore in securing other tracts of land. Dummies were said to have entered the land and secured it in detached pieces, making, however, the connected and desired whole for which the trust was aiming. The use of "dummies" for this purpose has long been familiar in the West and is said still to be an easy way to avoid the law.

But to these allegations Mr. Ballinger has given a sweeping denial.

The Power Trust.

The so-called Power trust, which is credited with such great activities in the public domain section of the country, is the United Missouri River Power Company—a New Jersey concern, with a capitalization of over $10,000,000. That corporation is said to be the holding agency for the Missouri River Power Company and the Helena Power Transmission Company.

The Montana branch of this same aggregation is the General Electric Company, and the two between them are said to have pretty well gathered in what power sites there are in the Middle West.

While Mr. Ballinger declares that no power or dam sites went astray during the period he restored the 1,000,000 acres to the open part of the public lands, friends of Mr. Pinchot assert that the latter will not be content until he has forced an accounting for every acre that has left the hands of the Government in the present Administration.

The situation presents a tangle which apparently will require all Mr. Taft's skill as a peacemaker to straighten out. Mr. Pinchot is said to be close to the President, but it is thought that he holds his place more at the suggestion of Mr. Roosevelt than from any positive interest on the part of Mr. Taft. The President, too, is naturally expected to uphold his own Cabinet officer and Mr. Taft himself is rather a strict constructionist.

TO PREVENT SHIFTING ASSETS

Controller Compiling List of National Banks Affiliated with State.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Controller of the Currency Murray has directed National Bank Examiners to forward at once to his office a list of National banks in their districts which have affiliations with State institutions and occupy the same building or which are in close proximity in their business affairs.

In some of the most conspicuous bank failures in the past the fact has been disclosed that the insolvency of the component members of the allied institutions were long concealed by shifting the assets between the institutions to meet the exigencies of an examination of each, and the insolvent condition was not disclosed until a joint examination by National and State Examiners was made.

TREASURER ORDERED TO PAY

$205,614 from Government for Transportation of Spaniards from Manila.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—United States Treasurer Treat was to-day ordered by Justice Gould of the District Supreme Court to pay to William E. Richardson of this city and William V. Rowe of New York, as receivers, $205,614.37, appropriated by the recently enacted Deficiency bill to pay a judgment awarded last May by the United States Supreme Court in favor of J. M. Ceballos & Co., steamship agents of New York.

The money is due by the United States to pay the difference between third and first class passage rates of the families of Spanish officers and officials returned from Manila to Spain following the treaty of Paris at the conclusion of the Spanish-American war.

MASONIC JEWEL FOR TAFT.

Brought from London with Membership Certificate in American Lodge.

Bringing a costly Masonic jewel for President Taft, Frederick C. Van Duzer, founder of the American Lodge of Masons in London, arrived yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm.

Mr. Van Duzer is a native of Newburgh, N. Y., but has lived in London for thirty-six years. He founded the American Masonic Lodge, the qualification for membership in which is to be an American citizen.

When the lodge was consecrated on June 3 President Taft sent a congratulatory message. He was made an honorary member, and now Mr. Van Duzer brings over the jewel, with a certificate of membership.

This is Mr. Van Duzer's sixty-sixth trip across the Atlantic.

McGOWAN FOR NEGRO POLICE.

He Tells Zionist Churchmen He'd Like to See Colored Men on Force.

The African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, the oldest negro church organization in America, is holding its annual Connectional Council this week at the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, in West Eighty-ninth Street, between Amsterdam and Columbus Avenues. Nine Bishops of the Church, besides numerous pastors and the heads of the various educational institutions of the organization throughout the East and South, are in attendance.

The sessions started last Sunday, and will end next Sunday night. Among the speakers at the session, apart from officials of the Church, was Acting Mayor McGowan.

"I have found," said the Acting Mayor, "that in all the police records of the city, it is seen that the riots in which negroes took any part were never started by the American negro."

"How about colored men on the police force?" called out some one in the audience.

"Certainly," said the Acting Mayor. "If colored men pass the examinations we should have them on the police force."

He went on to say that negro policemen for sections populated by negroes would reduce the friction and antipathy bound to crop up between white policemen and the population.

The Zion Church Organization, starting in 1796, as an offshoot of the old John Street Methodist Church, has flourished to such an extent that now it embraces a membership of 525,000 persons, and collects from them annually $200,000 for educational purposes among negroes.

NEW TARIFF RATES IN EVERY PORT NOW

Instructions Reach Pacific Coast and Officers Begin New System of Collection.

WOOD PULP CAUSES A HALT

Treasury Department Is Investigating Conditions in Canadian Export Trade Before Issuing Instructions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—For the first time since its adoption the Payne Tariff act was in operation at every port of entry in the United States. Official copies of the new law reached the Pacific Coast last night and now Honolulu, Alaska, and the Philippines are the only ports still to come within the scope of the Payne act.

The great increase in this year's imports over those of last year continues, though it is perfectly apparent that changes in the tariff law have nothing whatever to do with this increase. Reports received at the Treasury to-day, for instance, show as the total receipts at Customs Houses, $1,415,354, against $1,189,914 on the same day last year, but owing to the slow process of assessment and valuation it is extremely doubtful if more than a few staple products valued in the total reported came in under the new law, or could be in any way affected by it. The eight largest ports reported as follows:

New York, $1,015,973; Boston, $137,808; Philadelphia, $85,227; Baltimore, $21,827; Chicago, $19,734; St. Louis, $8,909; San Francisco, $7,843; New Orleans, $1,799.

Trouble From Inland Stations.

That the new law will work smoothly is, in the opinion of the Treasury Department, becoming more and more apparent. Where most trouble is anticipated is from the inland stations, where shipments are few and many of the appraisers and collectors are not versed in tariff matters, but their mistakes are usually more amusing than disastrous.

What is causing a temporary halt in the enforcement of the new law is the proviso regarding wood pulp and print paper. As to print paper, the present law provides generally a duty of $3.75 a short ton, and that rate is now being collected at New York, Philadelphia, and along the Canadian frontier. But there is a proviso which declares that when any province imposes any export duty or license fee the rate into this country on paper worth less than 3 cents a pound, an additional one-tenth of 1 cent a pound and the full export rate levied in the foreign country or province shall be imposed.

In somewhat the same way a duty of one-twelfth of 1 cent a pound is levied on mechanically ground wood pulp, with the proviso that it shall come in free from provinces levying no export duty or fee, and that where an export charge is levied that charge shall be levied in addition to the one-twelfth of 1 cent.

The Treasury Department is now busy on its own account investigating conditions in the Canadian provinces from which our paper and pulp come. Meanwhile no instructions are being issued to customs officials. They will be encouraged to use their own judgment until the department is satisfied of the facts regarding the Canadian export trade, when definite instructions will be issued.

Regulations for Philippines.

Regulations governing articles imported into or exported from the Philippine Islands were to-day issued by James B. Reynolds, Acting Secretary of the Treasury. In place of official invoices, as heretofore required on all shipments passing between the islands and the United States, certificates of origin will be used in case of shipments that are admitted into the Philippines duty free.

The regulations prescribe forms that are to be used and give detailed instructions to those who are engaged in the trade between the islands and the United States.

While nothing definite will be done toward the collection of the corporation tax until the installation of the new Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Royal Cabell of Virginia, in October, general investigations looking to the enumeration of corporations that will be subject to the tax are going forward. An important part of the work will be enumeration and location, so that the local Inspector will have some idea where to turn when the time to get receipts comes around.

FRANCE ANXIOUS OVER TARIFF.

Hopes That Government Will Act Quickly to Obtain Minimum Rates.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—The official announcement that the present tariff agreement with the United States will come to an end Oct. 31 has aroused a general discussion among French newspapers of the resultant situation.

There is great anxiety with regard to the future position of France, and the hope is expressed that the Government will avoid a needless and harmful tariff war, and that it will act quickly and prudently to obtain the minimum rates for French imports.

CALLS HUCKSTER A MENACE.

Supt. Richmann Tells Grocers They Suffer from Unfair Competition.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The State Retail Grocers' Association to-day voted to hold the next annual convention in Brooklyn. These officers were elected: President—C. C. Tuttle, Hornell; Vice Presidents—James A. Weis, Rochester; William Kramer, Brooklyn; George S. Doolitte, Jamestown; Secretary, Charles Thorp, New York; Treasurer, George H. Knighten, Buffalo.

The association adopted resolutions in favor of placing the sealing of weights and measures under the jurisdiction of the State Department; against coupon schemes and free deals; favoring the Sunday closing of grocery stores; disapproving the statement of Senator Smoot that retailers were responsible for the high prices of commodities; opposing parcel post extension and approving the garnishment law.

The importance of effective State regulation of weights and measures as a protection to the producer and the distributor as well as the purchaser was pointed out to-day by Fritz Reichmann, State Superintendent of Weights and Measures, in an address before the association. Supt. Reichmann declared that the huckster is perhaps the greatest menace to the retail dealer, and offered the suggestion that no peddler should be licensed until after his weights and measures have been tested and sealed.

"The principal difficulties the retail dealer encounters," said Supt. Reichmann, "are unfair competition and shrinkage by decay, evaporation, or decline in market value. The unfair competition is due to the few unscrupulous dealers who, under the guise of underselling, give either poor quality or short quantity, and generally the latter, because there is a pure food law which is more or less effective, and the quality can be more easily judged by the purchaser.

"I could tell you of many amusing instances of peddlers giving short measure by using six-quart measures for a peck measure, measures with double bottoms, measures cut off at the top, measures relapped, or where the commodity is filled in only on the bottom with the measure turned upside down, and a hundred other ingenious schemes."

NAVY TUG SANK IN 3 MINUTES.

Court of Inquiry to Investigate Loss of Nezinscot Off Halibut Point.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The sinking of the naval tug Nezinscot off the coast of Massachusetts yesterday, when four lives were lost, will be investigated by a court of inquiry, consisting of Capt. Caperton, Commander Hill, and Commander Rush. This court was appointed to-day by Rear Admiral Moore, commandant of the Boston Navy Yard. Whether the vessel which carried anchors and anchor chains for the battleship Missouri was loaded within the bounds of safety will be inquired into.

In a report to the Navy Department to-day, Admiral Moore said:

"Commander Bostwick returned with the Nezinscot survivors in good condition, except Evans, who was unable to travel. No bodies have been recovered. The vessel sank about seven miles north by east from Halibut Point. It is not yet definitely located, but it is in from thirty to forty feet of water, too deep to raise. There was quite a chop sea on, and she seemed to have taken three seas on board in succession. She swamped, then turned over, all in about three minutes."

FIRE IN VIRGINIA TUNNEL.

Over 300 Feet of Southern Railway's Structure Is Doomed.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Aug. 12.—Spreading rapidly, with a portion of Rivermont Avenue caving in and a fireman overcome in the fight against the flames, the fire which started yesterday in the railway tunnel here raged fiercely to-day. The damage to the tunnel is estimated at $100,000. Over 300 feet of the construction seems doomed and nearly 150 feet, reaching up to the street car tracks, had fallen in. The sidewalk was carried down.

The fire is gradually eating its way back into the tunnel. The northern end, the one farthest from the fire, was closed, and several holes will be drilled into the top to permit flooding the tunnel. This would save about 9,000 feet of the crown of the structure. Southern Railway officials arrived from Washington to-day and looked over the situation. An $8,000 steam shovel has been destroyed.

FLEET OFF VIRGINIA CAPES.

Battleships Now Assembled for Deep Sea Target Practice.

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 12.—All fifteen vessels of the Atlantic battleship fleet were to-day assembled on the southern drill grounds east of the Virginia Capes. The Idaho, the last of the ships to finish coaling and taking on stores, weighed anchor in Hampton Roads early to-day. She passed Cape Henry outward bound at 7 o'clock this morning and wireless messages interchanged between the ships two hours later told that the fleet was again together and ready for joint preliminary manoeuvres.

The weather conditions continued ideal on the coast for rough deep-sea drilling and practice by the battleships, which, however, being thirty-four miles off shore, are too far distant to be distinguished from land. Beginning Monday morning the torpedo boats Nicholson and O'Brien towed by naval tugs, with white canvas aloft on improvised masts, will be used as moving targets for the big guns of the fleet.

WU TING FANG OUT AS CHINESE ENVOY

Minister Who Helped America in the Boxer Troubles Is Again Recalled.

GOT MESSAGE TO CONGER

First Recall Due to Activity in Behalf of Americans—Chang Yin Tang to Succeed Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Wu Ting-Fang, Chinese Minister to the United States, has been recalled by the Regency, and Chang Yin Tang, Vice President of the Chinese Foreign Office, will take his place. These facts were admitted this evening at the Chinese Legation here, but the reason for the recall was withheld, in accordance with Oriental custom. It was intimated, however, that Mr. Wu would be appointed to a place on some council or commission at home.

Minister Wu is in Peru, whither he went to present his credentials as Minister to that country, stopping on his way to accredit himself similarly to Panama. Since the death of the Chinese Emperor and the Dowager Empress, reports that Mr. Wu was to be recalled have cropped out frequently, but have always been denied. His long absences from his own country, it is suggested, may have caused him to lose standing with the present Regency, and his recall may be with a view to relegating him to a comparatively obscure post.

That was what happened when Mr. Wu was recalled from his first mission to this country in 1903. He had served with distinction in this country throughout the Boxer rebellion. It was said at the time that Mr. Wu had fallen into bad odor with his own Government, and that his idiosyncrasies of manner and his eternal questions had even irritated somewhat the State Department of this country.

Be that as it may, in his own country he was appointed to a place of dignity, but of nothing like the importance of the post he had just left. His long stay in the Occident had converted him to the most advanced faction of the Chinese progressive party, and that, too, did not strengthen his position with the Throne. He built a fine house of the European model and lived in the foreign quarter at Peking.

His suggestions for the revision of the Chinese Criminal and Civil Code, while really not agreeable to the reactionary court, were received with apparent sympathy and the ex-Minister himself was assigned to the enormous task. Mr. Wu's idea had been that the only way to enable China to escape from the annoyances of extra-territoriality was by modernizing her mediaeval judicial system, but he found the task intrusted to him impossible of completion. His progressive commission proved to be one of many others established by the unsympathetic court, a figurehead to stand for progress in the eyes of the world, while the old system went on.

When Mr. Wu was succeeded by Sir Chentung Liang-Chang, who had been educated at Phillips Andover, Mr. Wu remained at home in comparative retirement for five years. Then a turn in affairs again gave him an opportunity. The United States, under the urging of President Roosevelt, remitted to China a heavy part of the indemnity technically due this country, and Mr. Wu came to express the thanks of his Government for that act of clemency. His trip was used as a veil for the retirement of Sir Chentung, and Mr. Wu resumed his old place as a puzzle to the Government, an amusement to the public, and the quiz of everybody he met.

During his first residence in Washington Mr. Wu's most important work came in connection with the Boxer troubles. In conjunction with Yuan Shi-Kai, then Taotai of Shanghai, he was successful in getting through a message to the American Minister, Mr. Conger, who, with his colleagues, was in the legation compound in Peking, and whose fate was a matter of great concern to the State Department. An answer from Mr. Conger demonstrated that he had received the message sent by the State Department and that all was well with the legation. It is pointed out as significant that Wu should be recalled soon after the downfall of Yuan Shi-Kai, his friend.

Wu's sympathies were manifestly with the United States during the Boxer troubles, and this led to his recall. Only an intimation from this Government that his beheading would be offensive to the United States, it is believed, prevented his summary death at the hands of the Chinese authorities.

The undiplomatic manner of Mr. Wu has led to many amusing incidents, some of which, it has been said, would have resulted in this Government's demand for his recall, but for the fact that Secretary of State Hay was fond of the quaint Oriental, and always passed off his adventures as jokes.

SEARCH SHIP FOR EX-BROKER.

United States Marshal Cannot Serve Writ of "Ne Exeat" on Newcombe.

Isaac B. Newcombe, a former member of the Stock Exchange, whose financial difficulties have occupied the courts off and on since 1904, was sought on the French liner Touraine yesterday by a United States Deputy Marshal and attorneys armed with [illegible] of "ne exeat," issued by Judge H[illegible] the United States District Court.

A petition in bankruptcy had been filed against him early in the morning. The creditors, hearing that he planned to sail for Europe, had sued out the writ in record time and arrived at the pier a few moments before the steamer sailed. Thy found his baggage in the stateroom and Mrs. Newcombe on the steamer's deck. But though a hurried search was made of the ship, they found no trace of the bankrupt broker.

The petition was brought by Frank B. Bermilya, attorney for three creditors. The largest creditor is Samuel H. Parsons, who holds seven notes of the broker's, aggregating $1,110, running from June 2, 1904, to Sept. 22, 1906. George A. Lee, another creditor, holds a claim amounting to $645 for money advanced between April 20, 1904 and Jan. 1 of this year. The third creditor is Ellery S. McNaul, who holds a note for $100 given to Mr. Parsons, dated April 29, 1904.

The act of bankruptcy, which Newcombe is alleged to have committed, took place on Aug. 6, when he is said to have paid his son, Burr Newcombe, a sum of money ranging between $38,000 and $42,000, the exact amount of which is not known.

On March 28, 1906, a petition in bankruptcy was filed against Isaac B. Newcombe, in which his liabilities were placed at $640.96, and his assets at $85,000 just the value of his Stock Exchange seat.

The general creditors recovered nothing and the bankruptcy was closed up on April 1 last by Referee Macgrane Coxe, without any application for a discharge. On July 29, Justice Bischoff of the Supreme Court appointed Stewart Browne, a former partner of Newcombe in the Stock Exchange house of Stewart Browne & Co., receiver in supplementary proceedings for Mr. Newcombe.

Three years before Mr. Browne had obtained four judgments against the broker aggregating $40,651. At the time of his appointment as receiver for Mr. Newcombe it was stated that the Stock Exchange authorities had ordered the sale of his seat, subject to liens of members of the Exchange. A few days later the judgments were satisfied.

Isaac B. Newcombe became a member of the Stock Exchange in 1869. He was suspended for five years on May 2, 1904.

FOUGHT OFF HOLD-UP MEN.

Contractor and a Friend Capture One After a Fight—Friends Rescue Him.

WHITE PLAINS, Aug. 12.—Acting Sheriff Scherp, with a posse of Deputies, yesterday arrested two men in the vicinity of Mount Kisco who are charged with attempting a hold-up on Wednesday night. Each one accuses the other of the crime. They are being held for further examination.

Bonnie Turner, a contractor, was driving on Wednesday night with William Tompkins from Yorktown to Mount Kisco. Suddenly two men appeared in the road. One of them seized the horse's head, while the other started to climb into the wagon. Tompkins leaped out, his feet landing in the stranger's stomach and bearing him to the ground. All the fight was knocked out of him, and while he cried for mercy his companion fled.

Turner and Tompkins loaded their prisoner into the wagon and started to drive on to Mount Kisco. As they entered the town they were met by a gang of men, most of them Italians. They stopped the two men, and after a hard fight, in which several heads were laid open by the contractor and his friend, took their prisoner from them. The Sheriff at once started after the gang, and soon arrested a man whom Turner and Tompkins say is Fred Smith, one of the men who attacked them. As he was being taken to the jail, a man named McCassidy happened to pass the Sheriff. He had a bandaged head, and was arrested on suspicion of being implicated.

STATE WARD MADE TO PAY.

Justice Goff Wants to Know Why Before Settling Brand's Accounts.

The question whether a State hospital may charge for the maintenance of patients came up before Supreme Court Justice Goff yesterday, on the application of Wolf Brand, committee of the estate of Dora Styer, who has been an inmate of the Manhattan State Hospital since June, 1906, for an order settling his accounts.

Brand filed an account setting forth that the money he had received belonging to the incompetent amounted to $768, and among the disbursements was a payment to the Manhattan institution of $681 for the support of the incompetent from May, 1906, to June, 1909. The aggregate of all the sums paid out was the $768 received by Brand.

When the order was submitted to Justice Goff he refused to sign it, and accompanied his refusal with a memorandum saying: "Counsel will please state how the Manhattan State Hospital comes to charge for the maintenance of a patient."

Brand said the woman was still in the institution, and, so far as he knew, was hopelessly insane. She has nothing left, he said, except about $10 worth of trinkets.

YACHTS ALL SAFE, SEAMANSHIP PRAISED

After Day of Rest in Portland N. Y. Y. C. Cruise Will be Resumed To-day.

AURORA'S FINE SHOWING

Members Relate Experiences of Run Up the Coast on Flagship Aloha—Vigilant's Battle in Gale.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 12.—With the arrival here to-day of the Taormina, Sea Fox, and Istalena all of the widely scattered fleet which had been struck by the gale of Tuesday night are safe at anchor in this port, or accounted for in some other port. All except the ones which are too badly crippled to continue the cruise are reported to have sailed from their several ports of refuge and are expected to arrive in time to join in the line-up for the race to Rockland, which begins to-morrow morning.

It was a weary band of yachtsmen that made port yesterday and last night, and they all needed the well-earned rest made possible by the decision of Commodore James to eliminate the race to Brooklyn, which had been scheduled for to-morrow. During the afternoon the Commodore invited the yachtsmen and their guests to a reception on board the flagship Aloha, and there the experiences that were encountered during the boom buckling, plate pulling thrash to windward were told and told again. And these yachtsmen, who are never so happy as when they have the deep sea swell underfoot, swore by Neptune that it was sailing, that it recalled such spray blown battles as had been fought out between the Dauntless and the Genesta for the Breton's Reef Cup, or that later struggle across the Atlantic between the Cornet and the Dauntless.

True, this was not much of a gale as Atlantic gales go, but it is also true that most of the yachts that were called upon to face it were not built for heavy weather on the high sea, their architectural intention being mainly in the direction of racing in light weather and in smooth waters. That no lives were lost and that all of the yachts outlived the trying ordeal, was considered by Commodore James as a subject for congratulation and high testimony to the seamanship of those who sailed the yachts.

"It was a severe test," he said. "I am more than pleased at the way the fleet came through. Happily not a life was lost and although several of the yachtsmen were disabled all of the yachtsmen and all of their guests, even the ladies who sailed with them, are now making light of the experience, and eagerly looking forward to the rest of the cruise. The steam yachts did not run away from the fleet. The North Star followed along inshore and the Aloha three miles off, all the way down the coast. The others were stationed as patrols along the line to look after the sailing craft. The gale must have been worse for the 57-footers, and the showing made by the Aurora, Cornelius Vanderbilt's yacht, which won that class, was truly wonderful."

The names of the yachts which were adjudged to have won in their respective classes were announced. Elmina got the cup for large schooners, Taormina for small schooners, Aurora for sloops, Sea Fox for the special class of schooners, and Vigilant, the old cup defender, winning in her class. Vigilant had had a hard battle against the gale, but emerged from her trials without any serious mishap. Her tender, the ocean-going tug Mercury, stood faithfully by, ready to render assistance in case of need. But not until she had won her way past the finish line did she accept the towline.

It was learned that the schooner Corona, which was disabled off Pollock Rip Lightship, was refitting in Boston and that the yawl Cleona had shipped a new bowsprit in Marblehead and would soon proceed.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, W. Butler Duncan, Jr., and Newberry D. Thorne, who sailed the victorious Aurora in her class, received numerous congratulations. Mr. Duncan, who navigated the yacht, and who has the reputation of being the most expert navigator in the fleet, said that because of the refusal of the binnacle light to stay lit during the tumble up the coast, the yacht was steered most of the night by stars. Mr. Duncan was enthusiastic over the seaworthy qualities of the sloop, which apparently puts in a high degree those qualities best loved by the sailor—stanchness of rigging and buoyancy in a seaway.

The weather to-night is a bit thick, and local weather sharps predict a continuation of thick weather to-morrow. This, and not the fact that to-morrow is Friday, the 13th, may cause more or less defection from the starting line. The schedule is for a fifty-two-mile race to Rockland for the schooners and sloops. Each of the racers will have a steam yacht for escort, the convoys being told off to-night. Should a fog shut in, or the wind fall to a calm, the steam vessels will take the racing craft in tow and bring them into port. In addition, a time limit has been set, this being 6 o'clock to-morrow evening. Any of the yachts that manage to make their way to the finish in that time will be adjudged winners. These arrangements have been considered necessary by the fact that the fleet is scheduled to reach Bar Harbor on Saturday.

W. Butler Duncan, Sr., the oldest member of the club, who is now at his Summer home in Bar Harbor, has invited the yachtsmen to be his guests at the Pot and Kettle Club when they reach the end of their cruise. Many social entertainments have been arranged for the visitors at Bar Harbor to dispel all recollection of the stormiest experience that the club has ever had at sea.

As an aftermath to the race up the coast, a series of smaller events took place in the harbor to-day. These were the Owl and Gamecock races, and took place between the sailors of the racing yachts. The gig of the Elmina won the Gamecock colors, thus adding another trophy to the several which that vessel has won. The Owl colors were carried off by a crew from the Taormina in a four-oared gig. A sailor from the Aurora won the dinghy race and was warmly congratulated by Mr. Vanderbilt.

GIANTS STRIKE CUBS A STAGGERING BLOW

New Yorks Defeat Champions in Both Games of a Double-header at Chicago.

MERKLE TOUCHES SECOND

Also Scores Two Runs That Have an Important Bearing on the Result of Each Game—Archer Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 12.—Merkle touched second base twice to-day and achieved personal vengeance, for he was an important part of two Giant rallies which brought defeat to Chicago's champions in both ends of a double header. The scores were 5 to 2 and 3 to 0, the wrong way, considered from a Chicago standpoint.

The first game was an upset in which Mordecai Brown was the victim, after holding New York down to two hits in seven innings and apparently having the victory within his reach. A batting rally in the eighth inning, assisted by an error by Steinfeldt, turned the tables completely, and Merkle was first assistant table turner.

The second game was Mathewson's all the way. The Giants bunched three hits on Pfiester in the third inning for two runs, and in that rally Merkle was the leader. Merkle got on first only two times, and each time he not only touched second, but third base and home plate as well. He registered the run that tied in the first game, and the first and only one needed to win the second battle. After McCormick had exploded a two-bagger to start the sixth, Manager Chance substituted Higginbotham for the Giant killer, and the visitors made only one more safe hit.

What promised to be more serious than the loss of the two games was the accident that put Jimmy Archer out of commission in the middle of the second game. Right after Higginbotham began to pitch a foul tip from Murray's bat dislocated the little finger of the back stop's throwing hand. He gave way to Moran at once, and had the injury attended to immediately.

A tremendous crowd for a week day watched the battles, the spectators surrounding the field except where a gap was kept open in centre field to give the batsmen a solid background to look at. Anything hit past the outfielders was good for two bases only, but the pitching was so good in both contests that few drives went into the crowd.

A brilliant catch by Shulte of Murray's liner in the fourth inning and the attempt of Manager McGraw to have O'Hara score two runs in the eighth inning without going to bat at all were features of the first game.

The O'Hara tangle happened in the rally that broke up the first game. He was substituted on first base to run for Myers, and after he had been driven home by two hits, Cy Seymour was ordered out of the game after having accidentally struck Archer with his bat after making the hit that scored O'Hara. McGraw asked Umpire Klem if O'Hara could not run for Seymour, as he was going to keep O'Hara in the game by putting him in Seymour's garden. Klem apparently assented, and O'Hara went to second, but Manager Chance and Joe Tinker called Klem's attention to the fact that if O'Hara remained in the game he belonged in Myer's place in the batting order, hence could not run for any one but himself thereafter, without Chance's consent, which naturally was not forthcoming. Mr. Klem remembered the rule then, and Devere was substituted on the circuit for Seymour.

In the second game Matthewson's pitching was the centrepiece around which all plays revolved. He left the Clubs down with four hits and only twice did he permit one to venture as far as second. The scores:

Reds Take Two from Boston.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Aug. 12.—Cincinnati won both games of the double-header with Boston here to-day. The first game went ten innings, the winning tally being scored on a base on balls, a sacrifice, a steal of third base, and a single by Paskert. In going to third in this inning Downey, the Cincinnati short stop, sprained an ankle and had to be carried off the field. In the second game the Cincinnatis profited largely by the errors of Boston. Diehl, a local man, played in left for Boston in this game. A great one-handed catch by Paskert was the feature. Scores:

YANKS SHUT OUT BY THE CHICAGOS

Scott Defeats Quinn in an Unusual Pitchers' Duel.

ALLOWS FOUR HITS TO TEN

Visitors Restore Tie with New Yorks for Fifth Place—Brilliant Fielding Marks the Contest.

Not baseball, merely, but something more and finer—balkline billiards on the diamond—was played by the White Sox in American League Park yesterday, with the Yankees a good second, but still—well, second. It was above and beyond and cleaner-cut and far more scientific than any ordinary game—ball that kept the heart a-flutter, the throat tense, the eyes straining for minute analysis of the beautiful work unfolding before 6,000 appreciative students of the game.

No game for novices; one for the alumni of the National sport—one to make demands on all the onlookers' whole knowledge of the game. Threading the intricate inside ball the fielders were playing ran a pitchers' duel which, despite the disparity between Chicago's ten hits and New York's four, was as close in its results and as exciting as many a well-nigh hitless game. Scott and Quinn, the twirlers, walked two men each, and though the Chicagoan hit a batsman that batsman was Elberfeld, and they do say the Kid doesn't strain himself very much to get out of the way of a wide one—especially when the team is only a run to the bad.

The Sox shut out the Hilltoppers by a score of 2 to 0, thereby restoring the tie between the teams for fifth place. Each run was earned in the technical sense, but the second was due to about as lucky a hit as ever was made on the local field. Said safety was a scorching carom off Quinn, just past Elberfeld, and short of Engle, the ball stopping at about the only point it could have found to keep out of the clutches of three eagerly grasping Yanks. Had it glanced a little more toward centre field Elberfeld would have stopped it. If it had paused a few feet nearer than its final resting place Austin might have reached it. Had it bounded two or three yards farther there would have been a chance that Engle would head off the batter with a swift shoot to first. As it was Atz, who made the smash, was safe by a city block, and Tannehill got in from third with time to pick daisies on the way.

Strange though it may seem to call the second run of a 2-to-0 shut-out the conclusive tally, such it practically was. The first run Chicago got didn't worry anybody. It came in the first inning, and everybody evidently remembered the same thing had happened the day before. Connoisseurs could tell—as nearly as anything can be told in advance in baseball—that, the way Scotty was pitching, the Toppers, bar accident, wouldn't tie, not to speak of taking the lead, in any early round. The wise ones fixed their eyes on the sixth and eighth frames, knowing by experience the Yankees' aptitude for winning in one or another. Any one with half an eye could see the home players felt the same way about it. Wait till near the wind-up, plainly was the watchword. The impression was general that Quinn, though touched up pretty smartly in the opening chapter, would hold the visitors to their slender margin long enough for his side to pass them.

It was not until the sixth had come and gone and that second tally was carded in the seventh that hope died. Everybody who saw Scott's terrific speed and noted the confusing curves and perplexing pace changes of his shoots and slants and bends appeared to realize the minute Tannehill loped under the wire that the game was as a story that is told. Let Quinn put 'em over never so well—let him make it absolutely impossible for the Sox to score again—it was too late. The lakesiders needed no more runs. Scott, gaining strength and swiftness and sureness as the ferocious duel with Quinn progressed, had become invincible. From the time that second count came in, he allowed only one hit. Two other locals got to first in the last three rounds, but one of them did so on a force hit that caused the third out in the seventh, and the other got a life on an error—the only flaw in Chicago's fielding.

JEFF REPUDIATES BERGER.

Says No One Had Authority to Make Match with Johnson.

PLYMOUTH, Eng., Aug. 12.—James J. Jeffries on arriving here to-day from New York appeared to be surprised when informed that his representative, Sam Berger, had signed an agreement at Chicago yesterday for a championship fight between Jack Johnson and Jeffries.

"No one has any authority," said Jeffries, "to make any such arrangements in my absence. I have nothing to say about by fight with Johnson. The match will come off if I have anything to do with it, unless one or the other of us dies. As to the date when the fight will occur, it may be in six months, and it may be earlier or even later, but the sooner the better."

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Sem Berger, acting as the representative of James J. Jeffries in arranging for a bout between the former world's champion, and the present holder of the pugilistic title, Jack Johnson, was unperturbed to-day by the report that his authority to represent the big fighter had been repudiated by Jeffries.

"Mr. Jeffries has undoubtedly been misinformed as to what was done yesterday and believes I concluded a final agreement with Johnson," said Berger. "I have cabled to him just what I did in negotiating preliminary arrangements with Johnson, as he had given me specific authority to do. The agreement signed yesterday is not and never was considered by me as final. Indeed, in its wording, it refers to the settlement of the final details after the club offer is accepted.

"The agreement contains only the preliminary articles and I am satisfied Mr. Jeffries will approve what I have done."

Jack Johnson, pugilist, was arrested to-day for exceeding the automobile speed limit on Michigan Avenue and released on bond.

Lewis and Burke to Fight To-Night.

Willie Lewis and Sailor Burke will meet to-night in a ten-round bout before the Fairmont Athletic Club. Lewis will make his first appearance since his successful trip to France and is confident that he will be returned the winner, while Burke, who has done excellent ring work recently, is satisfied in his own ability to take Lewis's measure. The contest is the most important held this Summer, and the advance sale of tickets indicates a big house.

Bedford A. C.'s Offer to Coulon.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Bantamweight Champion "Johnny" Coulon has received an offer from the Bedford Athletic Club of Brooklyn of $2,000 to fight three boys at the club in two weeks, the fighters to be Charley Goldman, Phil McGovern, and Joe Coster, considered the best in their class in the East. Coulon's father, who looks after his son's interests, asserted he would accept if the boys would make a reasonable weight.

BIG AUTOMOBILE RACE.

Quaker City Club Arranging Event for Benefit of Charity.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—Arrangements are being made by a committee appointed by Mayor Reyburn for what will probably be one of the greatest automobile races ever held in this country. The race will be held in Fairmount Park on Saturday, Oct. 9, and will be over a 300-mile course.

Already a score of entries have been received by the Quaker City Automobile Club, under whose auspices the race will be held. Besides $3,000 in cash prizes, of which $2,500 will go to the winner, it is probable the city will give a handsome silver cup to the victor.

It is expected that a large sum of money will be raised from charges for parking space, grand stand seats, and concessions, and all of this money will be donated to charity.

FOR A UNION OF DEMOCRATS.

The purposes and the policies expressly set forth in the call for the Democratic Conference at Saratoga are sound and commendable. There ought to be a movement to unite the Democrats of the State "upon real Democratic principles." It will be a good thing to have a "full and free discussion of party conditions and policies." It would be beneficial. Economy in State and Federal administration, home rule, the purging of the tariff of its bounties to favored interests are all highly worthy objects. In particular, the safeguarding of party voters and their authorized representatives against being thrown out of the window at primaries and State Conventions is essential to the end that the Buffalo outrage may never be repeated. A declaration of principles that will give "a clearer meaning to the party name in this State" would fill a long-felt want.

But by what authority does CHARLES F. MURPHY exult in the summoning of this conference of Democrats? He is reported in The Evening Post to have said yesterday that "the signers of this call and Tammany Hall are lined up together," and that these Democrats who want to make the party united and powerful "must support the Democratic city ticket as well as the Democratic State ticket." A Democrat who "must" support any and every candidate put in nomination by Mr. MURPHY of Tammany Hall is in a situation involving great strain upon morals and conscience.

Democrats who are in cordial sympathy with the professed objects of the Saratoga Conference and who would rejoice to see them accomplished, would be comforted, we think, by some assurance that Mr. MURPHY's assumption that the signers of the call and Tammany Hall "stand together" is premature and without basis.

THE SPRING OF EXTRAVAGANCE.

In a very interesting article in the Sunday TIMES of this week Mr. E. J. EDWARDS discussed the rapid and great growth of the expenditures of the National Government, together with the plan for direct taxation by which the new Administration hopes to provide an efficient check to this growth.

The theory on which this plan is based is familiar. It assumes that when the taxpayers have to give the money directly from their own pockets they will compel their representatives to be more careful in the spending of it. The trouble with the working out of this theory is that the taxpayers who, under any scheme yet suggested, will have to provide the money, are a minority of the voters—an unusually intelligent and to some degree an influential minority, but a pretty small minority all the same. This would clearly be the case with the payers of an income tax or a tax on the net gains of corporations. If, to escape the difficulty thus presented, the Government should seek to collect a tax on all incomes, whether from professions, business, "gainful occupations," or the wages of labor, the obstacle would appear in another form; the great majority, made up of wage earners, would not consent to the imposition of such a tax.

There is another element in the situation, and an important one, in the nature of the forces that bring about large expenditures. In our Government these expenditures are chiefly due to public works and buildings and to pensions. In each case, if the amount of money voted depended on the general public interest, it would be relatively moderate. But it does not. It depends on the strength of local and class interests that profit by the expenditure. Moreover, the amount for each appropriation by no means depends on the strength of those only who seek it, but generally on the combined strength of all those seeking like appropriations. This is the explanation of the "log-rolling" so prevalent and so mischievous in Congress. In the matter of pensions, not only is each pension supported by all pension hunters and their friends, but by the politicians whom the pension hunters and their friends can help or harm. Thus it comes about that there is a definite, active, often greedy and organized support for liberal appropriations. Against this there is arrayed only the vague sentiment that extravagance is bad. At the decisive point the forces attacking the Treasury are powerful, and those defending it are weak. It needs no great knowledge of strategy to understand the certain outcome.

The American Nation is by no means alone in its extravagance. France suffers, relatively to its resources, more than we. Germany is beginning to feel the steady pressure. Great Britain is seriously embarrassed by it. The fact is that no adequate mode of handling finance—revenue and expenditure—so as to limit the latter to really useful ends and to collect the former with the least harm to the common welfare, has yet been discovered in a democracy. The theory that the representatives of a few people will spend that people's money wisely under the watchful eyes of their constituents has pretty well broken down in practice. It is true that there is no known substitute for it that works better, but that does not make the problem any easier.

THAW A PARANOIAC.

At last it has been judicially determined and declared that THAW, the slayer of STANFORD WHITE, is a paranoiac. In his lucid, able, and sound review of the evidence placed before him in the habeas corpus proceedings at White Plains Judge MILLS states it to be his conclusion that the insanity with which THAW was afflicted at the time of the homicide "was of the kind known as chronic, delusive insanity, or paranoia"; that he is still insane, and that his release from confinement "would be dangerous to public peace and safety, and therefore cannot be permitted."

Paranoia is incurable. The delusions which possessed the mind of THAW three years ago still possess it. They were disclosed in a startling manner on that day of the hearing when Mr. JEROME questioned THAW concerning his beliefs as to WHITE's manner of life. Those questions touched upon the central subject of THAW's delusions, and at once they manifested themselves under the immediate observation of the court. From that moment there could have been no reasonable doubt that the writ would be dismissed. Moreover, when Justice MILLS asked Dr. BAKER of Matteawan if, in his opinion, it would be safe to set THAW free, and received an emphatic negative as the reply, the question and answer were of a higher significance than those put and given in the ordinary examination of witnesses. This was one officer of the State officially questioning another officer of the State, who gave an answer in his official capacity.

Being an incurable paranoiac, it is necessary for the public safety that THAW spend the remainder of his life under close restraint. Experience with similar cases teaches that, if released, he would in all probability attempt to commit, or actually commit, homicidal acts. The known wealth of the prisoner's family will, if they choose so to use it, enable them to make further ill-advised attempts to secure his release. Lawyers may be found to aid them, although after Judge MILLS's finding, and the incurable nature of THAW's mental malady being well understood, it would seem that reluctance to become an accessory before the fact of the man's next homicide might damp professional enthusiasm for fees in such an undertaking.

As a wise safeguard against contingencies of that nature, however, the State should cause a transcript of the stenographic record of the proceeding before Justice MILLS to be deposited at Matteawan as a part of the Thaw casebook. In any future hearing this record evidence could be introduced, thus obviating the necessity of a restirring of the nauseous mess. This community would be very glad to know that it had heard the last of the Thaw case.

WHERE MR. PINCHOT STANDS.

Mr. GIFFORD PINCHOT, the savior of the country's forests, is wrong. Unless he rights himself speedily, he may cease to become a member of Mr. TAFT's Administration, despite his great services to the Nation. If he does not distrust Mr. TAFT in the Administration's methods of dealing with the Water Power Trust, it is manifest from his speech at Spokane this week that Mr. PINCHOT distrusts the methods of Mr. TAFT's Cabinet officer, Secretary of the Interior BALLINGER.

Mr. BALLINGER last April threw open 1,400,000 acres of the public domain which had been withdrawn by President ROOSEVELT for the purpose of conserving water power sites, thus cutting down the area of withdrawals to 154,000 acres. The Geological Survey had apprised Mr. BALLINGER that Mr. ROOSEVELT withdrew townships where the withdrawal of sections would have answered every purpose. A recent trustworthy dispatch to our neighbor The Tribune declared that "the President is in hearty accord with the policy of Mr. BALLINGER." Other withdrawals of coal, oil, and phosphate lands were found to be illegal. With respect to these The Tribune of Chicago last month defined the intentions of the President and Mr. BALLINGER as follows:

> It is the intention of Secretary BALLINGER, also, to prevent the monopolization of coal, oil, and phosphate lands, and he is preparing to advise the President as to what recommendations to this end ought to be submitted in the first annual message to Congress of the Chief Executive. Both the President and the Secretary realize that their duty at this time is to enforce the law as it exists and to prevent any abuse of its provisions.

The clash in methods advocated by Mr. PINCHOT and Mr. TAFT may be seen in the subjoined dispatch from the Washington bureau of The New York Tribune and an extract from Mr. PINCHOT's speech at Spokane:

THE PRESIDENT'S VIEW.

President TAFT is wholly unwilling that the law shall be strained, or that the members of his Administration shall exceed their constitutional and statutory powers, in the effort to prevent the monopolization of water-power sites. He has expressed himself energetically in opposition to the proposition that "the end justifies the means," and in the process of making certain that no executive act shall be open to the charge of being without legal warrant, a number of these sites will inevitably be thrown open to settlement under the existing land laws.

MR. PINCHOT'S VIEW.

Rigid construction of the law works, and must work, in the vast majority of cases, for the benefit of the men who can hire the best lawyers and who have the sources of influence in lawmaking at their command. Strict construction necessarily favors the great interests as against the people, and in the long run cannot do otherwise. Wise execution of the law must consider what the law ought to accomplish for the general good.

That is, in Mr. PINCHOT's view, the Executive need have clearly in mind only "the general good" and a hatred of corporations. If the acts thus far passed by Congress distinctly authorize the exploitation of minerals—and they do—while Mr. ROOSEVELT's orders setting aside ranger sites specifically forbade such exploitation, Mr. PINCHOT believes that Mr. TAFT ought to follow Mr. ROOSEVELT without respect to the law. Mr. TAFT, on the other hand, believes that the law ought first to be changed in the interest of a worthy Rooseveltian policy.

This is not Mr. PINCHOT's first mistake. No sooner had Mr. TAFT become President than the Chief Forester circulated among President ROOSEVELT's illegally paid commissions the Roosevelt memorandum declaring that the Sundry Civil act, which reiterates a clause of the Constitution providing that no money shall be drawn from the Treasury but in consequence of appropriations made by law, was "an invasion of the Executive prerogative." Mr. TAFT and Congress saw the matter with other eyes.

The present difference of opinion between Mr. PINCHOT and President TAFT is important, in that it indicates with clearness and precision the difference in methods between the present and the past Administration. It should never be forgotten that Mr. TAFT was a Judge before he became President. As the Nation's Chief Executive he still retains his respect for its laws.

THE PROFITS OF BURGLARY.

Mr. BINGHAM once said that the occupation of a burglar in this city ought to be lucrative. The city was not well supplied with police, and it is not now, but his declaration was just a little hasty. The statisticians have computed that the average receipts from burglary, including the time spent by the burglar in enforced seclusion, do not amount to the wages of the ordinary day laborer. RICHARD CARLIN, whose confession was published yesterday, had no money when arrested, and sighed for his old job in a wholesale grocery. A friend had told him that burglary was easy, "but it's not," Mr. CARLIN decided. "I haven't made expenses while I have been at it. My best haul yet resulted in my being caught."

"With all my tricks, the blockheads have been too many for me at last," said the rogue Jenkinson to Dr. Primrose's son. The law may be unwieldy and inelastic, its officers may be stupid. Those who violate it may have nimble wits, too, though the contrary is more likely. But the vocation of burglary necessitates an essential maladjustment to society that is prejudicial to its most expert followers' chances of profit.

BEGGARS AND MISPLACED SYMPATHY.

There has been some effort lately to trace the cause of a peculiar type of vagabondage to physiological and neurasthenic causes. Reason exists, no doubt, why good people should sympathize with miserable outcasts, who, if they ever had a chance, could not avail themselves of it on account of some inherited deficiency. But there is always danger that a sentimental wave will reach too far. The quality of mercy truly falls like the gentle rain from heaven, but it doesn't always light on those who best deserve its gentle ministrations.

New York has seldom been so overrun with professional beggars as now. And the police are apparently indifferent to their presence. These people have nothing in common with the "Weary Willies" whose interests science is now championing. They are either crooks or natural-born loafers, and, unlike the tramps with inherited mental and physical deficiencies, they could do work if they would. But it is easier to "work" the soft-hearted.

The specious argument that it is better to give to a half dozen undeserving persons than to risk missing one who needs help has worked no end of mischief and helped more to pauperize the poor than any other factor, and the police should see to it that the general public is not menaced by the weakness of the few.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Old Young Men and Schoolgirl Brides.

There were elements of the unusual in those remarks the other day of the Countess of CARDIGAN and LANCASTER, twice a widow, and exercising her woman's right to be of no age at all, though she certainly married her Balaklava hero in 1858—the Peerage is authority for so much. "A man of 28," says the Countess, "is 48 in experience. How can a schoolroom beauty permanently depose the adorable she who has filled the happy youthful years of this man's life?" The Countess hints that the adorable she in question has been more or less adorably personified many times over in those happy youthful years. Following her ladyship's perceiving gaze you see with your mind's eye a long procession of beauties blonde, brunette, laughing and demure, distractingly plump and bewitchingly sweet-briary, (to borrow a perfectly good word from Mr. HENRY JAMES,) all merging into that adorable she and perfecting her. Then the "school-room beauty" trips on the stage and we see her simple charms pale before the composite image of woman's infinite variety.

Lady CARDIGAN knows her upper class young man and his life, and she frankly declares that the school-room beauty is inadequate to the task of holding him. She thinks that the opposite young person, too, should win experience, acquire varieties within herself in the process and get rid of troublesome illusions before and not after taking a husband. She is rather apt to do that nowadays even without advice.

Undoubtedly from the point of view of "society"—meaning by the term those circles in which men and women seek rather to make life interesting than to do mere work and raise families—the Countess is right. But society—even in this broad sense—is a very small part of the world. Outside of it Lady CARDIGAN's wisdom ceases very likely to be wise. There are so many excellently good reasons why both men and women should marry young just as there are so many excellently good reasons in particular cases why they shouldn't. To be sure, if your young man is really 48 in experience on his 28th birthday he ought to be at least 88 on his 48th birthday. Perhaps, therefore, Lady CARDIGAN's advice reduces itself actually to this: "Very young girls ought not to marry very old young men." In that form it is unexceptionable. There are plenty of young men who are quite as young as their ages.

High Finance in Venezuela.

Don CIPRIANO CASTRO, now a resident of Santander, Spain, and some time President and Dictator of Venezuela, was known in his day as a thrifty man and a bold accumulator. It is even said that he used public office for private profit at the expense of Americans desirous of exploiting his fatherland. How much of his savings the enterprising Don CIPRIANO carried off with him when he sailed away to Europe the public is not informed, but he left behind him in Venezuela "visible" assets amounting, it is credibly stated, to not less than $5,000,000. These visible assets, reports from Caracas now say, have been "almost totally wiped out."

The fact—in the place and circumstances—is not surprising, but the process by which the "wiping out" has been accomplished is interesting. Earlier advices have hinted at it. The millions of Don CIPRIANO were subjected to the most refining processes of that modern art of high finance to which Don CIPRIANO himself was no stranger. In short, the companies in which Gen. CASTRO held large blocks of stock were "reorganized on a 10 per cent. basis." Thus, at one stroke 90 per cent. of the "visible" assets of the helpless exile disappeared. By what subsequent operations so much of the stock as was in the hands of true patriots was restored to the original level of "visible" value the advices omit to state.

Perhaps Don CIPRIANO had neglected—though that would hardly be in line with his known shrewdness—to give the public a sufficient stake in his enterprises. Perhaps he had all the stock and the patriots none. Don CIPRIANO was known as a monopolist.

However that may be, the methods of the Venezuelans suggest several things. For instance: When our own "trusts" have merged themselves into that water-power monopoly which Mr. GIFFORD PINCHOT says is even now organizing to throttle us, may not our patriots get even by reorganizing the monster "on a 10 per cent. basis" and in like manner deprive our thriftiest citizens (while they are abroad for the Summer) of 90 per cent. of their "visible" assets? The prospect to the poor man is certainly alluring. The details of the plan are somewhat hazy, but we may hardly admit that the patriots of Venezuela are better high financiers than our patriots would be.

In the Name of Charity.

So-called charitable societies that are run for gain; that gull immigrants into lending them money without interest; that demand 65 cents for each ostensibly free meal; that exact a fee of $2 from employers for every immigrant supplied; that promise to guide incoming aliens to their friends and relatives, and, instead, beat them with bludgeons; that permit employés regularly to consume intoxicants on their premises; that exchange money at improper rates, and sell identification slips to outgoing aliens for $2 each—when such societies are officially denounced by the Commissioner of Immigration it is almost too late for their managers to try to shield their blasted reputations.

Yet more scandalous conditions are mentioned by Commissioner WILLIAMS. He has barred from Ellis Island the agents of one denominational "home for immigrants" which he accuses of trafficking openly in "white slaves." Congressman BENNET of the commission appointed to look into the affairs of the immigrants, reports that three-quarters of the homes investigated were engaged in this work, and that hundreds of girls applying to them for aid had "dropped completely out of sight."

It is a terrible indictment of the heads of these societies organized in the name of charity. If true, it affords an unenviable commentary on the conduct of his office by the predecessor of Commissioner WILLIAMS.

Useful Articles.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It gave me much pleasure to read the two articles which appeared in your Sunday magazine of Aug. 1 and Aug. 8, written by Mrs. Charlotte Wharten Ayers, which treated of the experience of a young lady in looking for employment.

This happens every day. I have been the victim of such an experience. It will benefit many a young lady if she has read the story. She will learn to overlook many of the fake "ads" under the "Female Want" column.

We all hope that Mrs. Charlotte Wharten Ayers will continue this good work, and write us more, which will be good food for the brain.

Work to be Accomplished by the Newly Established Court.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Court of Customs Appeals is now an established fact, having become so by the new tariff act of Aug. 5, 1909, which will go down in history as the Payne Tariff act. I think justice requires that some reply should be made to the attack on this tribunal from the pen of Mr. Alfred Ely in THE TIMES of the 6th inst.

The student of customs laws, in addition to much technical knowledge peculiar to revenue systems, is required constantly to deal with the vast subject of statutory construction, and with the laws of evidence in all of its phases, with international laws involving treaties, with constitutional and corporation laws, with practice and procedure, and numerous other branches of the legal profession, to say nothing of scientific, industrial, and artistic questions, and the broad field of tariff nomenclature. The assault on the wisdom of special tribunals needs no answer. They are justified by the history of Anglo-American jurisprudence, and the professional biographies of the English and American bars.

Litigation will be diminished in two ways by the establishment of this court:

1. Speed will be secured in disposing of protests, and the curse of protracted delays operating often as denials of justice be removed. A burdensome and expensive evil has existed heretofore in the practice of suspending cases pending before the board to await the pleasure of customs attorneys to try their cases on appeal in the courts. Mr. Ely asserts, evidently on hearsay, that the Federal courts are always up with their calendars. Is he aware that cases are generally placed on the trial dockets only when both parties are ready to argue them, and the longer the delay in staving off argument the greater the accumulation of analogous protests before the board held up for the court decision? And this delay is increased by appeals taken to the Circuit Courts of Appeal, and later to the Supreme Court. Under the old law over 9,000 protests on sugar were held up for ten years to await the final disposition of two cases appealed to the Supreme Court covering the same questions. Over 56,000 protests are now held up by the Board of General Appraisers under similar conditions. If in future a test case arises on any litigated question of law or fact it can and will be decided promptly by able Judges, who give their special attention to its consideration, and the life of a customs case from the time a protest is filed before the board to the period of its final termination will probably not extend over one year. Hence but few protests will accumulate, because there will be no premium placed on protracted delays.

2. I do not maintain that the courts have not been diligent in disposing of customs cases placed on their calendars for argument, but that the dockets of the courts at New York and elsewhere contain a vast number of pending cases which for some reason remain undecided. I have a list of these cases before me, just published, showing the following approximate results:

Cases now on appeal in New York Circuit	580
Cases now on appeal in other circuits	202
Total	782

Some of these appeals, of course, will cover thousands of protests now pending before the board.

Mr. Ely entirely overlooks a further most pregnant fact. This is the irreconcilable conflicts found in the decisions of the Federal courts of different circuits on identical questions. These conflicts are referred to at some length in my letter to Attorney General Wickersham, written on inquiry by him, and published in The Congressional Record of July 7, 1909.

Mr. Taft, with his great judicial and political experience, favors the establishment of this Customs Court.

I may add that the strange suspicion that this court is established in order to construe customs laws more favorably to the Government is totally unfounded, and is an unjust impeachment of the integrity of both the bench and the bar. The whole country knows that the President will never appoint to this court—a Supreme Court as to customs laws and cases—men who will face a constituency of ovetr 80,000,000 of people, and who would dare, as lawyers and judges, to refuse to do justice to the people. They would be consigned, like poor Lord Bacon, to universal execration even by such as they corruptly served.

LILLIBULERO.

Irish Refrain Was Used as a Tag to Several Songs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Newcome in his letter in this morning's TIMES neglects to explain the meaning of "lillibulero," or to give any reason why that musical combination of syllables could not be used in a harvest song. I am perfectly aware that not only the song quoted by Mr. Newcome, but also many other old political songs, were written "to be sung to the air of 'Lillibulero' "; even in this country our most famous campaign song of "Tippecanoe and Tyler, Too," was written to the tune of "The Little Pig's Tail" with a "lillibulero" chorus, which my mother often sang to me. Not having leisure at present, I cannot dig out the origin of the refrain, but Mr. Newcome is hardly justified in assuming to the extreme of flat contradiction that it was exclusively used in one political song, because that song chances to be the one he knows.

The refrain, which I should say was evidently Irish, is probably very old, easily antedating the Stuarts and their wars. I knew it first as a tag to old political and popular songs. I think that Dean Swift uses it in some of his rough rhymes. Yet, with all apologies to Mr. Newcome, it was used in a harvest song. I came across it as a burden chanted to the colleens binding the sheaves, a laggard being hailed with, "Lillibulero, help her along." For my own nefarious purposes I broadened the application.

EDUCATIONAL THEATRE.

Should be Revived and Made Permanent.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was with deep regret that I read in THE TIMES of the dissolution of the Educational Theatre for Children at the Educational Alliance. It is a pity that the efforts of such men as Samuel L. Clemens, (Mark Twain,) Robert J. Collier, and the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant go for naught. This enterprise should have received a better fate than it did.

I have been interested in settlement work for a number of years, but cannot recollect seeing an undertaking received with greater enthusiasm than was the establishment of the Educational Theatre in 1907. There are many who spent some very pleasant evenings in this little playhouse, deriving pleasure, enjoyment, and education from the performances given. It goes without saying that this "educational institution" will be greatly missed on the lower east side, for it did more good to both young and old than any other worthy undertaking.

I hope it will be very soon when some wealthy men will realize how essential it is to have an educational theatre for children; that they will get together and re-establish the little playhouse at East Broadway and Jefferson Street and make its existence permanent.

To Prevent Vandalism.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It makes one's blood boil to read of the vandalism in Central Park reported in your issue this morning. I would suggest that instead of increasing the number of men to guard the Park some active and intelligent boys should be employed as scouts to give information to the police and enable them to round up the malefactors. They should be in undress and have bicycles, of course.

IMPOSSIBLE PROBLEM.

No Standard by Which to Determine the Superior Sex.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My desire is to supplement the criticisms of Mr. Goldburg's article made by your three worthy correspondents of to-day's issue.

We have no standard or common denominator by which we can accurately, or even approximately, ascertain the relative superiority of the sexes. Man and woman are part of one machine, one humanity, one unity, (as Froebel would say,) and the different functions assigned to either are without reference to superiority. There was no intention in mysterious Nature to make one superior to the other. Logically and psychologically both sexes seem to be subject to spontaneous growth in mind and body, with occasional predominance of these in either. To look for standards of comparisons and to apply them would be almost equivalent to comparing a stage coach to a potato in order to ascertain which is of most service to the world. Woman's hand may rock the cradle, but it is highly improbable that historically (or hysterically) the same hand has ruled the world. Can this be part of our standard? Kind-heartedness and unselfishness of women are excellent qualities, but neither Rousseau nor any other great educator would advocate their uninterrupted use without the salutary discipline of the father. The otherwise sunshine disposition of mothers is also a highly admirable trait, but could the proper training of the children, before the dawn of reason, be conducted without some storm which the father alone is capable to exhibit? I mean by storm that palpable discipline which is so often effective. Have we not pretty visible products of the raising of children under sunshine exclusively without the admixture of clouds? No genius has yet been known to grow therefrom.

It would be unnecessary to overburden your columns with examples from history to prove that, while women excel men in some functions, men are found superior in others, and hence it would be arguing in a circle to say which is superior. One is a counterpart of the other, and neither can exist without the other in the broadest sense.

Hence, this proposition not being well defined, cannot be debated out to a successful conclusion.

CHAMPIONS BRENNER.

Thinks Initials Should Remain on the Lincoln Cent.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You say that the initials on the Lincoln penny are to be removed "in response to public demand." If this is true, then certainly it is presumptuous arrogance on Mr. Brenner's part to oppose the "public demand," even though the matter was sanctioned in a moment of generous enthusiasm by the President of the United States, who represents the public!

But the general public does not demand it. The demand was made by a very limited part of the public indeed—just a tiny wee "clique" of disappointed soreheads, I imagine, through their friends in certain quarters.

My experience with the general public in connection with the new cent has been quite different. To whomsoever I showed the cent I have invariably been asked, "Where are the initials? I can't see them." I was compelled, invariably, to point them out. The reply would be, "I don't see why they want them off, they are scarcely to be seen."

I venture to make the proposition that if the subject were submitted to a popular vote, asking whether the initials of the designer remain or be removed, it would be voted overwhelmingly in favor of the initials remaining.

No, the general public never grudges an artist his full due. Opposition in a matter of this kind generally arises merely from a discontented few of the above-described species. I am sure Abraham Lincoln, were he living, would not object to the artist's initials, for he believed in justice toward all and malice toward none.

That Mr. Brenner is an "indifferent medalist" does not seem to have been the opinion of various juries at various expositions, who have awarded him medals and diplomas of various degrees for his work. As for coin designing, I remember his having executed one for a South American country as long as some fifteen years ago.

This Is "Growing Some."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am sorry not to be able to enlighten L. J. W. as to the size attained by artificially fed watermelons, but the following excerpt from a letter recently received will give an idea of what they claim to grow in Washington under natural conditions. The writer, speaking of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, says:

> Another feature is the crop and produce exhibit. Strawberries as large as oranges may seem remarkable to some, and cherries that to the uninitiated are apples, but it's the spuds we are proud of. Potatoes, I suppose you know, grow in the Yakima Valley. A rancher there had an experience with a potato that is worth while telling. His wife wanted another potato to replenish her supply, and asked her hubby to gather one. He was an obliging chap, and started for the field with a crowbar. The field was on a hill side, the house in the valley below. After a great deal of work he got the potato loose single handed, and made ready to haul it home. By some means never explained, the potato broke loose from its moorings, and started on a journey of carnage down the hill, crushing several men to smithereens, and ended up by hitting the house amidships, totally demolishing it. Naturally much comment was raised by the tragedy, and some talk of provoking Governmental regulation of crops for public safety, but the whiffle blew over and nothing was done until a watermelon sprung a leak and drowned seventeen persons. Of course this time the Government really had to do something; a limit was placed on the size of crops, so that at the exposition now there aren't any potatoes over ten feet in diameter, but we have pictures of them as they used to be. It seems a shame the Government had to butt in, but possibly it is for the best.

Employment for Girls.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have enjoyed reading those articles in THE SUNDAY TIMES by Charlotte Wharton Ayers on the subject of "fake" advertisements. I am a business woman, have had some such experience, and have known many such cases as these she speaks of. It seems to me you are doing a noble work in showing young, inexperienced girls the pitfalls and dangers to be avoided in looking for employment. I shall look for the next article with interest. I only hope there will be more of them.

Would living up on Mars appear a lonesome sort of thing
If Thaw should be tried again?
Would "forty weeks from Broadway" have a disagreeable ring

Would you dodge hallucinations?—escape despondent spells?

If Thaw should be tried again?

SOLDIERS OFF TO-DAY FOR THE WAR GAME

New York Troops Composing the "Invading" Army to Parade Here Before Sailing.

REVIEW AT THE CITY HALL

Approximately 9,000 Men in the Force—To Land on Coast To-Morrow in Attempt to Invade Boston.

New York will have this afternoon a glimpse of the mimic war which is to be played on the New England Coast for seven days beginning at one minute past midnight. The New York troops ordered to the "front" will parade through the streets and be reviewed by Acting Mayor McGowan from the City Hall steps. Then they will march to the transports assigned to them, and as their bands play "The Girl I Left Behind Me" and "Auld Lang Syne" the spectators will be able to conjure up the feelings they would experience if the men were really, truly off to fight for the flag.

New Yorkers are to form the invading army, which is supposed to represent the forces of some European power bent on occupying Boston. The first to leave will be a battalion of artillery formed from three batteries of the National Guard. They will be under the command of Lieut. Col. David Wilson, whose staff consists of Capt. Joseph I. Berry and Lieuts. Lyons and Short.

The batteries are the First, with Capt. John F. O'Ryan in command; the Second, under Capt. Langdon F. Sherry, and the Third, under Capt. Chauncey Maltrock. They muster about 100 men each, with ninety-eight horses, and each unit has four quick-firing guns, which can carry up to 6,500 yards and fire twenty rounds a minute. They will carry with them 200 rounds of blanks.

The First Battery will fall in at its armory, 50 West Sixty-sixth Street at 1 o'clock and march down Fifth Avenue. At Twenty-sixth Street it will be joined by the rest of the battalion, the entire corps, and after being reviewed will march on board the Pilgrim, which is lying at the foot of Wall Street. Some of the horses and gun-carriages of the battalion, however, will be carried on the Boston.

On the Pilgrim will go Squadron A, also the Twenty-second Engineers, and the First Signal Corps. The Puritan has been set apart for the Seventh Regiment and the Fourteenth of Brooklyn, and will also carry some horses. The Seventh will parade at their armory, Sixty-seventh Street and Park Avenue, at 5 o'clock. The regiment will muster about 800 strong with Col. Dan Appleton in command. They will proceed by elevated train to the Brooklyn Bridge Station and pass before the Acting Mayor before embarking. The Fourteenth will come over from Brooklyn in army boats.

The Kilpatrick sailed last night with the commander of the invading army, Major Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, and a number of officers detailed from all parts of the country to assist in the manoeuvres. The foreign military attachés were also of the party and eight companies of infantry and artillery from the forts around New York, and the Signal Corps from Bedloe's Island, under command of Col. Cronkheit, were also aboard.

The invading force will consist of about 9,000 men when it has been reinforced by the regulars from Washington, whom the Sumner, the McClellan, and the Mead are conveying. A redezvous has been fixed in the Sound and there some time to-night the fleet of transports will meet. Thence it will make its descent on some portion of the New England Coast which is undefended and offers a suitable base of operations. The invasion is hardly likely to begin before 10 o'clock in the morning.

It was pointed out last night by one of the National Guard officers that the absence of any warships convoying the "Red" or invading army points one of the lessons which these manoeuvres are intended to teach the Nation. The theory of the operations is that the American fleet has fought a disastrous battle and its remaining ships have been forced to seek refuge at Portsmouth, N. H.

This has left the coast defenceless. New York and Boston harbors, of course impregnable, but there are no defences along the rest of the coast and a mobile army would be absolutely necessary to drive back invaders as soon as they should land. The enemy's transports can approach at its leisure, and the landing itself must be unopposed as modern ships carry guns which make it impossible for unentrenched troops to hold any position within five miles of the sea line. The "Red" army is supposed to have a sufficient force of warships to insure its landing, and it is the business of the "Blue," or defending army to wait for them till they have got five miles inland, then roll them back.

The exact point to be attacked is, of course, known as yet only to the commanding officer and his immediate staff. The "Blue" General has to rely on his scouts, who can communicate with him by telephone, telegraph, or in automobile, to detect the first moves of the enemy, so as to throw his force against them as quickly as possible.

The battle is expected to take place somewhere between Boston, Bedford, Plymouth, and Taunton, and one of the branches of the service which will be put by the operations to the severest test is the Signal Corps. On the defenders' side they will have to transmit the first news of the invasion, and on the attacking side they will be expected to keep in full communication every part of the invading army.

The Quartermaster's Department will likewise be tried to the utmost. Capt. F. A. Grant, who is in command, will be expected to keep all the 9,000 men of the "Reds" supplied with food and stores and to make them comfortable, however far the operations may take them and, however unexpected the movements may be.

Capt. Grant was in command of the Battery B, Utah Light Artillery, during the hottest fighting in the Philippines and distinguished himself as a resourceful officer, especially when he was in charge of the gunboat Laguna de Bey on the Pasig River. After two years' service he was appointed Quartermaster Captain in the regular army, and has since been stationed on the Pacific Coast.

BALLOON TO SPY ON WAR GAME.

C. J. Glidden Will Ascend and Try to Chart Defenders' Movements.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Aug. 12.—Charles J. Glidden announced to-day that, if the winds are favorable, he will make an attempt with the balloon Boston on Tuesday next to spy out the movements of the army defending Boston in the war game.

The balloon will carry photographic instruments and material for charting the position of the troops, and sail at a high elevation.

As the balloon is at the mercy of the wind, that element will govern the success of the "spying expedition," and the aeronauts may find themselves retreating instead of following the movements of the troops.

SUFFRAGIST ARMORY AT MRS. BELMONT'S

Addition to Her New Town House Specially Designed as a Lecture Hall.

FOR A MILITANT CAMPAIGN

Necessary, She Says, if the Cause Hopes to Succeed—Public Meetings at Her Newport Home Soon.

Not content with opening Marble House at Newport for suffragist lectures and giving the National Woman's Suffrage Association luxurious headquarters on Fifth Avenue, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont announced yesterday that she is building an addition, to be called The Armory, an exact reproduction of a room in the late Mr. Belmont's house, Belcourt, at Newport, in her new house at 477 Madison Avenue, which is to be devoted to the cause this Winter. This new house is now nearing completion, the architect promising that it will be ready for occupancy on the 1st of January.

"Since the house has been started," said Mrs. Belmont yesterday in her apartment at the St. Regis, "I have become an ardent suffragist, and it seemed to me that I could serve the cause in no better way than by providing a large hall in which prominent suffragists might lecture during the Winter. So I asked my architect to arrange for this armory, which will be decorated with the armor which hangs in a similar hall in Mr. Belmont's old Newport home, Belcourt. I shall, of course, use the room for other purposes, but my incentive in building it was to devote it to the cause of woman's suffrage.

"My enthusiasm for suffrage grows all the time. Every one of my children is sympathetic with me in regard to the work. Of course, it would be impossible for the Duchess of Marlborough to be an active suffragist, but she believes in the idea. Two of my sons—W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Harold Vanderbilt—have promised to sit on the platform at the public lectures which will be given at Marble House in Newport on Aug. 24 and 28.

"You see, I believe that one of the weaknesses in the fight hitherto has been the fact that more men were not interested in suffrage. I shall endeavor to interest the men of my acquaintance, if in no other way at least least financially.

"You see I don't believe in individual work in any case. All the work for a cause like this must be collective, and that is why I have thrown myself into the fight with the existing suffragist institutions. I shall work entirely with the city, Sate, and National institutions. Of course, I am getting up a special league of my own, but that is only one small part of this large body.

"Just now I am especially interested in making a success of the lectures which are to be given at Marble House this month. On the first occasion Dr. Anna Howard Shaw will speak and on the second Prof. Charles Zeublin. The tickets for these lectures are $5 each, and the money raised will be devoted entirely to the campaign.

"Until now I have always felt that it was best not to open Marble House to public view because it has been used as my private residence, although I should have very much liked to please many art students who have made the request in past years. I am departing from the rule simply because I believe the step may tend to increase interest in the crusade for 'votes for women.'

Favors Militant Methods.

"I have studied the question of suffrage in England thoroughly," continued Mrs. Belmont. "I have talked with Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughter, and I have been to innumerable meetings, and I am convinced that more militant methods must be adopted in this country if we hope to succeed. I do not think it is necessary to go so far as the English suffragettes do, but I do think that we shall have to struggle to gain what we want. I most emphatically believe in street meetings for one thing.

"This Winter we hope to have a lecture very nearly every day. Some prominent speaker will be heard in some part of New York at least six days in the week, and the subject will always be 'Votes for Women.' The Armory in my new home will be opened for the purpose as often as it is needed.

"Just so soon as the lectures which we have planned for Marble House are out of the way we shall start in to work on plans for the Fall campaign. The headquarters are now ready for occupancy, and we shall hold an opening reception in them as soon as people come back to town, early in September. Mrs. Harper has been here all Summer, but most of the prominent suffragists are elsewhere now. I myself am living at Newport."

The Beauties of Marble House.

There are many parts of the famous Marble House, which is built of different kinds of marble throughout, which have never been photographed. The side toward the seas is protected from the public gaze by a high hedge, and this part has never been seen except by friends of Mrs. Belmont. The walls on this side are composed of Carrara marble, elaborately carved, and there is a marble terrace 100 feet wide. The interior of the building is famous for its rare art treasures, which will be visible to the public for the first time one hour on each day before the lectures begin.

"Mrs. Belmont has made it possible," said Mrs. Ida Husted Harper, one of the leading suffragists of New York, "for the suffrage movement to establish headquarters in New York, something which the leaders have wished to do for some time, for nowhere have we been received more favorably by the press, but which it has been impossible to do in the past on account of our real need of mnoey.

"Now through the aid of Mrs. Belmont and a few others we are enabled to open offices at 505 Fifth Avenue, in which the State and National offices will be situated. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, the National President, will be here all Winter. Mrs. Belmont herself will have offices there, and we expect the work to progress rapidly.

"And just as soon as we get our headquarters open we are going to reach out in all directions. Henrietta Crosman, Mary Mannering, and several other actresses are already suffragists, and we shall attempt to organize leagues among stage people. Later we shall organize woman doctors and woman lawyers, &c. There will be plenty to do. We shall all have offices in the headquarters and we hope that a great many people will come to us during the course of each day to find out all the things about suffrage that they don't know already."

Mrs. Pankhurst Coming.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Mrs. Pankhurst, the suffragette leader, will make a trip to the United States soon and will deliver a series of addresses in the larger cities there.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—C. Hartman K. Harris, a promising young artist of Devon, Penn., was drowned while swimming in the Charles River near Boston yesterday afternoon. WOULD ENJOIN 'THREE TWINS.'

Wilbur-Shubert Co. Would Prevent Comedy's Production at Boston.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 12.—Judge Dana in the Superior Court to-day heard evidence and argument and reserved decision in the case of the Wilbur-Shubert Company against Joseph M. Gaites, which is brought for the purpose of restraining the defendant, who is the manager of "The Three Twins" company, from giving a production of "The Three Twins" at the Boston Theatre or at any other place of amusement in this city except the Majestic Theatre during the four weeks beginning Aug. 30.

The plaintiff asserts that the defendant is the manager of "The Three Twins" company, which has presented the musical comedy of that name in New York and Philadelphia, with Clifton Crawford and Bessie McCoy in the cast, and that Gaites agreed to furnish "The Three Twins" at the Majestic Theatre Aug. 30 to Sept. 25, and then repudiated the contract.

Jacob J. Shubert, Secretary and Treasurer of the Wilbur-Shubert Company, testified that Klaw & Erlanger control the bookings of the Boston Theatre.

ARREST FOR CUSTOMS FRAUD.

Collector Loeb Accuses Fruit Dealer of Impersonating Latter's Brother.

Collector Loeb caused the arrest yesterday of Felice Lopez, a dealer in Italian fruit products at 300 East Forty-second Street, on the charge of having impersonated at the Custom House his brother, Salvatore Lopez, in making an entry of twelve casks of olive oil and six casks of still wine imported by the steamship Sannio on July 3.

Incident to the seizure of this wine for having been fraudulently entered, the customs authorities ascertained that Felice Lopez attended to all the details at the Custom House under the guise of Salvatore Lopez, and as he had signed the name of Salvatore Lopez to the owner's declaration he may be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or imprisonment not exceeding two years or both. Lopez was held to await the action of the Grand Jury.

MRS. TWOMBLY'S COTILLION.

Brilliant Entertainment in White Mountains in Honor of Miss Draper.

BRETTON WOODS, Aug. 12.—One of the smartest functions of the season in the White Mountains was the cotillion given at the Profile House last evening by Mrs. Arthur Butler Twombly of New York in honor of Miss Dorothy Draper, the débutante daughter of Gov. and Mrs. Eben S. Draper of Massachusetts, whose presentation in Boston will be an event of the coming season.

Mr. and Mrs. Twombly, who are members of the cottage colony at the Profile House, entertain extensively, Mrs. Twombly's entertainments in the past having given her the title of the most original hostess in the mountains. Many beautiful flowers which had been sent to Mrs. Twombly in honor of her cotillion formed the sole decoration of the ballroom. The imported favors, which were of unusual beauty and value, included airships in miniature, star-tipped wands, hand-painted court-plaster cases, candy boxes, match safes, baseballs, helmets, post cards, and silver pencils.

The opening figure was of post cards, embellished with the old man of the mountain, and a unique figure was that originated by Mrs. Twombly, in which the lady holding up her china doll, "Mary," called "Where's my little lamb?" The men, carrying their woolly lambs, scrambled to find their Marys.

Harold Tappin of New York led with Miss Dorothy Draper. It was a white cotillion, as all the dancers wore powdered hair, while the men wore colored satin collars on their coats to relieve their sombre evening dress.

Among Mrs. Twombly's guests were Gov. and Mrs. Eben S. Draper of Massachusetts, Mrs. Francis N. Bangs, Mr. and Mrs. David P. Kimball, the Misses Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Wite of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. H. Durkee, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Watjen, Miss Fleitman, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Batcheller, Mr. and Mrs. Adams Batcheller, Mr. and Mrs. George Batcheller, Mrs. G. M. Keogh, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dwight.

Mrs. Twombly and Gov. Draper opened the ball with the first dance. Mrs. Twombly's gown was of ivory brocaded satin, and her jewels were quite the most beautiful seen here this season.

Miss Dorothy Draper is entertaining Miss Mildred Genness of Newark.

Mrs. Algernon Sidney Jarvis has as guests Mr. and Mrs. Peter Duryea of New York and her nephew, E. R. Wilson.

EMMA GOLDMAN DEFIANT.

Tells Anarchist Meeting She Can Only Be Suppressed by Rope Round Neck.

The two policemen who were assigned to the postponed Anarchist meeting which took place at Terrace Lyceum, 206 East Broadway, last night, nearly fell asleep and were utterly unable to stifle their yawns while Alexander Berkman reiterated "We must be pioneers," Harry Keily, the Irish Anarchist, muttered mild sentiments, and Max Baginski, the editor of Freiheit, hurled verbal bombs in German.

But when Emma Goldman, fresh from the suppressed meeting of the evening before, rose to cast anathemas at the Police Department, at all Governments, at all religions, at militarism, at those who oppose strikes, at Philistines, and at self-satisfied members of the middle class, at Kings, and at Presidents, they woke up. Seldom has this leader of the anarchistic forces expressed herself so volubly.

"Doc" Reitman, the "King of the Hoboes," who was Chairman of the meeting, said Commissioner Baker had decided to stand for free speech, and so it seemed. According to Reitman, Police Captains in the future are not to issue arbitrary orders suppressing Miss Goldman when she attempts to get rid of some of her revolutionary sentiments.

As for Miss Goldman, she commenced by saying: "Not unless they put a noose around my neck will I keep silent, in spite of the Police Department of New York City."

It was also stated that Commissioner Baker had asked what Miss Goldman intended to say upon this occasion. This information was not vouchsafed to him, but he was assured that Miss Goldman would be perfectly willing to personally take the consequences of anything she said. So that she might live up to this she spoke in English in order that the policemen in the back of the room could have their ears easily burned, in spite of the fact that many of those present only understood Yiddish.

The meeting had been announced for the evening before at Manhattan Lyceum, 64 East Fourth Street, but the proprietor of that hall decided at the last moment that he would rather not harbor the Anarchists, and so he told them. In re-enforced numbers they gathered last night, not only to glory in the recent "anti-military uprising in Spain," but also to protest against public suppression.

No further meetings were announced, but "Doc" Reitman said that on Sept. 18 in this same hall there would be an ice cream social.

"Come and see the Anarchists eat ice cream and be playful," he invited.

ODD CHARGE OF SPEEDING.

Policeman Was Riding in Cab Whose Driver He Accused.

Policeman Joseph McGrath of Traffic Squad C was severely lectured by Magistrate O'Connor yesterday in the West Side Court because he charged Michael Licalzi, a taxicab chauffeur, with driving his auto at a speed exceeding twenty miles an hour, although McGrath himself was riding in the cab.

McGrath arrested Licalzi for alleged reckless driving through West Fifty-sixth Street, stopping the chauffeur at Eighth Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street. He put his bicycle in the cab, and, seating himself beside Licalzi, ordered him to go to the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station.

"Let her go lively," was his order to the driver according to the latter's story, and Licalzi opened up. McGrath took out his stop watch and timed the cab.

When he arraigned the prisoner in the West Side Court he made three complaints—reckless driving, having no chauffeur's license pinned to his coat, and exceeding the speed limit.

When it came to the third charge and the Magistrate found out that McGrath had been in the cab, the Magistrate asked:

"Why didn't you stop the man when you noticed at what speed you were going?"

"I warned him twice," was the policeman's whispered answer, "but he did not slow down."

"I cannot believe this story," said the Magistrate, "and I never heard of a case like this. I discharge the prisoner on this complaint, and it is the first time that I have discharged anybody brought before me for violation of the speed law."

MEMORIAL TO MISS PHILLIPS.

Children to Contribute Pennies to Shaft on Miss Santa Claus's Grave.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Aug. 12.—The thousands of children whose Christmases have been brightened through the work of Elizabeth A. Phillips, known as "Miss Santa Claus," who killed herself yesterday by inhaling gas, will have opportunity to express their love for her by contributing pennies and dimes toward a memorial shaft to be erected on next Christmas Day over her grave.

This work will be directed by the Elizabeth A. Phillips Memorial Association, which sprang into existence yesterday, through the desire of Miss Rose Weintraub, friend and fellow-worker of Miss Phillips, to see something done in memory of the dead woman, which would be in keeping with Miss Phillips's many years of service in the cause of happiness for others.

Miss Weintraub found willing helpers on every hand. Drexel & Co., at her petition, will be the depository for the fund. Albert F. Maltby, local manager for the Winton automobiles, who used to supply whatever vehicles "Miss Santa Claus" needed to distribute her gifts at Christmas, will be treasurer.

EATS 35 EARS OF CORN.

"Little" Dugan Still Had 13 More to Put Away in a Close Race.

By way of attracting attention to his 45th birthday, ex-Assemblyman Edward Rosenstein, whose lower east side Tammany Hall district sent him up to represent it in the Legislature from 1903 to 1905, bought several crates of corn from Long Island farmers and gave what he called a corn-eating contest last night to his former constituents in his saloon, at the corner of Broome and Clinton Streets.

To make the time go more rapidly, the ex-Assemblyman persuaded William Lewis, a porter, and "Little" Dugan, a hearse driver, to enter a corn-eating contest. The contestants began at 6 P. M., and three hours later Lewis had disappeared and Dugan was almost speechless from his efforts. He whispered huskily that he had already eaten thirty-five ears, and would eat thirteen more before midnight.

"Lewis, when he comes back, will eat fifty-seven ears, and will win the prize," ex-Assemblyman Rosenstein explained. "I bought 6,000 ears of corn for this occasion, and am distributing them among all my former constituents."

BROKER HEMMING IN TOMBS.

He Held Court Open 10 Minutes, Hoping Lewis Nixon Would Bail Him.

Henry G. Hemming, a broker, who lives at the Hotel St. George, in Brooklyn, and has an office at 15 Broad Street, was arraigned in the Tombs Court yesterday on a charge of grand larceny brought by Robert C. Vernon of 24 Hudson Street.

In his affidavit Vernon alleges that he gave Hemming $1,000 on July 1 to purchase stock of the New York Taxicab Company, but did not get the stock. When he demanded the return of the money, he alleges, Hemming gave him only $400.

Hemming was arrested at his desk, which is in the office of Elias Smith, Son & Co., his name appearing on the door. He was held in $1,000 bail for examination on Tuesday just as the court was due to adjourn.

Hemming asked the Magistrate to hold the court open for a few moments, saying that Lewis Nixon would bail him out. After waiting ten minutes for Mr. Nixon the Magistrate adjourned court, Hemming going to the Tombs.

FINISH TESTIMONY IN SUTTON INQUIRY

Summing Up To-day—Government Will Make No Argument, Judge Advocate Announces.

PROMPT VERDICT EXPECTED

Dr. Schaeffer Insist Lieutenant Could Not Have Shot Himself, Though Lieut. Adams Re-Enacts Scene.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Aug. 12.—After an investigation extending over a period of more than three weeks, the naval court of inquiry into the death of Lieut James N. Sutton, U. S. M. C., here on Oct. 13, 1907, finished the taking of testimony today. To-morrow will be given over to the summing up, and it was stated by counsel that the arguments would be completed to-morrow. The court will then prepare its report and forward it to the Navy Department as required by the precept.

In connection with the closing hours to-day Major Leonard, Judge Advocate, stated that he would have no opening address to make in behalf of the Government unless something might be said by the attorneys or other parties to the investigation that would require explanation or reply. Commander Hood, President of the board, said to-night that he did not think the court would consume much time in arriving at its conclusions.

The cross-examination of Dr. E. M. Schaeffer of Washington, D. C., called as expert in gunshot wounds, was finished this morning, and hypothetical and technical questions figured largely in his examination by Mr. Birney, counsel to Lieut. Adams.

Mr. Birney had Dr. Schaeffer take a position on the counsel table and repeat, with a service revolver, a demonstration the witness gave yesterday of the difficulty of firing under the circumstances said to have existed in Lieut. Sutton's case.

Dr. Schaeffer again declared that with a service revolver and under the conditions given, Lieut. Sutton could not have shot himself.

Mr. Birney sought to learn from the witness whether the bullet may not have plowed the scalp wound which was found on Lieut. Sutton's head and then turned and penetrated the skull. Dr. Schaeffer said he had never known of such a case, and that while he would not say it is an impossible one, he would have to be convinced by ocular demonstration of its possibility.

The Judge Advocate, Major Leonard, asked if the course of a bullet in a wound could be at an angle to the line of fire. It would depend, the witness said, upon the location of the wound and whether any bone or other hard substance were encountered. If the bullet struck the scalp at an angle of 45 degrees it would be most unlikely to then turn and enter the skull, but that this might be possible.

Lieut. Adams re-enacted the scene as he had described it, lying on the floor of the court room, Lieuts. Utley and Osterman and Sergt. De Hart placing themselves upon him. Lieut. Adams pulled the trigger of a service revolver, but Dr. Schaeffer declared that he could not thus have inflicted a wound duplicating the one which killed Lieut. Sutton.

This closed the testimony. Thereupon Major Leonard, after stating that the Government had no argument to submit, outlined the efforts of the Government to lay before the court every shred of testimony touching the case.

Lost His $235 Savings While He Slept.

Antonio Sayboa, a laborer in a factory on Barren Island, went to bed Wednesday night with his savings of $235 tucked away in his money belt. He woke up yesterday penniless. Four other laborers, who slept in the same room with him, were locked up by the police and held before Magistrate Nash, in the Flatbush Court yesterday on a charge of larceny, though the money was not found on any of them.

The prisoners were Henry Hente and Adams, August, and Gaston Sirlons, brothers.

Find It Swimming in Great South Bay and Pull It Aboard.

While yachting in Great South Bay, between Patchogue and Blue Point, L. I., Tuesday, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fullum and William Sheedy, Summer residents, saw a large doe swimming in the bay. They lifted the deer into the boat and she was taken to the mainland, where Game Protector J. B. Sauter released her in the game preserve of Mrs. Katherine Gilbert, sister of Gen. Grenville M. MR. CUYLER'S BODY ARRIVES.

His Death Was Caused by His Chauffeur Failing to Find a Speed Notch.

The White Star liner Adriatic, which arrived yesterday, brought the body of Cornelius C. Cuyler, the New York banker, who died at Biarritz, France, from injuries received on July 30, in an automobile accident. Mrs. Cuyler, who was with her husband at the time and escaped being severely bruised, accompanied the body. With her was her brother, De Lancey Nicoll.

Mr. Cuyler's body was taken to Paris in a special car. Later it was transferred to Cherbourg and placed on board the steamship. The body was deposited in a mortuary chapel, where it rested amid a profusion of flowers. On Sunday services were held in the chapel, with Purser Appleyard officiating. The funeral services will be held to-day at the Brick Presbyterian Church at Thirty-seventh Street and Fifth Avenue at 2 P. M., and the burial will be at Princeton.

It was learned yesterday that the accidentw as caused, not by the failure of all the brakes, but because the chauffeus failed to "find" his speed notch. The car had the old style straight transmission, and not the selective system.

The chauffeur evidently started up a steep hill on third speed. When he found the grade too steep he tried to shift to the second speed. He failed to negotiate the second speed notch, and the car started backward down the hill. The chauffeur was attempting to adjust the speed lever, and before he could grasp the emergency brake with his right hand, the car had gained such a high speed that it could not be stopped.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 12.—Plans for a new theatre for Pittsburg, to cost at least $1,000,000, are being completed by the Commonwealth Real Estate Company here, and while the greatest secrecy is being maintained, it is hinted that the Shubert interests are back of it.

The location is admitted to be one of the best in Pittsburg for a theatre. Those in charge of the work admit that the house is intended to book attractions for the Fall and Winter of 1910.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Active and Irregular—Call Money Rates 2¼@2½ Per Cent.

UNION PACIFIC'S SHARP RISE

Reports of "Distributions" Provoke Short Covering—Heavy Trading and Confused Movements.

The execution of heavy buying orders for London account, together with further urgent short covering of the kind which prompted the sharp advance in prices on Wednesday night, combind to make the forenoon part of yesterday's stock market session notable both in point of activity and strength. London bought Union Pacific in quantity, and it was this stock also in which the short covering was most urgent. It is quite probable that a considerable portion of the London buying of Union Pacific really originated with professional traders on this side. This element, harking back to the August Harriman dividend declarations of 1906, appeared to be unwilling to expose themselves to the losses which they suffered at that time when the Union Pacific dividnd was abruptly advanced to 10 per cent. and the Southern Pacific payment to 5 per cent. It has been expected that meetings of the boards of these two roads would be held yesterday, and that "something" would follow which would put the stocks up. As a matter of fact, no quorums were obtainable for the meetings, which were consequently put over until next week. As the news of this postponement circulated the buying of the Harriman shares became less urgent, and with speculative requirements satisfied for the time being and the London purchases out of the way, the market became irregular, and so continued to the close of the day. In some stocks there was displayed consistent strength, final quotations representing marked advances over those of the previous night. This was true of Illinois Central, Pennsylvania, and Union Pacific itself, in spite of its decline from the high figure of the day, but as a rule the market was irregular enough to provoke, in connection with the great volume of trading, running above 1,400,000 shares, the query as to whether the day marked with these familiar features the traditional culmination of a movement. Different answers were, of course, forthcoming, but the sensational advance in the Harriman shares, together with the generally confused movement in prices and the heavy dealings, produced a conservative note of reserve in comment on the market in conservative circles. The day's news was meagre, although such reports as came from the railroad and industrial worlds were again highly encouraging. Among such items was that of the order for 6,000 cars placed with various makers by the Baltimore & Ohio. Grain markets closed a trifle lower on excellent news from the crop country, and a further rise in cotton prices from their recent depressed levels occurred.

Money, both call and time, continued to work firmer, although actual quotations were little changed, and direct lending in the market by out-of-town institutions, which used their local balances for the purpose, was again reported. Banks are practically on an even keel in their transactions with the Sub-Treasury for the week thus far, and gain or loss in the currency movement will depend upon transactions with the interior. The Bank of England, in its weekly report, noted a substantial increase in its percentage of reserve and left its discount rate unchanged. Foreign exchange rates were a trifle easier, and there is little prospect now of any further addition of moment to previous gold exports.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12.—The dealings on the local Exchange to-day were devoid of spectacular feature, and barring a jump of about 2 points in Electric Storage Battery no important movements were recorded. Excitement over Lehigh Navigation appeared to have subsided, and both the trust certificates and unassented shares were offered down in the afternoon. Philadelphia Company moved up a point on light buying, and there was also an improved demand for United Gas. In the afternoon, while most stocks turned heavy, Rapid Transit hardened.

STANDARD OIL'S STRENGTH

Trading in 50 Shares Puts Price to 705, a New High Record for the Year—The Movements of the Active Coppers.

Copper stocks continued strong in the Curb market yesterday, trading being well diversified and gains common among the more active issues, although there were a number of losses at the close. Among the stocks to make substantial gains over opening prices were Ray Consolidated and Ray Central, the latter rising from 2⅞ to 3 on transactions of 3,500, and the former from 21⅝ to 22¾, closing at 22½ after transactions of 5,000. Nevada Consolidated gained ⅜ on the day's trading, selling as high as 25. Cumberland-Ely rose 1-16, as did Davis-Daly. Ohio Copper, which reported transactions of 16,000 shares, sold between 5⅝ and 5 11-16, closing 1-16 below the opening at 5 7-16. Activity in the industrial list was scattered and without feature except for sales of odd lots of Standard Oil at 705, a new high record for the year.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Harrying the Bears.

When the market advanced on Wednesday afternoon and Union Pacific established a closing price of 207, the conservative traders, brokers, and lookers-on were confident that although there might be a firm opening, yesterday morning an immediate and sharp reaction would follow. That kind of advice or suggestion was heard throughout the district, but it is a question whether it influenced any particular operations on the short side of the account. If it did, those who were responsible for the advice found the financial district rather limited in area yesterday and their presence not desirable in offices where the victims of their conservatism might be found. The sudden spurt in Union Pacific or the continued upward movement suggested only one thing in many quarters and that is the complete control over the stock which is held by those concerned with higher prices. The heavy realizing subsequently brought about a considerable reaction, but those who might have been bearish at 203 were timid at 209 and there was less chance of concentrated adverse effort at the higher price than at the lower. Other stocks advanced all through the list, but it was Union Pacific that was watched most attentively.

Imagination Stimulated.

It was natural that a variety of rumors concerning the possibilities of Union Pacific should gain a ready circulation because of the strength of the stock. There was no limit placed on the favorable possibilities from the standpoint of the stockholders. Not only was the 10 per cent. dividend to be maintained, but rumor had it that an extra dividend of handsome proportions was to be declared. Other less detailed stories were heard and truly some of them were worthy of appreciation if only because of the wonderful imagination displayed in constructing them. After yesterday's morning market there were only two classes of traders in the market, rampant bulls and the disappointed element which felt that its conservatism was absolutely irrational and illogical. Whether much new buying had been induced by the rally is an open question, but certainly there was some, a fact attested by many brokers.

Following the Leader.

While Union Pacific was making a sharp advance some of the other and important stocks were relatively quiet. Subsequently they followed the lead of the leader and advanced, but without the enthusiasm which might have been expected to develop on any general upward movement. There did not seem to be the same stability about the prices created in the other issues, and on the reaction there was an apparent expectation of the earlier gains being easily lost. Just why this mental attitude toward the various stocks on the list should prevail is another speculative problem not easy of solution. Possibly it means a larger measure of respect for the conditions and elements that go to make up the elevating power in Union Pacific. Reading showed strength, New York Central also showed a desire to advance, Illinois Central advanced sharply, and other issues showed a disposition to follow suit. Still, the man who wanted to know what the market was doing looked on the tape for the Union Pacific or the Steel common quotations. Patient traders who have been waiting for a setback to buy stocks became a little impatient yesterday, figuring that a setback from some of these prices would mean purchases at prices very much higher than they could have bought stocks a week ago.

London in Bullish Mood.

London set the pace for the better market, and after the close of the regular London session the reports from abroad indicated that Americans were buoyant on the Curb. London has been more or less stolid so far as this market is concerned most of the time recently, and its sudden access of energy and optimism looked suspiciously like some that had been on storage in the Wall Street district. However, this market verified the London indications, whether these indications developed from English astuteness or American manipulation. The belief still prevails that London is a holder of our stocks on balance and that the daily balance is on the buying side. No one is asking the question how long London will continue to hold these stocks in view of the substantial profits that must be in evidence on the trading even at the present time. Since London is supposed to be selling bonds one transaction might offset the other.

Basis for Optimism.

Some brokers advise their customers that so long as money continues easy and so long as business conditions are supposed to be good and while there is no reason to doubt the estimates of a bumper crop, just so long will a bull market in stocks continue. Analyzing that advice it must appear reasonable to suppose that under present conditions there is no reason to expect any money stringency for an indefinite time. Assuming, also, say the critical ones, that with the tariff question out of the way, temporarily at least, business must improve, and there being anything at all in the prophecies of prosperity there is nothing in that to interfere with the bull market. Furthermore, the crops are assured and the estimates are almost unanimous and are classified as bumper yields by those who are supposed to know. Therefore, if these three elements be the inspiration of a bull market and make for its continuance, there is no reason to suppose that the end of the upward movement is anywhere in sight. Possibly the brokers who are giving this advice will modify it subsequently, but for the present it is unlimited and limitless in its application to the market.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Thursday.

Union Pacific was again the feature of the dealings on the Consolidated Exchange, although Reading exceeded it in the matter of total dealings. As a whole the market was active and strong, but toward the close moved somewhat erratically, profit-taking appearing in some quarters of the list, while elsewhere buying was continued. The transactions approximated 131,000 shares, distributed among sixty-six issues.

SEGREGATION PLANS BOOM UNION PACIFIC

Heavy Stock Market Trading Due to Reports of a Beneficial Distribution of Holdings.

STOCK BOUGHT BY WIRELESS

Operators on Incoming Steamers Join in Day's Trading in Over 1,400,000 Shares—Harriman's Homecoming.

Great activity in Union Pacific, with net advances of 2 points in the common and 2⅝ points in the preferred, was attributed yesterday to information had in well-informed quarters that the plans for the segregation of the Union Pacific investments from its railroad property have made substantial progress, and that incidentally the purpose on the part of the Harriman management to retire the preferred stock in anticipation of carrying out of this segregation plan has become more fixed.

It was made known some time ago that the retirement of the preferred was likely in order to meet the claims of the holders of that stock that they were entitled to share with the common in any distribution of the company's assets. The probability of such a step being taken in the near future has increased, it is learned, and in some quarters the expectaion is entertained that the matter may be taken up at a meeting of the Directors to be held before the end of this month.

E. H. Harriman some time ago engaged passage for Sept. 4, but it is not unlikely that he will hasten his return to New York, and that he will be here to join in a meeting of the Union Pacific Directors before the close of this month, possibly on Aug. 24 or 26. Otto H. Kahn, who has been abroad and seen Mr. Harriman on the other side, is also understood to be on his way home a fortnight sooner than he had planned when he sailed for the other side.

As far as could be learned yesterday the chances favor the adoption of a retirement plan for the preferred stock, which will take the form of an exchange into common stock upon a liberal basis, though something less than an even exchange into common stock. Such a step would place the present holders of the preferred in a position to share in the benefits of the segregation plan. The preferred stockholders regard themselves as entitled to share equally with the common in the event of the liquidation of the company, and on the same ground they claim to be entitled to share in any distribution of assets which would be tantamount to a partial liquidation. In well-informed banking quarters the information prevails that the Union Pacific's segregation plan will take the shape of a distribution of beneficial certificates entitling the holders to the income derived from the securities which the Union Pacific now classes as investments, including its holdings of stocks of other railroads. Such a distribution would closely resemble the distribution of ore certificates made some time since to the Great Northern stockholders.

When the segregation plan was first discussed two years ago it was thought that a holding company might be formed to hold these stocks, and the Union Pacific stockholders receive the stock of the holding company, but for some time it has been understood that this plan was not favored by Mr. Harriman, who preferred, it is said, in case of a distribution, to keep these stocks still within the control of the Union Pacific, as may be done if, as is now believed, resort is had to the issuance of certificates of beneficial interest.

Trading in the stock market yesterday reached a total of 1,439,000 shares, one of the largest day's trading of the year. Many foreign orders were executed in the market, and the volume of trading was further swelled by wireless orders from several operators aboard incoming steamships.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

General Tone Good and Americans Buoyant in London Trading.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—Money was in better demand to-day and discounts were quiet.

The Stock Exchange has concluded the settlement satisfactorily. Business for new account to-day was on a fair scale. The general tone was good, and it was helped by the buoyancy of Americans. Kaffirs, copper shares, foreigners, and Mexican rails showed further improvement and Consols gained fractionally, but home rails were neglected.

At the opening this morning American securities were from ⅛ to a point over last night's New York closing. Yesterday's strength in Wall Street was reflected by the entire list, and under the lead of the Harriman issues, United States Steel and Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe values continued to advance. At noon the tone was strong with prices from ⅛ to 2 points over parity. Americans drooped from half a point to a point on the receipt of Wall Street opening, but later a further hardening occurred in places and the market closed irregular.

Bar silver quiet, 23⅛d per ounce.

Money ½@¾ per cent.

The rate of discount in the open market for short bills is 1¼@1⅜ per cent., for three months' bills 1 7-16@1½ per cent.

PARIS, Aug. 12.—Prices on the Bourse to-day were firm.

Three per cent. rentes, 98f 12½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 19c for checks.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—Prises on the Boerse to-day were firm and trading was active. American railroad shares were higher.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Strong on Drought and Foreign Demand—Closes 17 to 20 Points Up.

Cotton was decidedly strong yesterday, owing to a renewal of dry weather complaints from the Southwest, predictions that private condition reports soon to be issued would be bullish, talk of an improved trade situation abroad, and, particularly with reference to the October position, rapidly decreasing local stocks in connection with the late movement of the new crop. The market closed firm at a net advance of 17@20 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5@9 points, eased off, then rallied, and ruled generally firm until just before the close, when there was some selling on rumors that it was raining at Waco, Texas.

Foreign buying was again a prominent factor in the advance. Private cables from Liverpool reported a better demand from Manchester, and there were rumors of big sales of goods by Southern mills.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—Three distinct movements occurred yesterday, the first a sharp decline, following weakness abroad, then a full recovery, and then a second and more severe decline. Receipts at all points were 851,000 bushels, or 200,000 bushels more than for the corresponding day last year. Liverpool declined ⅝@⅞d, Budapest closed ⅝c lower, and Berlin ½c higher. No export business was reported and cash wheat in New York closed: New No. 2 red, $1.10 elevator and $1.10@$1.10½ free on board, afloat, prompt; old No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.34⅝, and new No. 2 hard Winter, $1.10¼ free on board, afloat, both nominal.

CORN—The actions closely resembled those of wheat all day yesterday, the market also having three separate movements. The chief bull argument was that the big States west of the Mississippi were still dry and that corn was firing in Southern Kansas, Oklahoma, and Nebraska. Receipts were moderate. Near the close active unloading took place. Liverpool closed ¼@⅜d net lower and Argentine shipments were estimated at 3,600,000 bushels, compared with 3,283,000 bushels the previous week and 1,406,000 bushels last year. No. 2 mixed corn was quoted at 77½c elevator and 78c delivered, domestic basis, both nominal; new No. 2 corn, 61⅝c free on board, afloat, Winter shipment.

DANOSCARA WINS FOR JOHN SANFORD

New York Bred Mare Leads Big Field in Mile Handicap at Saratoga.

SWEEP BEST YOUNGSTER

Keene Colt Takes Up 120 Pounds and in Driving Finish Wins Six-Furlong Sprint, with Louise N. Second.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The great stables of the turf figured conspicuously in the racing to-day, and the three best events went to J. R. Keene, R. T. Wilson, Jr., and John Sanford.

The best race and the most popular result was when the fast and stout New York bred mare, Danoscara, the best-backed horse in the mile handicap, finished first, straightened out at the end, after running up with the pace all the way, in 1:39 2-5. Danoscara, about the best horse in the Sanford stable, was ridden by Taplin, the jockey recently engaged for the Hurricana establishment, and ran, carrying the full confidence of her owners and the hopes of all the local visitors to the race course.

In the middle of the field she broke first, and simply permitted Royal Vane to run past her into the lead, Danoscara well in hand, holding second place to the last turn, where Royal Vane stopped and fell back. Etherial, Zeinap, and Hill Top moved up on the turn, but Danoscara held the lead for the remainder of the distance, though she was racing her best to win by a length from the light-weighted old mare Zeinap, which came with a rush in the last furlong, with Hill Top, also a product of the Hurricana stud, fighting it out as a close third.

R. T. Wilson's Montpelier Stable took the Seneca selling stakes at six furlongs with May River in a stirring head finish with the odds on favorite, Prince Gal. Both horses were away badly, but Prince Gal moved up quickly and went on after Personal, which led well into the last furlong, while in the turn into the stretch May River still was last, many lengths back. On the straight May River settled down in a determined run after the leader, and Prince Gal had only caught and disposed of Personal when May River challenged him. The pair, ridden out, finished a head apart, with May River the winner.

J. R. Keene's colt Sweep, the early champion among the two-year-olds, and one of the stable's hopes for the Hopeful and Futurity Stakes, the richest events left for the season, had his first public trial over six furlongs in the opening race. It was a handicap, and Sweep, the top weight in the race, won, but only after a terrific whipping, finishing a head before James E. Gaffney's filly Louise N., to which Sweep, with 120 pounds up, was conceding ten pounds. Sweep broke back in the crowd, but ran up into second place in a few strides, and hung on to Herkimer, the leader to the head of the stretch, where Herkimer began to tire, and Sweep went to the front. The full six furlongs proved a long route to the Keene colt, however, and though he looked to be winning easily at the furlong pole, Louise N. drove him to his best when she made a rush for him at the finish. Sweep, ridden out in a hard-fought finish, lasted just long enough to win by a head, Louise N. being second, two lengths away from Fauntleroy, third. The time, 1:12 2-5, marked just a fair performance for the winner.

The three-year-old Quantico, which raced in the name of Thomas Clyde, was claimed out of the fifth race yesterday for $1,830 by the Beverwyck Stable.

Saratoga Racing Notes.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Jockey E. Dugan, who rode Racing Bell in the last race, was called up by the Stewards after the races were over, and for his recklessness in cutting across the field was suspended two days, and warned against rough riding.

Sunglow, the steeplechaser which was thrown by Recruit in the second race, was so badly injured that his owner, G. R. Tompkins, doubts that the horse will ever be able to race again.

A mount in the race for gentlemen jockeys on Saturday is to be entered for the young son of James Butler, President of the Empire City Jockey Club. The race will be young Butler's first effort as an amateur jockey.

BETTER GOLF AT EKWANOK.

Second Day's Play in Tournament Shows Lower Scoring.

Special to The New York Times.

MANCHESTER, Vt., Aug. 12.—The class of golf displayed on the Ekwanok links to-day in the first and second rounds of the first President's Cup tournament was shown by the fact that two 73s were made, while scores under 80 were numerous, especially in the afternoon. The play was an improvement over yesterday's qualifying round.

Alverse L. White, who distinguished himself while at Harvard by winning the intercollegiate title, in the morning made the first nine holes in 33, which is a record. He putted poorly coming in and his total for the round was 73. This was equaled in the afternoon by T. M. Claflin, another Boston golfer, who defeated John M. Ward by 3 up and 1 to play.

Frederick Herreshoff in the morning had a good chance for a 74, but did not play the last two holes. In the afternoon he won by default from B. W. Corkran, who was forced to withdraw by an injury to his knee. Walter J. Travis won handily from H. Congdon, but Archie M. Reid was obliged to extend himself to defeat C. H. Gardner by 2 up.

Semi-Final in Newport Foursomes.

Mrs. Nathaniel Bayer and Richard Gambrill defeated Mrs. Clarence Dolan and Stanley Mortimer, 4 up and 3 to play; Mrs. Hale and Mr. Sands defeated Mrs. Royal Phelps Carroll and Clarence Dolan, 1 up.

MRS. T. M. CARNEGIE WINS TENNIS CUP

Captures Peabody Trophy in Women's Singles at Southampton, L. I.

CLOTHIER SPRAINS ANKLE

Ex-National Champion Out of Competitions Rest of Year—Larned Shows Reversal of Form.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 12.—Splendid playing by Mrs. T. Morris Carnegie won the women's championship lawn tennis cup offered by Charles A. Peabody here to-day on the courts of the Meadow Club. The work of the women wielders of the racquet in singles and mixed doubles almost cast a shadow over the performances of the men, with J. D. E. Jones, the Rhode Islander; Edwin P. Larned, Wallace Johnson, the Pennsylvania State champion, and Richard H. Palmer reaching the semi-finals. But the shadow deepened because of the lamentable showing of William A. Larned, National champion, who in the doubles with Robert D. Wrenn was defeated, and the injury to William J. Clothier, National ex-champion, who sprained an ankle so badly as to put him out of all competition for the American honors this year.

In the final of the women's singles Mrs. Carnegie defeated Mrs. Le Grand Griswold, 6-4, 6-8, 6-4. It was the snappiest sort of driving that the two women engaged in.

National champion Larned appears to have experienced a complete reversal of form. His short net game and his driving for the side lines, his favorite methods of point winning, were so weak as to cause his ardent admirers to regard his holding of the title again doubtful. Paired with Robert D. Wrenn the two were defeated by Frederick F. De Rham and Clarence C. Pell, 6-3, 6-3. The summary:

Men's Championship Cup Singles—Fourth Round.—J. De Jones defeated F. J. Sulloway, 6—3, 3—6, 6—3; E. P. Larned defeated C. C. Pell, 6—3, 6—0; W. F. Johnson defeated G. F. Touchard, 6—1, 6—8, 6—3; R. H. Palmer defeated G. P. Gardner, Jr., 6—4, 3—6, 6—1.

Men's Doubles—Third Round.—F. F. De Rham and C. C. Pell defeated W. A. Larned and R. D. Wrenn, 6—3, 6—3; W. J. Clothier and E. W. Leonard defeated V. Bennett and Dr. E. E. Taylor, 6—1, 7—5.

Mixed Doubles—First Round.—Mrs. T. M. Carnegie and A. Stillman defeated Miss Ellen Rogers and E. P. Schley, 6—3, 6—2; Mrs. H. I. Nicholas and C. F. Watson, Jr., defeated Mrs. Russell H. Hoadley and R. P. Huntington, 6—2, 6—4; Miss Marion Fenno and W. A. Larned defeated Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hoppin, Jr., 6—0, 6—3; Mrs. E. H. Loew and G. P. Gardner, Jr., defeated Miss Eleanora Sears and R. D. Wrenn, 8—6, 4—6, 6—3; Miss Natalie Howland and F. F. De Rham defeated Mrs. Alonzo Potter and N. W. Niles, 8—6, 6—3.

Second Round.—Mrs. Le Grand Griswold and E. Chauncey defeated Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clothier, 6—4, 7—5; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Colby defeated Miss Smyth and Ernest Feltner by default; Miss Slocum and H. W. Slocum defeated Mrs. U. A. Murdock and E. W. Leonard by default; Mrs. H. I. Nicholas and F. Watson, Jr., defeated Mrs. T. M. Carnegie and A. Stillman, 8—6, 6—4; Miss Marion Fenno and W. A. Larned defeated Miss Natalie Howland and F. F. De Rham, 6—4, 3—6, 6—1; Miss Dorothy Kane and E. P. Larned defeated Miss Roosevelt and R. E. Sard, 3—6, 6—3, 6—2; Mrs. U. A. Murdock and C. C. Pell defeated Mr. and Mrs. H. Minot, 7—5, 6—2.

Third Round.—Mrs. Le Grand Griswold and E. Chauncey defeated Mr. and Mrs. E. Colby, 6—3, 8—6; Miss Slocum and H. W. Slocum defeated Mrs. U. A. Murdock and C. C. Pell, 6—4, 0—6, 8—6.

Semi-Final Round.—Mrs. Le Grand Griswold defeated Mrs. Alonzo Potter, 6—4, 3—6, 6—4; Mrs. T. M. Carnegie defeated Miss Ingersoll, 6—3, 6—2.

Final and Cup Round.—Mrs. T. M. Carnegie defeated Mrs. Le Grand Griswold, 6—4, 6—8, 6—4.

GOLF HONORS FOR ROBBINS.

Veteran New York Player Takes First Place at Kebo Valley.

Special to The New York Times.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 12.—The most successful golf tournament for the Kebo Cup in years at the Kebo Valley Club closed to-day, with the premier honors going to Arden M. Robbins of New York, a veteran golfer, who defeated Hugo R. Johnston. He also established a new record of 73 for the eighteen-hole course, lowering his own record two strokes. He has been playing superb golf this Summer, and was at his best to-day. For the Mount Desert Cup, A. Biddle of Philadelphia defeated Gouverneur Morris of New York in the hardest kind of a match, which took 37 holes to decide.

Charles Davis, Jr., had an easy victory in the finals for the Pemetic Cup over John R. Suydam, while Paul Dana of New York defeated Clifford Brigham for the consolation trophy.

New Record for Bretton Woods Links.

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., Aug. 12.—The Bretton Woods golf tournament started this morning and was played through the qualification and first rounds. There were two sixteens in which cups are up for the winner and runner-up. During the match play this afternoon Alex Wilson, the ex-Canadian champion, made a new course record of 69, which beats the 70 held by Alex Smith for many years. This 70 record was also held by Louis Hamilton in the amateur class.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Foreign-Made Decorated Chinaware Must Pay Duty on Higher Valuations.

It has been decided by the Board of United States General Appraisers that decorated chinaware from Carl Rieman of Gera, entered through the New York Custom House, is undervalued. When the merchandise arrived here Collector Loeb, acting on the advice of Appraiser Wanmaker, refused to accept the prices at which the goods were invoiced.

The Appraiser reported that duty should be exacted on a higher basis, and this was accordingly done. The local representatives of Rieman protested to the board. General Appraiser Hay, who writes the decision for the board, upholds the advances imposed by the Collector. Some of the china is advanced from 25.20 marks per gross to 29.25 marks a gross, while other lines invoiced at 28.60 are advanced to 32.85 marks per gross.

General Appraiser Chamberlain made a decision holding that decorated goblets, fingerbowls, plates, sherry and claret glasses from the St. Louis Crystal Glass Company will have to stand a higher duty. The dispute turned on a question of the discounts to be allowed.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

FREDERICK ELLIS & CO.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Frederick Ellis and Edward Barry, who compose the firm of Frederick Ellis & Co., tailors, at 75 Liberty Street, by these creditors: Waterhouse, Adler & Co., $674; H. Rebhan Company, $198, and Alden H. Weed Company, $324, all for merchandise. It was alleged that they are insolvent, made preferential payments, and removed a large part of their property.

CHARLES M. SIEGEL.—Charles M. Siegel, painter, of 18 West Sixtieth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $20,893 and no assets. Of his liabilities $20,000 is secured by mortgage on 422 East Seventy-sixth Street to James Fulton, and $813 is a judgment obtained against him on Oct. 16, 1908, by Stanger & Kurlander. Mr. Siegel has also operated considerably in real estate in the past seven years. Judge Hough yesterday granted an order restraining Stanger & Kurlander from further proceedings on their judgment for a year.

THE NEW YORK MOLDING MANUFACTURING COMPANY.—The New York Molding Manufacturing Company of 648 Eighth Avenue has made an assignment to William C. Rosenberg, attorney, of 320 Broadway. The deed was signed by Jules Dubois, President and Treasurer. He began business in 1900 and incorporated the present company on Sept. 1, 1906, with a capital stock of $20,000. Mr. Rosenberg said the liabilities are $20,000 and assets $8,000 to $10,000, which include a good plant. The trouble was caused by indorsing notes for about $4,000 for parties in the West.

GREAT NORTHERN ENGINEERING AND SUPPLY COMPANY.—Deputy Sheriff Rinn yesterday sold out the office furniture and materials of the Great Northern Engineering and Supply Company, at 246 Water Street, under three executions aggregating $238, and the sale brought $400. The company was incorporated on Sept. 24, 1908, with a capital stock of $10,000. Three months ago the company's statement showed liabilities of $5,200 and assets of $15,056.

HARMONY DEMOCRATS NOT IN CITY FIGHT

Leader Murphy's Suggestion That They Prove Their Loyalty Is Coldly Received.

HE LOOKS FOR HARMONY

New Movement Must Commend Itself to the Independents, Mr. Menken Says—A Bryanite Squeak.

It was said yesterday by one of the up-State signers of the call to the Saratoga conference of old-line Democrats, that the men enlisted in this movement were preparing to enter vigorously in the Democratic primaries this Fall in nearly every county outside of New York City, unless recognition was given them by the leaders now dominating the councils of the Democratic State organization.

This statement was made with a great deal of assurance by the up-State Democrat, who declared that there was much unrest and dissatisfaction among the up-State Democrats and much with the present party management. He said that in at least one-half of the counties represented by the men who signed the call, the rank and file of the Democratic voters, who for years had scarcely had a vestige of an organization, were ready to join hands with any group of party men enlisted in the effort of bringing about a change for the better.

There is no intention on the part of the signatories to the call for the conference to take any active part in the coming municipal campaign. Stanwood S. Menken, who gave out the official call for publication and is the originator of the movement, said explicitly yesterday that their participation in the movement would not in any way commit the signatories from this city to any stand in local political affairs or in the Mayoralty election. In fact, there are New York members in the movement who are expected to array themselves on the side of any anti-Tammany movement that may be effected before the campaign begins.

For all that, Tammany Leader Charles F. Murphy was in great good humor when seen at Tammany Hall yesterday. In commenting on the new movement he went even further in praise and indorsement of its purpose than he did in the brief interview on the day the call was issued.

Mr. Murphy seemed to have entirely forgotten the fact that he had been omitted when the invitations to the Saratoga pow-wow were sent out, as he told the reporters gloatingly that the prospective conferrees from this city, many of whom have not voted a Tammany ticket for years, must establish their title to recognition by the Democrats in power by faithfully supporting Tammany in this city and the Democratic candidates for Assembly and other offices to be voted for up State. Mr. Murphy broadly intimated that he was ready to kill the fatted calf and welcome to the Tammany fold the prodigals who long had roamed over the fields of Republicanism or independence.

"There are a lot of able men concerned in the movement," said the Tammany leader gravely. "I'm glad to see them trying to get together. It means a big thing for the Democratic Party. Many of them have been against the organization in the past, but there is no reason why they should be in the future. An effort will be made to find some common ground on which all may stand, and there isn't anything in the way that I can see."

In reply to a question Mr. Murphy said that it was evident to him that the Saratoga conferrees were working for the best interests of the party, without any factional purpose in view, just as he was doing "in his humble way and to the best of his ability."

"Then you look forward to a harmonious understanding and a lining up together of Tammany Hall and the Saratoga conferrees?" Mr. Murphy was asked.

"Not only that," exclaimed the Tammany chieftain with growing enthusiasm, "but these men who claim allegiance to the Democratic Party and who want to keep it united and powerful must support the Democratic city ticket, as well as the Democratic State ticket. The men who signed that call want what all good Democrats want, and seem to be enthusiastic about getting it. The Democrats of New York City will do what they can to help give them a good ticket."

One of the signers of the call said that if Murphy was for the Saratoga conference that should not be taken as an indication that the Saratoga conference would be for Murphy. It was suggested that Mr. Murphy's attitude might be due to the fact that in the getting together of the conservative Democrats he might see the means of unseating his enemy, Democratic State Chairman William J. Conners—something that he himself had sought without success to accomplish.

In defining more closely the scope of the new movement, Mr. Menken said yesterday that though such men as Senator-elect John Sharp Williams and Senator Culberson of Texas had expressed approval of a scheme to make it National, this plan had been dropped as impracticable. For the time being the movement will be confined to this State, with the hope that other States may copy the methods of the New York Democrats and that the movement thus may expand and ultimately become National in scope. Mr. Menken said yesterday:

"We have no plan of ousting any one and putting anybody else in his place. I have heard nothing among the conferrees of the reported intention to make ex-Judge Morgan J. O'Brien Democratic State Chairman, or to select any group as leaders. The movement is not directed against any man or any set of men—its sole purpose is to effect a Democratic organization within the party.

"To get the principle of Democracy as a working rule, I think for my part we may have to fight some who are opposed to such a change. I feel that in order to insure success we must commend ourselves to the best independent element which now stands aloof. The party has not been Democratic in its internal organization. The Saratoga conference should have some definite constructive plan to change this."

Harry Walker, a friend of Bryan, announced yesterday that the Democratic Progressive League would hold a conference in Saratoga on Sept. 1. The only promoters of the conference thus far named are Walker and James L. Dempsey.

MELVIN Z. HAVEN SUSPICIOUS.

David B. Hill's Old Ally Thinks the Conference May Hurt Income Tax Plan.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 12.—Melvin Z. Haven of this city, former State Committeeman from Onondaga County and for many years an ally of David B. Hill, appears to be suspicious of the Saratoga conference for the reorganization of the Democracy. After reading the call sent out by the leaders of the movement, Mr. Haven stated:

"If the objects of the conference are as stated in the call, then the meeting will be of benefit to the party. If, on the other hand, it should develop that the paramount object is to pledge the Democracy of this State in opposition to the proposed constitutional amendment permitting Congress to levy an income tax, then the meeting will work injury instead of benefit."

McINTYRE AFFAIRS IN COURT.

Dead Broker's Lawyer Declines to Give Up Papers in Two Suits.

The affairs of the late Thomas A. McIntyre, a Wall Street broker, who died a year ago leaving his estate in bankruptcy, will come into the Supreme Court to-day, when the attorneys for the trustees move before Justice Lehman to obtain the papers in two actions for $25,000 and $3,000 respectively. They are now in the possession of Maurice Leon, a lawyer of 60 Wall Street, who has a lien on them.

Mr. Leon said yesterday that as lawyer for the late Mr. McIntyre he brought an action against Elmer E. Smathers, the horseman, to recover $3,000, the value of certain fixtures in a house, 304 West Seventy-fifth Street, which his client had sold to Mr. Smathers in 1905. The latter, through his attorney, put in a counter claim for $1,000 for the use of the house by Mr. McIntyre after the sale. This action was about to come up for trial when Mr. McIntyre became a bankrupt.

The second action was brought by Mr. McIntyre against Mrs. Lucy Mitchell Lawson, daughter-in-law of Thomas W. Lawson, and the former wife of Herbert Barrum Seeley.

"When Mrs. Seeley got her divorce," said Mr. Leon, "she left all her affairs in the hands of Mr. McIntyre, who received and disbursed moneys for her. He sued for $25,000, which he alleged was due to him when he balanced his accounts with Mrs. Seeley.

"After Mr. McIntyre died a year ago the trustees in bankruptcy had themselves substituted as plaintiffs in the two actions, and I was asked to proceed with them on their behalf, but refused to do so.

"To-morrow the attorneys will attempt to obtain the papers from me without paying my lien on them on the ground that it ought to be attached to the recovery, if one should be had. I naturally think that my lien should be paid before I deliver the papers out of my hands."

DR. HALE A MARTYR FOR CATS.

Held for Trial on Charge That His Feline Friends Are a Nuisance.

The troubles between Dr. and Mrs. William H. Hale of 40 First Place, Brooklyn, and their neighbors over the large family of cats in the Hale home were vented before Magistrate Dooley, in the Butler Street Court yesterday morning when Dr. Hale was held for Special Sessions under a personal bond of $100. The actual complainant was Dr. Hugh A. Newman, Sanitary Inspector of the Health Department.

Dr. Newman told the court that he and other Health Department officers were denied admittance to the Hale residence on July 31, when they went there to investigate complaints that the numerous cats in the Hale homestead were a nuisance to the neighborhood.

Dr. Hale testified that he told the Health Inspectors they could get into his house if they chose to climb in at the windows.

"Only a wire screen barred their way," said Dr. Hale, who conducted his own defense.

TO DRESS UP FIFTH AVENUE.

Plans Making to Light and Decorate It for the Fulton-Hudson Celebration.

By request of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission, Robert Grier Cooke, President of the Fifth Avenue Association, called a meeting of a Special Committee of that organization yesterday to outline plans for decorating and illuminating Fifth Avenue during the two weeks of the celebration.

C. H. Littlefield of the New York Edison Company was appointed Chairman of the Committee on Illumination.

The Committee on Decorations is headed by H. A. Siebrecht, while the Committee on Reviewing Stands has William Post Sackett as Chairman.

The committees will meet for additional planning and reports on Aug. 23 at the rooms of the association, 542 Fifth Avenue, where yesterday's meeting was held.

AEROS WILL FLY TO ALBANY.

Hudson-Fulton Committee Seek Landing Places There for Competitors.

The Contest Committee of the Hudson-Fulton Aero Flights left here yesterday for Albany on the Hudson River Day Line steamboat Hendrik Hudson to make observations of the air currents along the route of the coming contests and to select a site in Albany for the landing of the competing machines.

Arrangements were made for observations from the bridge of the vessel. The committee will have luncheon to-day at the Fort Orange Club as guests of Jacob Ten Eyck.

RECORD FLIGHT FOR WILLARD.

Aeronautic Society's Pupil Goes Four Miles on Hempstead Plains.

Charles F. Willard, the Aeronautic Society's pupil who is learning to operate the Herring-Curtiss aeroplane over the Hempstead Plains near Mineola, L. I., gave the best exhibition of flying yesterday that he has shown since he began to handle the machine. He made two flights in the morning, one two miles and the other nearly four miles.

In the latter he made several turns, going once around the circular course and then performing a number of short curves, doing them so easily as to indicate that he has mastered the essential principles in the control and management of the machine.

At times during his flight Willard rose to a height of fifty feet. Both of his landings were perfectly made, the machine coming down within a few feet of the starting point.

C. H. ROBERTS IN TOMBS.

Ex-Manager of the Hotel Royalton Held on Grand Larceny Charge.

Charles H. Roberts, for eight years manager of the Hotel Royalton in West Forty-fourth Street, who was arrested on Wednesday night by Detective Flood of the District Attorney's office, in North Acton, Mass., and brought here to answer charges of grand larceny in the first degree and forgery in the third degree was held in $5,000 bail yesterday by Judge Mulqeen in General Sessions. No bond was furnished, and the prisoner was committed to the Tombs.

Henry W. Merrill, the owner of the Royalton, has charged Roberts with stealing $8,000, through fraudulent entries in the account books.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Fire in the East Buffalo plant of the Jacob Dold Packing Company at noon to-day caused $100,000 damage. The fire started in the hog and beef dressing department, and gained rapid headway. The office buildings were threatened for a time, and the office force, made up largely of young women, fought through dense clouds of smoke to remove $5,000 in cash to a place of safety.

AKRON, Ohio, Aug. 12.—The Buckeye Rubber plant was partially destroyed by fire this morning, with its hundreds of tons of raw material. The loss is estimated at $200,000, which is partially covered by insurance.

TOWER SCHEME CASH DIVIDED AMONG FOUR

Ex-Treasurer of Friede Globe Co. Accuses Elevator Inspector Langan at Coler Inquiry.

GOT $4,000 IN COMMISSIONS

Moore Declares Coler Removed Him Because He Would Not Approve Bill of Man He Never Saw.

Henry R. Wade, former Treasurer of the Friede Globe Tower Company, who was convicted in the Spring of 1907 of embezzlement, testified yesterday at the Coler investigation that after certain bills were paid $146,000 was left in the company's treasury while he was in charge.

"What became of this money?" asked Commissioner Mitchel.

"It was divided up."

"Among whom?"

"Langan, Friede, Burdette, and Price."

The first named is the Chief Inspector of Elevators at Coney Island, Friede was the head of the company, Burdette the architect of the tower, and Price the head bookkeeper of the company.

"How do you know this?" continued the Commissioner.

"I have their own word for it," replied the witness.

Wade is now out on parole pending a decision on his case by the Appellate Division. He told his story clearly and convincingly.

"I first met Friede in December, 1905," said he. "I was then in charge of the Empire Bond and Security Company, which was acting as his fiscal agent. He told me of the tower scheme, but I told him that I did not believe the plan to be practicable. Soon after this he came to me and told me that the thing had been tried out at St. Louis at the time of the Fair and that $100,000 worth of stock had been sold in six months. This made it look good as a stock proposition, and we agreed to take it up. The company was then organized and incorporated under the laws of Arizona. We were to get 25 per cent. for selling the stock."

"How did Langan come into the company?"

"Friede told me that it would be advisable to have him in, as he was the Inspector of Elevators, and he had had some trouble with him over the plans. He said he couldn't get them through until he had been fixed."

"How much stock did your company sell the Friede Company?"

"Three hundred and eighty thousand dollars' worth," replied the witness promptly. "Of this the Friede Company received $220,000 in cash and there was more coming in in installments."

"Did Langan sell any stock?"

"He went among his friends—that is, the people that he called his friends—the men whom he inspected and who couldn't refuse him."

Wade stated that on one sale Langan had received a fifteen-hundred-dollar commission and that in less than six months the witness had paid him $4,000 in commissions. He spoke of the holding up of the plans for the tower and said that Langan told him, "Leave it to me. Anything I say to Coler will go." He declared that, as he remembered it, $1,848,000 in stock had been disposed of by the company. Of this amount, as he recalled, $40,000 had been expended in the construction of the foundation of the tower, and Burdette had received at the start $250 a week salary and later $1,000 a week, 20 per cent. of it in stock and $200 of the remaining $800 to be divided between himself, Friede, and Langan.

"Are you sure that Langan got this money?" asked the Commissioner.

"I cashed a check for $200 on the Knickerbocker Trust Company for Friede and saw him give Langan $100."

Warned by the Commissioner as to the gravity of the charges he was making, the witness declared that he realized what he was saying and that he was certain everything he had said was true.

David F. Moore, former Superintendent of Buildings, who was removed by the Borough President, was the first witness and declared that he had been dismissed because he had refused to approve a bill for "extra services" performed by a man whom he had never seen.

Langan, as a witness, denied that he had ever received any salary during his connection with the Friede Company and that he had shared all his commissions with Friede.

TEACHERS KEEP BLOOMERS.

Board to Take No Action Against Young Playground Instructors.

The Board of Education will take no action on the matter of the young women who teach gymnastics in the Summer playgrounds wearing bloomers. This was definitely stated last night by Dr. Louis Haupt, 232 East Nineteenth Street, Chairman of the Committee on Special Schools. The question came up when Dr. Haupt invited Dr. Charles E. Bruce, a member of the committee, and Nicholas J. Barrett, Chairman of the Committee of Supplies, to make a tour of the playgrounds with him. They visited about twenty schools, and both his guests were greatly surprised to find the young women wearing bloomers and the men instructors wearing the abbreviated shirt common to gymnasiums. They expressed the opinion to Dr. Haupt that the women might better wear skirts and the men tennis shirts.

Bohemian Athletes Here for Big Fest.

About 100 members of the Bohemian Societies in New York went down the Bay yesterday morning to welcome to this country a delegation of twenty-two members of the Verband der Bohmischen Turnverein, which has its headquarters in Prague. The visiting delegates, who represent all the athletic clubs in Bohemia, arrived on the North German Lloyd Line steamship Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm. They come here to take part in the fest to be held at Sulzer's Park on Aug. 21, and to attend a big Bohemian Club meeting in Chicago from Aug. 27 to 30.

COMPOSER KERKER IS HOME.

Back from the Fatherland, Where He Got an Inhospitable Reception.

Gustav Kerker, the composer, and his wife, who went to Germany for a four weeks' honeymoon trip and remained fifteen months, got home yesterday on the North German Lloyd liner Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm.

While in Germany Mr. Kerker was ordered out of the country because he had not performed military duty, though born in that country, and because his proofs of citizenship were not satisfactory to the authorities. It was only by an appeal to Ambassador Hill that he was permitted to stay to carry out the work he had to do.

When he reached Berlin the manager of the Metropole signed a contract with him for an American opera in the German text, and Mr. Kerker wrote the music for the opera called "The Upper Ten Thousand." Julius Freund wrote the libretto.

The composer was born in Germany, but came to this country when 10 years old. His presence in Berlin was reported through the usual channels, and the authorities called upon him for proof of citizenship. He wrote to Washington for his papers, and in the meantime a policeman came every day to ask him if the papers had arrived and to renew the request that Mr. Kerker leave the country. When the proof came it was not satisfactory to the authorities, so in the end he had to appeal to the Ambassador.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerker will return to Germany in a few weeks.

CANOE CAPSIZES; BOY DROWNS

Companion Tries to Save Him—Himself Rescued by Boatmen.

While making their first trip in a canoe, which they had purchased with their savings, one boy was drowned in Flushing Bay yesterday afternoon and another had a narrow escape. The boy who was drowned was John Stewart, 14 years old, son of George Stewart, a contractor, living at 58 Lake Street, Corona. The boy who escaped was John Ordman, 15, son of William Ordman of 71 Lake Street.

The boys had purchased the canoe on Wednesday, and yesterday afternoon they decided to take it out. It was their first experience in a craft of any kind. There was a strong wind blowing and an ebb tide. Suddenly the boys realized how far they were out from land, and the Stewart boy stood up and said:

"Look, Ernest; I'm afraid we can't get back."

In moving about the canoe young Stewart caused it to capsize. Ordman could swim, but Stewart could not. In a valiant effort to save his companion's life Ordman told Stewart to catch hold of his leg. Thus handicapped, Ordman started for the shore, more than 500 feet distant. He had covered more than half the distance when suddenly Stewart lost his grip and went to the bottom.

A moment later the Ordman boy was rescued by Lester F. Albro of Corona, who had put out in a boat. In the meantime, Patrolman William Sprague of the Astoria Precinct had seen the boys struggling in the water, and, throwing off his shoes and his coat, started to swim to their rescue. He did not reach them, however, until after Ordman was taken into Albro's boat.

PROTESTS AGAINST BAD ROADS

Neglect Here Driving Autoists to Jersey, Says W. H. Reynolds.

William H. Reynolds, moving spirit in the Long Beach Corporation, Dreamland, and other Long Island enterprises, has written a leter to Mayor McClellan complaining of the condition of the Long Island roads and declaring that on account of this valuable patronage, particularly in automobile traffic, is being attracted from the city to New Jersey. The letter says, in part:

"The Merrick Road, leading from Manhattan bridges to the heart of Long Island, is now in so unkept a state that in many places it is impossible for an automobile to make any reasonable travel without accident—this is the portion of the road within the limits of the city and controlled by its officials.

"It may interest you to note that with the increased accessibility made by the opening of the tunnels New Jersey is grasping its opportunity of attracting automobiles to its splendidly kept roads and gaining a profit by their visit, while the taxpayer of New York City must travel over a bad road within his own city limits, and for the care and improvement of which he is assessed.

"As the Merrick Road now exists between New York and Jamaica, it is absolutely impossible for a man owning an automobile to make the trip without accident to lives or mechanism."

Mr. Reynolds closes by urging that the Department of Highways put the road in good repair.

SCENTS A TAMMANY PLOT.

Democratic Union Discovers "a Large Field of Political Graft."

The Democratic Union, which is out to fight Tammany Hall, promulgated yesterday its discovery "of a large field of political graft opened on Long Island by the Water Department." The head of the Water Department is John H. O'Brien, whose close affiliation with Tammany Hall has been attested to by two bitter primary fights which he led against the organization.

The "large field" is defined in the statement as the appointment of a corps of engineers and experts to collect data and information to help the city defend suits begun by property owners on Long Island who say that their ponds and wells are running dry owing to the city's efforts to get an increase in its water supply by sinking artesian wells in their immediate vicinity.

Criticism is also made of the requisition for $25,000 for a pump which, says the Democratic Union, "is to be supplied without public bidding by a firm of Tammany contractors in the Twenty-eighth District."

ALLOWS TRAIN TO BEHEAD HIM

James Boyle of Brooklyn Places Head on Railway Track at Mount Kisco.

A well-dressed man, who is believed to be James Boyle of 124 North Oxford Street, Brooklyn, was killed yesterday at Mount Kisco by a Harlem Railroad train. The railroad employes say that he laid his head on one of the rails and allowed the milk train to decapitate him.

Coroner Iles is not sure, however, that he committed suicide and held over a verdict of accidental death.

Names New Tobacco Examiner.

George W. Wanmaker, Appraiser of the Port, announced yesterday that Conrad Alheidt, in business in Eighth Avenue, has been appointed at a salary of $2,500 per annum, to succeed Isador Vachs, who resigned last week. The appointment is for ninety days. During the interim, the Civil Service Commission will hold an examination, after which a permanent appointment will be made. Mr. Alheidt may take the examination if he cares to.

THIRD HOME OUSTED FROM ELLIS ISLAND

Austrian Immigrant Society an Unfit Place for Aliens to Go To, Says Williams.

SEEKS TO SUPERVISE THEM

Commissioner Framing Rules That Will Put All Such Aid Societies Under Government Control.

Immigration Commissioner Williams announced yesterday that as a result of the investigation which he has been making into the conduct of the various homes established here ostensibly to care for immigrants, he has barred from Ellis Island the Austrian Immigrant Society's Home, 170 East Eightieth Street. This makes three homes that have been shut out from representation on the island within as many days.

It also came out yesterday that the Commissioner's object in purifying the immigrant homes here is to have them all put under Government supervision. With this end in view the announcement is made that the Commissioner is now at work on a set of rules to be submitted with his report to Washington. The rules will have to be accepted by the management of each home and in accepting them the homes will come under the direct supervision of the Government. They will also be held more strictly to account for the money charges made to arriving aliens, and they will be forced to keep a closer watch on the young women entrusted to their care.

As a result of the investigation there may be a series of prosecutions by the Department of Commerce and Labor. The scope of the department's action will be determined when Commissioner General Keefe of the Immigration Bureau reviews the report of Commissioner Williams at Ellis Island.

In his letter to the Austrian Immigrants' Home, dismissing its agents from Ellis Island, Commissioner Williams says:

> I have become satisfied that your Immigrants' Home is not a fit place for immigrants to go to. Therefore I withdraw your privilege of representation at Ellis Island. If you desire that I furnish you with my reasons for this action, I shall cheerfully do so, in writing.

The present Austrian Home grew out of the Austro-Hungarian Home, formerly at 14 Greenwich Street, which was put off Ellis Island by Commissioner Williams in 1904. As a result it split into two parts, and there now exists the Austrian Home, in East Eightieth Street, and the Hungarian Home, in State Street.

One of the grounds on which the Austro-Hungarian Home was put off the island in 1904 was the report of the Health Department of New York.

Supt. August Anton Jakopic of the Austrian Home said last night that the management was much surprised at the Commissioner's letter of exclusion.

"I cannot imagine what charges he has to make against this institution," he said. "We do not mistreat immigrants; we do not overcharge, and we do not run the home for gain.

"The only possible ground for the Commissioner's action might be that the building is old and perhaps not sanitary.

"This place was built to accommodate sixty to seventy persons, and we never have that many. Seventy to 80 per cent. of those in the home are usually here as objects of charity."

Dr. Breilenfeld, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the home, has written to Commissioner Williams, asking that the reasons for his action against the society be given, and he has promised that the management will co-operate with him in correcting any abuses.

CROWDS FILL CONEY ISLAND.

Cool Breezes No Bar to Throngs Along the Beaches.

For the last few days larger crowds even than usual have flocked to Coney Island, and yesterday the parks were crowded and Surf Avenue and the Bowery as full as on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon.

Luna Park was crowded from morning until night with a big crowd, who tried all the rides and visited all the amusement enterprises. Among the number were 2,200 Odd Fellows from ten lodges in Brooklyn. Dreamland also had its quota of visitors. More than 75,000 people visited the park on tickets supplied by a trading stamp company, which gave its annual outing there yesterday.

THE MARKING OF IMPORTS.

Stringent Rules of New Law Worry Importers—Conference of Officials.

The administrative officials of customs at this port held a conference yesterday at the Custom House to consider the marking of imported merchandise, as provided under the terms of the new tariff law. Under the Dingley law, the lines were regarded as rather tightly drawn in this respect, but under the new measure the regulations are much more stringent.

Those present at the conference included Collector Loeb, George W. Wanmaker, Appraiser of the Port; Henry C. Stuart, Special Deputy Collector; Henry M. Clapp, Special Deputy Appraiser, and others. At the close of the conference it was said that nothing official would be issued yesterday, but that the Collector might have a statement to make later.

It was learned yesterday that importers in many lines are worried about what they term the drastic provisions of the section of the new law which specifies that all "articles of foreign manufacture or production, which are capable of being stamped, marked, branded, or labeled, without injury, shall be marked, stamped, branded, or labeled, in legible English words, in a conspicuous place."

According to the importers, the stamping of the country of origin on every article "capable of being branded," will entail a practically prohibitive cost on many lines of imports.

LIFE SAVER FALLS FROM POLE.

Tackle Breaks and Harry Arnold's Spine Is Fractured.

Harry Arnold, a young life-saver at the United States Life Saving Station at Rockaway Point for the last seven years, returned from a vacation of two months yesterday and one of his first duties was to climb a thirty-foot pole in front of the station and overhaul the tackle of the breeches-buoy which is shot from the top of the pole.

Arnold pulled himself to the top of the pole in a bo'sun's chair and was swinging there at work when the tackle broke. He fell, striking on his back on the top of a three-foot post to which the guy ropes supporting the taller pole were made fast.

Fellow life savers picked him up unconscious. They summoned a St. Joseph's Hospital ambulance from Far Rockaway. In the hospital it was found that his spine was fractured and that he probably had internal injuries. It was said last night that he would probably die.

HELD FOR DROWNING COLLIE.

Special Officer Is Said to Have Tied an Anchor to the Animal's Neck.

Herbert Gelhart of Jewett Avenue, Douglaston, L. I., a special officer employed as a watchman there, was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Connelly in Flushing on a charge of cruelty to animals. Charles Ewart alleged that last Sunday Gelhart tied a rope around the neck of his Mexican collie dog, and fastened an anchor to the other end of the rope.

Then, it was alleged, Gelhart took the dog out in a boat on Douglaston Bay and threw it into the water. Despite the anchor the animal tried to keep afloat, and, according to Ewart, Gelhart hit it on the head with an oar four times before it sank.

The defendant was held in $500 bail for examination on Aug. 20.

METROPOLITAN CHIMES RUNG.

Test Made of Big Bells in the Tower—Weigh 13,500 Tons.

Crowds of people stood in small groups in Madison Square yesterday afternoon listening to the chimes of the big bells which had been placed in position on the forty-sixth story in the tower of the Metropolitan Life Building, and were being tested by an expert from the firm that made them.

In a few days the bells, which are said to be almost twice as high from the ground as any other large bells in the world, will strike every quarter of an hour. Their weights and tones are: 7,000 pounds B flat, 3,000 pounds E flat, 2,000 pounds F, and 1,500 pounds G.
